FARMER'S AUTUMN FASHIONS.

MAGNIFICENT AND MATCHLESS WINDOWS.

SPLENDID SPACIOUS SHOWROOMS.

AUTHENTIC INTERPRETATIONS.

OF

AUTUMN AND WINTER MODES.

All day yesterday the fashion and beauty of Sydney foregathered at Farmer's Windows and strolled through the spacious and splendid Showrooms, whilst on every side unstinted praise was bestowed upon the unique and matchless display of Autumn and Winter Fashions.

To-day and following days of the week will see the Fashion Pageant continued in all its varying beauty, appealing to the lovers of the beautiful, revealing every day some new Paris productions.

Although there are distinctly new styles to be seen in this magnificent display of the latest Paris and London Fashions, yet, we find the influence of the later Victorian period asserting itself. To it belongs the Draped Skirt; but the graceful outlines of the Opera Coat are decidedly Grecian in effect; from Spain comes the clinging scarf; while long-roll Collars are reminiscent of that famous woman, Catherine de Medici.

FARMER'S MILLINERY SALON.

BEAUTY IN THE SUPERLATIVE.

"Practically bringing Paris to Pitt-street" is the verdict of one who is a competent judge of window displays and of fashion expositions. There's an artistic beauty and an undoubted charm in Farmer's Autumn Exposition, whether it be in the matchless windows or the spacious and palatial Showrooms.

And the grand Millinery Salon shows "beauty in the superlative." Amongst the predominant tones of colour are various shades of tan (the most conspicuous being Leder), which will be much favoured during the season.

Black and White are amongst the popular shades (if, indeed, scientists will allow us to call Black or White a colour), and lend themselves most artistically to the present fashions in Millinery.

In Velvet and Plush some very dainty Millinery modes are shown, some beautiful shades of Mole being particularly attractive and smart.

Here and there sombre shades are touched artistically with Coque de Roche, and Cerise Feathers are again much favoured, but the high mounts have given place to flat effects—mostly encircling the crown.

The shapes are most becoming, and small to medium sizes predominate.

GRAND MILLINERY EXPOSITION.

YOUR INSPECTION INVITED.

LADIES' EVENING COATS.

SPORTING COATS AND BLAZERS.

AT FARMERS.

Some of the Evening Coats are in most exquisite Golden Brown Satin, whilst others are in Rich Brocaded Velvet or Soft Black Meteor Silk and Moire. Superb effects are obtained by linings of contrasting shades.

Blazers or Sporting Coats are shown in almost startling shades, producing a very riot of colour, but all beautifully and skilfully blended, sometimes of Silk and Wool, and in other cases in Fine Wool only.

THE LITTLE GREY SHOE.

BY PERCY JAMES BREBNER.

(ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

CHAPTER XXV.—Continued.

Again I was tempted. The whispers in which we spoke gave our conversation such a sense of intimacy that it was difficult to keep my secret.

"I will remember nothing but what you bid me remember," I answered. "I think it was fate brought me to Dravstadt, so that I might be at hand to serve you, and if we reach the frontier safely I have no quarrel with fate."

"How came you to Dravstadt, Captain Heselton?"

"As a piece of wreckage comes to shore," I answered. "The story is too long to tell now. Mademoiselle, there will be no rest for us to-night, and last night you can have had none; could you not sleep a little, while there is opportunity?"

"I am not tired."

"Still, try to sleep."

"And you?"

"I am used to long vigils. You may trust me to keep good watch."

"Trust you! Did ever woman trust man more?"

I think she meant to thank me chiefly because I had not spoken of love. I heaped more leaves together that her couch might be comfortable. It was only her spirit which had denied fatigue. In a few moments she was asleep.

It is a good thing when a woman trusts a man; he feels more like the creature God meant him to be. Yet, with the knowledge that I was so trusted came a keener sense of my unworthiness. Oh, I am no sentimentalist, nor would I make myself worse than I was, that were foolish and unnecessary. Something of good had clung to me; I had not coarsened as had many of my comrades; but in a measure at least I had lived as my fellows. What else was to be expected? Until my lady had walked into the barrack yard that afternoon, what reason had I to live otherwise, or to reverence women? Our environment was against us. Those who would know Gentlemen of the Guard in Dravstadt were of small importance. Were a woman pretty enough to quarrel about, her kiss was for the man who fought for her successfully. Since I had known my lady, my soul had been astir with better things, and I sat watching her as she slept, a smile upon her lips; I would have given much to have had no part in some of the doings in Dravstadt.

She slept long. It was a wise thought of mine to make her rest. When she woke, the afternoon was well advanced. She sat up suddenly, startled to find herself there.

"I was dreaming," she said.

"Pleasantly, I trust."

"Yes. I awoke a little too soon to know the end."

"Life is like that, too," I answered.

"Cannot you sleep a little, while I watch?" she asked.

"No."

"You do not trust me?"

"Mademoiselle, I will sleep when you are in safety, but not until then."

"It is darker, surely. I have slept a long time."

"It is afternoon, but our waiting is not over. I was to die at noon to-day. The Count gave me a choice last night, and my choice led me to death."

"Death has been cheated," she said.

"Thanks to you, mademoiselle. Last night, I do assure you, I thought I had come to the end of my adventures."

"And to-night—" she paused. "Who can tell what the night may hold for us?"

"Good, mademoiselle; never doubt it. This is the second time you have saved my life."

"The second time?"

"On that night at the palace when you escaped from the crush with the Princess, do you remember that I could scarce keep the door open for you to pass? One of your shoes was wrenched from your foot."

"Yes, I remember."

"A little grey shoe, mademoiselle. It looked so fragile, such a dainty thing to lie there and be trodden under hurrying feet that I picked it up and thrust it in my tunic."

"Why?"

I did not answer for a moment.

"It belonged to you, so surely I may say you saved my life. In the fight that night, one thrust it turned aside; another, the heel stopped altogether. You see, mademoiselle, the stain is here, and look at this hole in the heel. I warrant the maker of this never guessed what a purpose it was to serve."

I had the shoe in my hand, and she had bent forward to look at it when I started to my feet. In a moment I had thrust the shoe away, and my sword was gripped in my hand. Someone was pushing his way through the undergrowth, even as we had done; one, or it might be two men, the sounds did not tell me exactly. I could hear the slow pushing forwards, the sharp snapping of the twigs as a path was made. No chance visitor this, but someone who knew of this hollow.

"Stand by this tree," I said in a whisper to my lady, giving her my hand to help her to one of the saplings growing half way up the steep bank. "You must still be brave."

"I have no fear."

"Cling to this tree, and do not leave it, whatever happens."

"I do not promise that."

"You must."

"We are in God's hands, Captain Heselton, and He gives me the one man I would have near me in such an hour as this. Look!"

I was facing her for a moment, every fibre that was in me trembling at her words. She was pointing across the hollow behind me, and I turned to look.

At the top of the bank opposite the bushes had parted. Pale, dishevelled, only partially recovered from the blow I had given him that morning, was the seneschal, and behind him stood Christian of Varna.

CHAPTER XXVI.

TWO LOVERS.

The sight of me seemed to put new life into the seneschal. A look of malignant triumph came into his face as he pointed at me and turned to his master. The Count laughed, that boyish laughter which always had something so attractive about it.

"I said we should meet once more, Heselton. It is not my fault that it was not at noon to-day."

I did not answer. I was listening for sounds in the wood behind him, wondering how many men he had within call, thinking how I might trick my enemies even at this eleventh hour. The Count guessed what was in my mind.

"We are alone, we four; you and I, each with his witness. There is no need to speak in whispers. We might shout a long while before we were heard. This is a secure retreat. But for the seneschal here, who chanced to know of it, and realised how likely a hiding place it was, you would not have been found. You are a fool, Heselton, or you would not have spared this fellow's life a second time. You knocked the senses out of him this morning, but some men have hard skulls. He is one of them, and has recovered in time to ruin your little plans."

So light and bantering was his tone, no one would have imagined that deadly business was on hand. I did not speak. I did not know whether these two were alone or not. I did not move from where I stood in front of my lady.

"And yet you are not all a fool," the Count went on, "for you have not been so thoroughly tricked as I. You saw the quarry plainly enough, recognised the quality of it, and pursued it without a thought of the consequences. Just like an Englishman, but how could you hope for a happy ending? A King and a Captain of Horse. You are too fond of playing against heavy odds. I can admire your courage and laugh at your impudence, but for you it is a serious business."

"Not quite so serious as it would have been had we met at noon," I answered.

"Truly, this is a more picturesque setting, and the presence of the lady to see the end adds piquancy to the situation. You were unwise not to listen to the Princess last night. I think you must have treated her in a somewhat unmannerly fashion. She came to me full of anger, and you can guess what she told me."

"I cannot."

"Everything," he answered; "and since she has done me such excellent service, she shall go free. She has my permission to leave Syere whenever she will. You have my word for that, Heselton."

"If that be true, you lift a burden from me," I said.

"Though you believe reluctantly you answer cleverly. An excellent diplomatist lies hidden under the soldier in you. When first I laughed with you at the strange serving maid who had caught your fancy, I did not dream how subtle a man I had to do with."

DREADFUL ERUPTION ON HANDS AND FEET. 88 Wilson-street, Redfern, N.S.W.—"About three years ago my little girl, aged seven years, had dreadful eruptions on the hands and feet, also the head. The sores came out in small white blisters which in a day or two would break and spread, and eventually become quite raw. Her hands were one mass of sores and dreadfully itchy, and at times very painful. She got quite thin and miserable looking, and nothing we could do did her a bit of good.

"I at last tried a set of Cuticura Remedies, and in a week's time she was wonderfully improved, and by the time I had used the second set of Cuticura Remedies the eruptions had almost disappeared, and only left a red mark, which wore away gradually, and now quite disappeared. Since then she has not had a return of the complaint, and she is now ten years old." (Signed) Mrs. Elvira Leonard, April, 1912.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each with 32-page Skin Book will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. M, Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

BUILDINGS AND WORKS.

PROGRESS OF THE TRADE.

GOVERNMENT WORKS.

The great bulk of the work in the Government Architect's Department is now being carried out by day labour, with a contract here and there. Many of the jobs in hand are nearing completion, and very little new work of importance is coming out. The shortage of funds prevents the department from proceeding with schemes for which plans have been prepared. Some works have been stopped. In fact, progress is slow, but buildings that are actually necessary are being pushed along as speedily as possible.

The new parcels office at Redfern Railway Station will be completed in about six months. Two additional stories are being added. The Registrar-General's building is also nearing completion. The main entrance steps are being placed in position. The building is a splendid addition to the architecture of Sydney. It is a very fine example of Gothic in the Tudor period. The cost of this building was about £90,000, and the work was carried out by Messrs. Loveridge and Hudson, under the supervision of the Government Architect. For some time the western wing has been in occupation by the Births, Deaths, and Marriages branch, and also by the Deeds branch. The remainder of the building will be ready for occupation at an early date.

The new offices for the Public Instruction Department are now making headway, but the pace has hitherto been very slow. It is of course a day-labour job. At present the outer walls are not up to the level of the ground floor. The internal and back walls are in brick work. A feature about this work is the introduction of the sand and lime bricks into the walls enclosing the vehicle quadrangle at the back. They are an excellent sample of this class of brick, and quite equal to anything yet produced in that line.

The work of erecting the Nurses' Home at Prince Alfred Hospital is proceeding slowly by day labour.

The National Library building is "stuck up." Some of the concrete foundations were put in, and then the gates were closed. "No money" caused a stoppage of work.

The work of puting in the foundation for the stables and hospital at the Veterinary College, within the University grounds, will be proceeded with immediately by day labour. Once the foundations are in, whether the superstructure will follow immediately or not remains an open question.

The Long Bay Penitentiary, about which so much has been written during the years that this building has been in course of erection, is at last nearing completion.

The contract of Messrs. Howie and Sons was long since completed. This firm were the contractors for the main range of cells, the hospital and kitchen blocks, and the workshops. The Government is now erecting the observation range of cells by day labour, and when this portion is complete there will still remain other work to be done before the buildings are quite finished.

Additions to the workshops and the dining-room for the staff and the stores have been made to the Gladesville Hospital for Insane. This was done by day labour.

Additions are being made to the Women's Hospital, Crown-street. The work is by day labour. The work is proceeding rapidly. In addition to the new wing many internal improvements are being introduced.

In the resumed area a contract has been let for the erection of shops and dwellings in Princes-street, as a Government investment, at a cost of about £7000. In George-street North 11 new shops are being built by the Government, also a store. In all about 45 shops have been erected in this way by the Government Architect's Department, as well as hotels, State Clothing Factory, motor garage, etc.

Plans are complete in the Government Architect's office, and tenders are called, for making additions to the Redfern Public School, and remodelling the interior of the existing buildings, at a total cost of between £6000 and £7000. It is proposed also to expend a similar amount on remodelling the Burwood school, and adding to the same.

GENERAL NOTES.

In addition to supplying the Government with bricks, and allowing the Railway Commissioner about 400,000 per week, Mr. Hutton, the Government brick works manager, has started to deliver to the public at the rate of about 50,000 per week, and as he is only charging 30s at the kiln for common bricks, 40s for O.K. bricks, and bull nose and squints 50s, he has many prospective buyers. Mr Hutton has not all the available delivery plant he requires. But now that the lime and sand State brick works at Botany are getting into full swing and urning out 250,000 per week, the supply is becoming more plentiful, while the volume of building operations is not as great as it was last year. The associated brick yards are beginning to feel the slackness of the period. In some instances stacking out in the yards and the discharging of hands are going on; but there is no reduction in price. According to some in the trade there will be no reduction. In the past supply and demand regulated the price of bricks, and there is no reason why it should not do so in the future.

Large medical chambers are to be erected in Elizabeth-street. The plans have been prepared in the office of Mr. John Reid, architect, by whom tenders are now being received. The closing date has been fixed for to-morrow.

Messrs. W. M. Nixon and Sons, architects, have completed plans for alterations and additions to a residence at Bellevue Hill. In the same office plans are in course of preparation for a cottage near Hornsby, and for two cottages at Bondi.

In the office of Messrs. Robertson and Marks, architects, tenders are now being called for additions and alterations to business premises in King-street for Messrs. W. T. Waters and Co., Limited. The two shops adjoining the King-street frontage to Waters' premises are to be pulled down, and the drapery premises extended over the new site.

Messrs. Power and Adam, architects, are preparing plans for extensive business premises in Park-street, city, and also for a cottage at Pymble.

A new Public school is to be erected at Lavington at a cost of £1020. A contract has been let to carry out the work.

The Kuring-gai Shire Council has decided that in future septic tanks will not be permitted to be erected on any land having an area of less than one acre, and that only under special circumstances will they be allowed to be erected on any land within the shire.

In the office of Mr. Edwin R. Orchard, architect, plans are being prepared for large business premises in George-street, and also residences at Neutral Bay and Wahroonga.

The Sports Club in Hunter-street is to be renovated, painted, and generally improved, under the supervision of Mr. D. Esplin, architect, who yesterday let a contract to Mr. J. Audsley to carry out the work.

A first-class cattle shed is to be erected in Quay-street, city, under the supervision of Mr. C. W. Durrell, architect. The work will be carried out by Mr. E. Forsyth.

Tenders are called for the purchase and removal of the old and well-known residence, Arthursleigh, at Burwood. The estate is being subdivided.

Plans are being prepared by Mr. A. H. Hale for a large cottage at Roseville.

EDUCATION.

FEDERAL SCHOOLS.

It is stated that as far as education is concerned the Federal Government and the State Education Department are working in complete harmony. The administration of education in the Federal territory has been the subject of negotiation between the Commonwealth and State authorities for some time. It has now been arranged that the New South Wales Department of Public Instruction will continue the administration, including the appointment and control of teachers, inspection of schools, maintenance of school buildings, and the direction of instruction in accordance with the Public Instruction Act. Any new school buildings required will be designed by the Education Department, and will be submitted for approval to the Administrator in the Federal area. In order to attract teachers of a higher qualification than would be provided under ordinary circumstances, teachers may be selected by the department and recommended to the Administrator, but it is stipulated that such teachers may be deemed eligible for promotion by transfer to any school in New South Wales. While in the Federal territory they will retain their State classification and status.

The salaries paid will be those prevailing in the State, but specially qualified teachers may be paid at rates determined by the Administrator and the department. Salaries and money spent on equipment will be paid in the first place by the department, and subsequently recouped by the Federal Government; but the erection of all buildings, repairs, and maintenance will be carried out and paid for direct by the Department of Home Affairs.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS' UNION.

At the last meeting of the New South Wales Public School Teachers' Union it was decided to appoint an organiser for the city. The organisers for the A.W.U. have offered to act similarly in the country districts on behalf of the Teachers' Union. Messrs. R. Shields, T. A. White, and G. Ross were elected delegates to the Trades and Labour Council. It was decided to ask the Minister for Public Instruction to receive a deputation from the union at an early date, to lay before him the resolutions passed at the Christmas conference. The meeting unanimously decided to ask the department to have suitable rooms set apart in school buildings for the use of teachers. The president (Mr. Shields) said that the time was opportune to agitate for an all-round increase of salaries, so as to place the teaching profession on equal terms with other public departments. He expressed the opinion that the State election should not be allowed to pass without a strenuous endeavour being made to secure the support of future legislators towards the improvement and amelioration of the service in such matters. There were several things that needed immediate adjustment before conditions would be made equitable and satisfactory to the average teacher.

EDUCATION OF GIRLS.

Mr. P. Board, Director of Education, states that when a girl passes the qualifying certificate examination the question arises whether she is to be taken from school or allowed to remain a year or two longer. He recommends that wherever possible girls should be allowed to take advantage of the two-years' course at one of the newly-organised domestic Superior Public schools.

"Hitherto girls, after passing the fifth class standard have merely studied the same subjects at a somewhat more advanced stage," remarks Mr. Board; "a few girls have had the advantages of taking a course of cookery lessons, and all have had the opportunity of learning plain sewing, and outside these subjects no attempt has been made to specially adapt the girl's studies to her future needs. If a parent wishes a girl to become a teacher, or to enter a profession, she should go to one of the High Schools. The leaving certificate, which marks the end of the High School course, will give her admission either to the Teachers' College or to the University.

"If, however, she is to be trained in domestic duties, or to enter into business, she should go to one of the Domestic Superior schools. The course of instruction has been carefully drawn up with the aim of fitting girls to manage a home. Arithmetic, for instance, in the common meaning, is replaced by household accounts, and includes lessons on the importance of acquiring habits of thrifty expenditure; examples of family expenditure in a working man's home; tenancy; methods of buying; what to keep in stock; how to buy meats, fish, poultry, vegetables, fruit, groceries, and so on; price lists; banking and insurance. Everything has a practical bearing upon life. Then there are lessons in cookery, laundry, dressmaking, millinery, gardening, art and home decoration, music and social exercises, while the course in English is designed to encourage a taste for wholesome reading, instead of the trashy literature upon which so many girls waste their time. The health of the girl is safeguarded by physical training and organised games, while a determined effort is being made by carefully compiled lessons in civics to do everything possible to train the girls in all true womanly qualities.

"In addition, the second year's course includes lessons in the care of infants and of the sick, while girls who intend to go into business will be trained in business principles and practice. The department wants every girl to remain at school long enough to take advantage of this practical education. Carried out in the spirit in which it is intended, I am sure that with the co-operation of parents, it will result in fitting girls to successfully manage what from successful management must become happy homes."

THE WEEK IN LONDON

AN AUSTRALIAN'S NOTES.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Britain's Policy of Safety.

LONDON, Jan. 17.

The man in the street mostly thinks that the game which is being played by Britain in the conferences between the ambassadors of the Triple Alliance and the ambassadors of the Triple Entente is chiefly bluff, and that Britain would not fight. It is a very natural supposition, because at first sight there does not seem much to fight for; but I am informed by one who is in a good position to know that it is a very great mistake; and that if Russia became involved with the Triple Alliance Britain would certainly fight—not because she would be dragged in by any engagement to France, but for another and simpler reason: because she has consistently based her safety for more than a hundred years on the plain policy of maintaining the balance of power in Europe, and the Foreign Office holds to that policy as steadfastly to-day as it did in the time of Napoleon. The policy, in simple words, is this—Never to allow any one Power to become so predominatingly strong as to place the safety of Britain on the seas in the palm of its hand. To prevent that, the power of Britain has always been thrown into the scale against any Power which appears likely to become overwhelmingly strong.

This policy for the present throws Britain against Germany; but I believe it is realised by some of those who direct the nation's course that a more formidable Power in the long run, though she is eclipsed for the present, is the great nation of the Russians. It is quite possible that people now living will see the day when Russia again, both in Europe and on the Indian border and in the Pacific, will be the Power most formidable in Europe and in the world. In that day the weight of Britain will be transferred to the side of Germany, instead of thrown against her.

Whether that outline of the policy which decides peace and war for Australia is correct or not, the Canadian Government will know, and will be able, through its Minister attending the Defence Committee, to influence the decisions affecting the Empire of which it is a member. Australia, however, apparently will prefer to swallow her medicine, like a child, with her eyes shut, and trust the doctor to decide for her.

A Really Great Feat.

Mr. Lloyd George undoubtedly achieved a tremendous success this week, when, on Wednesday, after more than a year of bitter and often spiteful opposition, columns of misrepresentation, and not a few persistent and honest doubts, the National Insurance Act came into working. It has been solely due to his perseverance and fiery energy that this result has been reached. Again and again even the best friends of the scheme thought that it must go under, or, at least, be so altered as to destroy its great purpose. In face of ominous prophecies, even from his friends, Mr. Lloyd George lived down first the opposition of friendly societies, secondly the mean "servant tax" and "stamp-licking" agitation, and finally, and by far the most serious, the threat that after the people had been paying their contributions for six months they would find there were no doctors to work the Act. Personally, having seen Mr. Lloyd George in the middle of the "servant tax" agitation, one did not believe that his nervous strength could hold out under the strain. And yet here, as he emerges at last from the thick of the fight, he is apparently preparing to plunge into the portentous task of interesting the British people in a huge scheme of education.

Shall "Mimosa" Become "Wattle?"

The "Australasian Section" in London has decided that, just as Dominion Day (July 1) has been celebrated by Canadians in Great Britain, and by many English people as well for years past, so the time has come for Australians to see that Anniversary Day is celebrated in London also. As a first step towards this the "Section," at its meeting last night, decided to ask all Australians in England to wear a sprig of wattle on Anniversary Day; and all the Australian Government officers and other officers connected with Australia are to be asked to fill their windows with wattle.

Incidentally, this will probably be the best way of letting the British public know what wattle is—and that it is an Australian tree, and not a South African one. Most people in England have heard vaguely of "wattle" as a beautiful tree which grows in Australia or South Africa, or somewhere; and most of them also know "mimosa," which has become in the last few years one of the most popular flowers that can be bought about the London streets in winter time; but very few indeed know that the "mimosa," which they have seen, and the "wattle," which they have heard of, are one and the same. "Mimosa" is simply the Australian wattle transplanted in the sixties to the south of France. It grows on the Riviera almost as thickly to-day as it does in Australia. Canadians here import their maple leaves every year from Canada. The English know the Canadian maple well enough; and there does seem some prospect that "mimosa" may come to be known in England also as "wattle."

The Australasian Centre in England.

The "Australasian Section," which, amongst many other activities, has organised this celebration, has only sprung into being during the last two years, but has become easily the most important and interesting centre for Australians which exists in the old country. It is open, practically without payment, to any Australian who visits London, although there are probably still many Australians who miss its interesting gatherings through not being aware of its existence. The full name of the section is "The Australasian Section of the Royal Colonial Institute," because the Royal Colonial Institute very kindly gave it a helping hand, and courteously places its big smoking room at the disposal of any Australians in London on the first Thursday of each month during the winter for the section's meetings. At 8.30 p.m. there begin to roll up Australians from the offices of the Agents-General, Australians from the hotels in Northumberland-avenue, Australians from the boarding-houses in Lancaster Gate, Australian artists from Chelsea, Australian doctors from the hospitals, Australian law students from the Inns of Court, occasionally a Rhodes scholar, or perhaps a naval man who has warm recollections of his service in Australasian waters, and who is brought along by some Australian that knows him. They bring their pipes in their pockets, and plunge into the cloud of tobacco smoke to find some friend; whilst groups of acquaintances sink into the red leather lounges and arm-chairs yarning over old times and new. After 20 minutes or so the chairman emerges from some group of friends and introduces the member or guest who is to speak upon the subject of the evening. It is always arranged that some distinguished Australian, or someone in whom Australians are interested, shall give a short informal lecture on some subject in which he is expert. Afterwards, the discussion becomes general. A member, without leaving his armchair, may remove his pipe for a moment or two to fire a question at the speaker; the question is followed by other questions from all sides. Any well-known stranger who has been brought along—perhaps a Canadian Cabinet Minister or an English newspaper editor—may get up and put his views or not, exactly as he wishes. The discussion wanders off again, gradually merging into general conversation, which usually ends around the coffee table a little after 10 o'clock. In order that those who are present, especially the distinguished guests, may be free to express themselves as if in private, there is an understanding that the discussion shall not be published; and the only event that has so far marred the extraordinary success of these evenings has been the publication by an Australian paper of a wildly inexact account of the very debate in which this understanding was announced. The Royal Colonial Institute makes no charge upon the "Section" for the room in which it meets, and consequently the only expense is a nominal subscription of five shillings a year to cover the cost of coffee and a fee to the servants.

Chamberlain's Tablets prevent despondency and invigorate the whole system. They are much easier to take than pills.—Advt.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

BREEDING DRAUGHT STOCK.

The active demand for farm horses continues in all the States. There are no signs of an abatement. The New Zealanders have done well out of the scarcity in Australia, due to the great increase in wheat production. Although the last three or four years have seen an unprecedented market for horseflesh suitable for the agricultural industry, there is no sign that a still greater demand will not be experienced during the next few years. The cause which has stimulated the market must remain. The agricultural industry, great as it is, is only in its infancy. There is no limit to the possibilities of expansion in all the States, especially in New South Wales and Queensland. So far as the two States referred to are concerned, it does not seem likely that their rate of production can overtake the call for supplies, for the men on the land seem mostly inclined to do little more than cater for part of their own wants. With the rapid expansion of the wheat belt in New South Wales, enormous numbers of animals will be required to do the work. Of course, in some districts motor traction will be brought into use, but where there are belts of that sticky black soil so frequently found on the western plains, the motor-driven implements cannot be relied upon. In those cases the horse cannot be supplanted. For these reasons the keen demand for farm horses continues. New Zealand is putting forward greater efforts than ever to meet the market, but it does not seem likely that the breeders can fully fill the bill when the industry of wheat production here sets in in real earnest. For some years the Victorian breeders have benefited by the shortage in this State, and it must be admitted that they have shown our horseowners points in the art of production. It should be patent to the farmer in New South Wales that draught horse breeding a highly payable industry with excellent prospects.

It is admitted that our draughts on the whole are not up to the standard of Victoria. There are reasons for this. The farming population in the southern State are confined to a much smaller area, and thus they benefited by the competition which set up amongst those who had horses to offer to the breeding public. It may be that there was found to be great room in the reform of certification which weeded out so many hundreds of stallions there a year or two ago, as in New South Wales, but it is to the credit of the breeders that they assisted the Government in every way. The same movement here was more tardily supported, and were it not for the stand taken by the agricultural societies it is to be feared that it would have amounted to a very apologetic reform. The farmers themselves can now see the benefit of the policy which ordered out of the ring animals constitutionally unsound. There should be a still further effort made to improve the industry by the establishment of the premium system, which has done such good work in Victoria. There are one or two cases of it on record in this State, but for want of some organised system of management the method did not become popular. The idea is to club together to secure horses of a high-class character for the use of those who subscribe. From a general committee an executive is appointed to take control. At the Government parade held in the district in August one of the horses is selected. A premium of £30 is paid to the owner, and the association guarantees him a full book at a fixed rate. These subscribers get preference for that season, and they thus have an opportunity of getting the use of high-class blood, which would not otherwise be theirs. Next year they do the same thing, and thus they get a change which is most desirable in all stock husbandry. It is claimed that in the Euroa district, where this system has been in force for some years, there has been a distinct improvement in the quality of the draught stock. In selecting the horse the judges are not influenced by showring points so much as that the animal will be suitable for the locality. The system is simplicity itself, and it bears no taint of the cap-in-hand policy of appealing to the State Government to assist by buying horses for the use of those requiring the service.

THE BUTTER MARKET.

INCREASING IMPORT OF MARGARINE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Jan. 17.

The outstanding feature of the trade returns in regard to the butter industry is the increase in the import of margarine. It is the belief of the trade generally that the large excess in import over the previous year, valued at £1,062,720, has had a depressing effect upon present butter values. And large as is the import of this substitute, the figures really give no reliable data as to the actual consumption, for there are no accurate figures available as to the amount made in the United Kingdom.

It is interesting to note that the materials used in the manufacture of margarine have changed considerably in the last few years. This change, too, is still going on. Instead of being made mostly of animal fats, vegetable fats are being used—principally cocoanut. These have no special, or distinct, flavour, and are known in the trade as "neutral fats." They are produced cheaply, and there is no doubt that the resultant butter substitute finds a large sale. The improvement in quality which has taken place makes it now difficult for the ordinary housewife to tell it from pure butter. Certainly those for whom she caters cannot. The mode of selling the margarine is as interesting as it is "cute." The usual price is from 6d to 8d per lb. But the shops, nearly all of them, especially the multiple shops, advertise it at 10d or 1s per lb, with ½lb overweight. This is a more respectable amount for the working-class wife to name when ordering her goods. She will ask openly for a "pound of shilling" when she would hesitate to ask for a "pound of fivepenny or sixpenny." She saves her amour propre.

Margarine, however, cannot stand altogether against cheap butter, though once it is taken the tendency is to continue its use. For its great support it depends upon high-priced butter.

As to the present position of the butter market, it is dull; but one never looks for much of a rise after Christmas until the third week in January is reached. Tradesmen had to square their bank accounts at the end of December, and they do not like to launch out again at once. Besides, they put in extra stock for the Christmas season and the New Year; therefore many of them have sufficient supplies to carry them on a bit. Then there has been an opinion that supplies of butter were going to be very, very large, and, as always happens on a falling market, every buyer has expected that in a few days he would have been able to buy at a lower figure. And so he has put, and is putting off. There is a prospect, therefore, of the market getting better shortly. The change of weather that has apparently come at last is checking further fall, but there is no sign of any actual advance at the moment. The present prices of butter are, for choicest Victorian and New South Wales butter 112s to 114s, with occasionally 115s to 116s for some special Victorian. Queensland is making 110/ to 112/, with an occasional 114s; New Zealand, 114s to 116s, with an occasional 118s for something fancy; Danish is down two kroner, and stands now at 127s to 129s; Siberian is 110s to 112s; French, salted, 122s to 128s; and Argentine, 108s to 112s, all for choicest qualities.

THE ENGLISH WOOL TRADE.

MERINOS IN THE ASCENDANCY.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Jan. 17.

The event of the week has undoubtedly been the opening of the first series of sales for the current year, and this took place last Tuesday, wool once more commanding the unreserved attention of the whole trade. There was the usual large contingent of buyers, who appeared to manifest as much interest in the course of the market as ever, due no doubt to the somewhat disturbing factors which have come upon the scene during the past few weeks. There was nothing out of the ordinary associated with the opening, although it must be said that on the whole a very satisfactory initial sale took place. General expectations favoured no change, and that about sums up what actually took place. The vacation has been characterised with so little alteration, the position of things manifesting no inherent change, that it was hardly likely that Coleman-street would deviate from a sound general policy, and the first round passed off with a firm market being revealed. If anything, merinos sold in sellers' favour, some of the medium combing wools fetching ½d more than they did in December. That can also be said for the shafty pieces, bellies, necks, and broken, while it is noteworthy that the superior lines of merinos made no more than last series. Scoured merinos moved without change, the outstanding feature of the first sale being the good, general all-round competition. Crossbreds were somewhat sparsely represented, and here, too, both fine and medium classes were unchanged, though the coarser wools certainly eased a trifle, being mostly quoted par to ½d down. These were the only alterations, and, taken in the aggregate, the changes seen were less important than we have witnessed for several series of sales.

FINE WOOLS HARDENING.

Succeeding sales have certainly shown some improvement on the opening, and the trade is now confronted with the fact that fine wools are certainly against buyers. The catalogues submitted daily contain a splendid display of really good wools, and there is not the least disposition shown to hang back, but the opposite. Exceedingly good sales have taken place since Tuesday, and no class of merino wool hangs fire in the least. As a matter of fact, withdrawn lots which were taken in last December, and which have been submitted this week, have made oftentimes ½d to 1d more than what was then bid, while the most surprising thing of all is the sale of the New England Goonoo Goonoo clip, which was offered last Wednesday, a portion of the same clip being also catalogued last December. No doubt the circumstance is an abnormal one, but the fact is there, no matter what explanation is offered. Last November 27 the top price realised for this clip was 14½d, while this week it has made 17d, and I could see very little difference in the wool. Many buyers remarked that this clip this season is distinctly worse grown than 12 months ago, it being more wasty in condition and burry, but no doubt it is the superfine quality and handle, which are the prime factors in causing it to sell as it did. The home trade and a Roubaix firm of brokers ran it up, and it was not a question of one lot making this high price, for no less than eight lots sold from 15d to 17d, and big ones into the bargain. The second combing made from 13½d to 14d, broken 14d and 13½d, prices which show distinctly that big figures are forthcoming for wools of good quality and decent character. Last series we got in many cases the first consignment of many noted Australian brands, and this week the second shipments have been catalogued. A good number of clips have opened up distinctly better than many expected, and there is no doubt that the clip this season is finer and shorter than a year ago. Still, one does not meet with so much tender stapled wool as might have been expected. Just to show the course of the market I give below the prices realised last series and again this week for the fleece, pieces, or broken of the same clip, which I think illustrates how the market has gone:—

|---|---|---|---|---|
| Yathong | 13-12 | 13-12½ | 12-11 | 11½-11 |
| Bangate/Q. | 9½ | 9½ | 11 | 11½ |
| Wellshot | 13 | 14 | 12½ | 13½ |
| Burenda | 15 | 14½ | 12½ | 14½ |
| Bowen Downs | 13 | 13 | 11 | 11½ |
| Goonoo Goonoo | 14½ | 17 | 12 | 12½ |
| Cordillo | 20 | 20½ | — | — |
| Corunna Downs | 11 | 11½ | 9½ | 9 |
| Wallareena | 10½ | 11 | 10 | 10½ |
| Campbell House | 11½ bid | 13½ | 11½ | 11 |
| Yarrabee | 12 | 12 | 11 | 10½ |
| Goolgumbla | 14 | 15 | 12 | 13 |
| Wilson/Yarraberb | 14½ | 14 | 12 | 13 |
| Portland | 14 | 15 | 12 | 13½ |
| Ettrick | 11 | 12 | 10 | 10½ |

Quite a feature of Thursday's sale was the offering of the West Victorian wools, Mount Bute making is 6½d for grease super combing, and the same price for clothing. Wilson/Mount Emu made is 5d for grease combing, but 6 bales of greasy lambs made is 11½d, and went to Huddersfield. S. Wilson/Ercildoune was warm-water washed as usual, and made up to 2s 7½d for combing and clothing 2s 7d. The days of high wool values have in no sense passed, and excellent figures are still forthcoming for good, sound, well-grown wools. I call greasy merino wools to-day about 5 per cent. higher than last series, the strongest demand being for Western Australian, New South Wales, and Queensland grease, the West Victorian wools being more or less a speciality. The demand was never keener, and excellent prices are being paid.

CROSSBREDS SELLING FREELY.

It cannot be said that so far there has been any large quantity of crossbred wool catalogued, but the demand is exceedingly good, and those who came to Coleman-street expecting to see them on the weak side have so far been disappointed. America is represented by five buyers, besides two or three London brokers who have buying orders in addition, and are therefore prepared to give considerable support to all the light-conditioned parcels which come to be catalogued. As far as one is able to judge from the new wools offered, the New Zealand clip this season is going to be better than last, and the 1911-12 clip was certainly an improvement on its predecessor. The wool appears to be very well grown; it is light and very attractive, due no doubt to the somewhat excessive rains which visited the Dominion during the winter. There is little room for complaint as yet, and the prices paid indicate that they are distinctly higher than they were at the corresponding series a year ago. We now only want a robust crossbred yarn trade in order to see them lifted with the same freedom as merinos, and by March there can come over the whole situation a keen desire to operate. The American buyers who are present in Coleman-street say that they have not come to buy largely, and are not going to pay extravagant prices. Their classes are fetching no more than they would have done last series, although many say that they are obtaining a shade lighter wools at the prices. The difference is that last November-December they bought wools that were heavy and sappy, whereas to-day they are purchasing "new clip" which present an altogether lighter and more attractive appearance. I call fine and medium crossbreds equal to last series, and, although here and there low crossbreds are coming at ½d less, still 40's tops are going to cost fully 15½d without profit, so where the decline comes in is beyond the power of any man to say. Slipes are scarce, practically no half-bred lambs seem to be available, and prices are equal to December except for deep, coarse wools of the Lincoln order, which are usually ½d down.

BRADFORD'S RESPONSE TO LONDON.

As a result of the firmness of prices for merino wools, topmakers in Bradford are decidedly stiffer in their quotations. Some of the best makers are even going so far as to affirm that they will not accept less than 2s 5½d for their 64's, and profess to be indifferent about doing so, but when business is put through it has often to be done at a halfpenny less than the figure named. When it is borne in mind that 64's wool bought in London to-day is costing 29½d-30d in the top, it will be seen that their attitude is more than justified. The argument put forward is that Botany wools for combing are going to be scarce, and this contention bids fair to be realised, so that the relative idea that tops made from this type of wool will appreciate has much more in it than a semblance of truth. The way in which the sales have opened has convinced fine spinners that it is useless to think of trying to hold out of the market any longer, so they are now coming forward and buying to meet their immediate requirements, and the general feeling is that they will continue to do so. The immediate result of this is that the measure of business has expanded somewhat, and the trade generally is looking forward to a continuance of good trade.

In crossbred tops fine sorts have shared some of the impetus felt by merinos, and moderate quantities are passing out of hand. Coarse sorts are still suffering from the effects of the Balkan trouble, and, while the "stand in" cost of 40's tops bought in London is 15½d, that price cannot be made readily in Bradford. This is the worst feature of the trade to-day, and, whilst it is only natural for spinners to think they ought to be able to get in at a fraction less, because London values have eased a little, topmakers are equally confident that the price they have paid for the wool does not warrant them in taking lower values.

COLONIAL GRAIN, FLOUR, AND PRODUCE FACTORS AND COMMISSION AGENTS.

A new firm was inaugurated at 30 St. Mary Axe, London, on January 1, 1913, by Mr. William Harold Watson, who was a partner up to the end of 1912 in the London House of Berry Barclay and Co., with whom he had been connected for about ten years.

The London branch of the older Scotch firm of Berry Barclay and Co., of Leith, and Glasgow, was commenced under the management of his father, Mr. William C. Watson, who, as senior partner, worked up the colonial agencies during his close association of over 30 years with the business.

The new firm, in which Mr. H. E. L. Purcell has joined Mr. Watson as an active partner, will carry on its trade on similar lines to those of the old business, specialising in colonial produce.

The offices are conveniently situated next door to the Baltic Exchange, of which both partners are members, and they are also in direct telephonic communication with the Stand (No. 1) at the Corn Exchange, where the firm have the assistance of two salesmen of considerable experience in all branches of the business.

Messrs. William H. Watson and Co. are acting as Shippers' Agents for the sale, to any of the U.K. ports, of Australian and New Zealand Wheat, Flour, and all classes of Grain and Seeds, and are also in a position to handle Wool for sale at the London Auctions.

LAW REPORT.

IN BANCO.

OPENING OF THE TERM.

The Chief Justice (Sir William Cullen), Mr. Justice Pring, and Mr. Justice Sly, dressed in their scarlet and ermine robes, with full-bottomed wigs, took their seats on the Full Court Bench yesterday punctually at 10 a.m. in connection with the opening of the first law term.

Among those present were the Acting Attorney-General, Mr. D. R. Hall (Minister for Justice), and the following King's counsels, in full-bottomed wigs, Messrs. Wade, Knox, Garland, Ralston, Lamb, J. L. Campbell, Loxton, and Cannaway. Mr. C. E. B. Maybury, sheriff, occupied a seat to the right of their Honors on the Bench. A large number of barristers and solicitors were present.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE EVICTION.

After some formal business had been transacted, Mr. Knox, K.C., stated that he had had a conversation with Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson, Chief Judge in Equity, in regard to the application for an injunction, on behalf of the Citizens' Committee, restraining the State Government from using Government House for any other purpose besides that of a residence for the Governor-General. Mr. Knox said that his Honor was going to adopt the course of asking that, under a particular section of the Act, two other Judges should sit with him to hear the matter, so that the decision would be one really of the Banco Court, and the motion could be turned into a motion for decree. He thought that the Crown was as anxious as were the relators that there should be as little delay as possible.

The Chief Justice asked if counsel on both sides desired that course?

Mr. Knox answered in the affirmative. It was desired, he said, that the decision should have the force of the Full Court right away.

The Chief Justice said that he had not yet been informed by the Chief Judge in Equity in regard to the matter.

A PUGILIST'S AGREEMENT.

Mr. L. Armstrong, instructed by Mr. William Arnott, mentioned a matter in reference to the coloured pugilist, Sam Langford, and Mr. Hugh D. M'Intosh, formerly of the Stadium. He asked when the demurrer would be taken, as it was a matter of urgency.

The Chief Justice said, amidst laughter, that in the case of a pugilist the matter might be looked upon as one for urgency.

Mr. Armstrong said the case had been placed so far down the list that it was a question whether it would be reached this term. The plaintiff, who was a pugilist, came to Australia from America under agreement with the defendant. Under the terms of that agreement he was bringing the action. On his arrival in the country the defendant entered into an undertaking under the Immigration Restriction Act, requiring the plaintiff, that he should leave Australia within a certain period. The defendant was not now anxious to extend the time of that undertaking, and if the plaintiff was advised to leave he would simply be obliged to have the matter tried on his statement "de bene esse," which was not at all satisfactory.

The Chief Justice feared that no special provision could be made in the case. The Court would require some further information before it could disturb the list.

Mr. Armstrong replied that his main desire was that the case would be heard during the first term.

The Chief Justice said he had no reason to fear that the listed business would not be all disposed of. If anything particular arose respecting the matter it could be mentioned later on.

(Before Sir William Cullen, C.J., Mr. Justice Pring, and Mr. Justice Gordon.)

DECEASED LADY'S ESTATE.

In the case of Moir v Loxton, argument was resumed in regard to demurrers arising out of an action pending between James Moir, accountant, and Edward James Loxton, K.C., in respect to a guarantee. All pleadings were demurred to.

Mr. Ralston, K.C., and Mr. H. M. Stephen, instructed by Messrs. Norton, Smith, and Co., appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Knox, K.C., and Mr. E. M. Mitchell, instructed by Messrs. M'Carthy and Maxwell, for the defendant.

According to the particulars, it seemed that on June 30, 1894, Lucinda Jane Loxton (Mrs. Loxton, senior) mortgaged a certain property in North Sydney for £7000 to the plaintiff, James Moir, and Robert Maddrell. According to the deed the principal was to be repaid at the end of five years, while the interest was to be paid quarterly at the rate of 6½ per cent., reducible on punctual payment to 5½ per cent. By an indenture, bearing the same date, the defendant, Edward James Loxton, and his brother, agreed, in consideration of Moir and Maddrell lending £7000 to their mother, that they would make due and punctual payments of the interest. The interest was paid up to the quarter before April, 1897, and the plaintiff claimed interest from that time to March, 1910, a matter of nearly £6000. Mrs. Loxton died on July 21, 1898, but the mortgagees had, prior to that date, taken possession of the property and remained in possession till the sale, which was held in March, 1910. The Court, to simplify matters, when the question was before them last term, applied itself first to the questions as to whether the plaintiff was the right person to sue, and whether the guarantee extended beyond the lifetime of Mrs. Loxton. In a judgment given on November 18 their Honors expressed the opinion that the declaration disclosed a cause of action and that the guarantee was not confined to the lifetime of Mrs. Loxton.

Counsel addressed themselves to the demurrer to their first plea. The plea set out that the late Mrs. Loxton died without heirs and without having made any assignment; also that there had been no grant of probate or letters of administration of her estate. The ground of demurrer to this plea was the usual one, that it confessed and did not avoid the cause of action.

Mr. Ralston, K.C., for the plaintiff, said that the Court, in its judgment in November, practically interpreted the guarantee to mean that so long as the principal monies remained unpaid the defendant (the guarantor) was liable to pay the interest. So far as that was concerned, therefore, counsel submitted the Court had practically decided the point, and it was quite immaterial whether or not Mrs. Loxton left a will, that letters of administration were or were not taken out; or whether, in the meaning of the Probate Act, she left heirs.

The case stands part heard.

PRICE OF LEATHER.

ANOTHER TEN PER CENT. INCREASE.

The annual meeting of the Master Tanners and Curriers' Association of New South Wales was held on Friday at the Wool Exchange, a large number of members being in attendance. The principal business was the consideration of the unsatisfactory state of the trade, owing to the excessive high rates ruling for hides and skins during the past few months.

On the motion of the president (Mr. R. J. Anderson), and seconded by Mr. Clifford Bunce, it was unanimously decided that, owing to the continued and unprecedented values ruling for hides and skins, all leather be advanced in price at least 10 per cent., and that immediate steps be taken to secure same.

It was represented that at present rates business was being carried on at a loss to tanners.

WOMAN'S AWFUL DEBILITY.

WAS GIVEN UP BY FIVE DOCTORS.

TERRIBLE ILLNESS ENDED BY BILE BEANS.

Mrs. E. Wallace, of 384 Newcastle-street, West Perth, W.A., says:—"I was attacked by an illness soon after baby was born, which gradually became worse, causing terrible pain. This debility affected my system generally, while the whole of my nerves became numb, void of any feeling whatever. Five different doctors attended me, but all their treatment proved a failure. I could not get ease from the awful pains. Then they operated on me, but they might as well have put their knives into wood, for I had not any feeling whatever, and the operation was a failure. My case was regarded as hopeless, and I was given only a few hours to live.

"Some time previously I had read of a case similar to mine being cured by Bile Beans, so I told the doctor who was then attending me that I would like to try Bile Beans. He readily agreed, and a supply was obtained. When I had taken a few doses of Bile Beans the feeling in my nervous system returned, and hope entered my breast. I began to sleep at night, and I realised I was improving daily. As I continued taking Bile Beans, all obstructions and poisonous matter was cleared out of my system, and my health became better daily, and I was able to get about in ease and comfort. After a full course of Bile Beans my cure was absolutely perfect, and you can imagine my gratitude towards that wonderful medicine, for it saved my life after five different doctors had given me up." Bile Beans are sold by chemists and stores at 1/1½ and 2/9 per box.—Advt.

CLEAVAGE IN LABOUR.

During its recent session the P. L. L. Conference passed various revolutionary motions in a light-hearted spirit, confident, perhaps, that none of them would be likely to have any practical bearing on the present political situation. With one, however, it seems to have set machinery in motion which it may be unable to control, and the conference may now confess a certain sympathy with the mediaeval engineer who was hoist with his own petard. In decreeing an inquisition upon such members of the Labour party who have, on infrequent occasions, dared to think for themselves, the conference may find that it has taken more upon itself than its own constituencies will endorse. The "heresy hunt" was an expedition directed against big game, and the quarry seems by no means inclined to succumb without a struggle. Indeed, as we see in another column, some of the "heretics" refuse to recant, but glory in their recalcitrant attitude. The Minister for Works, for instance, has flung down the gauntlet in a characteristically outspoken fashion. He declares that, so far from regretting his lapse, he is prepared to sin again under similar circumstances. Mr. Griffith is a person of consequence in Labour circles, and if he gives a lead we may expect more to follow. Moreover, Mr. Griffith has been encouraged in his attitude by his own electorate. The Barrier endorses his position, and so far as Mr. Griffith is concerned the heresy hunters will return with an empty bag. The case of the Minister for Works is symptomatic. It is evident that between the denunciations of the P. L. L. Conference and the often legitimate aspirations of the ordinary Labour voter in New South Wales there is a wide and increasing gulf. We do not presume to speak with authority on the inner politics of the Labour party, but to the merest outsider two lines of cleavage in that party are very apparent.

In the first place there is an antagonism between Commonwealth and State which the last referendum proved, and which in the coming referendum Labour endeavours unsuccessfully to mask. In 1911 Messrs. Beeby and Holman were frankly opposed to the aggrandisation of the Commonwealth. In 1913 Mr. Holman has opportunely gone abroad, and Mr. Beeby has anticipated events. There are others who regard discretion as the better part of valour, and are by no means enthusiastic, not to say lukewarm. This is one wedge which, disguise it though they will, is being driven ever deeper into the fibre of Labour. There is another wedge which, in another direction altogether, is beginning to split their solidarity. This is the antagonism between the country leagues and the P. L. L. leagues, for which the Barrier announcement serves as a straw to show the way the wind blows. There are thousands and thousands of electors in the country who hearkened to the specious promises of Labour, and in voting for that party thought they were to enjoy the millennium. Now they find that they have to submit to an irresponsible body, which meets at the Trades Hall, Sydney, and represents no one but the "red rag" section of Labour. It is little wonder that the country Labour leagues prefer to manage their own business, and prefer to elect representatives of their own, rather than representatives who are prepared to be phonographs mechanically echoing, in season and out, the party cry of a cabal of extremists. It remains to be seen how Labour will deal with these internecine differences—State v. Commonwealth, and Labour democracy v. Labour despotism. The problems of this party at present are a lesson to Liberals to draw closer. Disunion in Liberal ranks has brought disaster before now, and the one thing Liberals must recognise is that in the forthcoming elections they must raise a single cry, anti-socialism against socialism. Democracy in its freest and fullest sense, with the widest possibilities for the development both of the State and the individual, is on the one side. On the other side are a bureaucracy worse than despotism; the tyranny of professional exploiters of the Labour movement; the subservience to a system in which one can call neither body, nor mind, nor soul one's own.

THE INTERNATIONAL SITUATION.

Whilst the renewal of the war in the Balkans has not yet produced any decisive victories on either side which are calculated materially to alter the situation, the general international situation in Europe continues to grow still more complicated, and to provide a number of difficulties, any one of which may at any moment bring about an extension of hostilities to the great Powers. Roumania's attitude towards Bulgaria may or may not be prompted by Austria, but it is clear that if she departed from her attitude of neutrality, the whole course of the military operations would be altered. Bulgaria, even with the aid of her allies in the Balkan league, could scarcely combine an offensive campaign in Thrace with the defence of her own northern frontiers. Roumania, having preserved a strict neutrality whilst her Balkan neighbours were carrying out their declared object of emancipating her kinsfolk, the Vlachs, as well as the other Christians of Macedonia, are now demanding some substantial compensation. At one time it was thought that Roumania coveted that portion of Bulgaria which is enclosed by lines drawn between Silistria, Rustchuk, Shumla, and Varna—the first two towns being on the frontier, Varna on the Black Sea, and Shumla south-east of Rustchuk. But the last three towns have been created anew by Bulgarian capital and enterprise during recent years, and they are now prosperous centres of the Bulgarian national life. This claim has therefore been abandoned. But Silistria is a fortified town, which has always been a menace to Roumania. It commands the Danube Bridge, and consequently also the railway connecting Bucharest and the Black Sea at Constanza, where so much Roumanian capital has been invested. The mere cession of the peak overlooking the town and a few miles of the neighbouring country obviously does not remove the danger to Roumania of the continued presence of the town itself, with its fortifications on her borders. The Roumanian Government is reported to have informed the Powers that the unsatisfactory course of the negotiations may necessitate recourse to military measures, and the outlook is undoubtedly critical.

The real seriousness of the Roumanian situation, however, depends on the attitude of Russia and Austria respectively. It is clear that the relations between the two Powers are becoming more strained, and in a state of tension almost any difference, however easy of adjustment in more tranquil times, may be magnified so as to create a casus belli. Austria is pressing her claims for the enlargement of the boundaries of the proposed autonomous State of Albania. It is true, of course, that the cession of too large a slice of Albanian territory to the allies would deprive the new State of some of its most vigorous inhabitants, and most fertile country. At the same time the allies have a claim to a considerable portion of the territory which they have conquered. A glance at the map will show that if the Austrian demands are conceded, and Skutari is included in Albanian territory, Montenegro will be deprived of the one large town near her borders, and of that free access to the sea and to the plains, which she has long coveted. Janina in the south is demanded by Greece, and is situated in a region which is largely Hellenic in origin, population, and speech. Prisrend, Jakova, and Ipek, all have been conquered by the Serbs, and have been included in the territory hitherto ear-marked for Servia. Will Russia join hands with her Slav kinsfolk over this adjustment of Albanian boundaries? Upon the answer to that question the peace of Europe in the near future very largely depends.

WHEELERS' WORK.

It is to be hoped that the wheelers at the Burwood colliery will persist in the conciliatory attitude which they seem disposed to adopt, and will accept the judgment of Judge Scholes. The dispute, which has held up work at the Burwood colliery for some weeks, did not seem a matter of great importance to those who initiated it—the wheelers. It was merely whether twenty youths should start work at 7 o'clock, the time for starting the miners, or 6.30 a.m. But to the proprietors the thirty minutes made a great difference, as it meant that for thirty minutes much of the work of the 240 other men underground would be rendered nugatory. The times which were quoted by Judge Scholes in his finding amply prove that this loss of work would occur. Hence we have his decision that the time for the wheelers to be at the pit bottom is 6.40 a.m., which, though it may be thought something of a compromise, quite justifies the stand which the Scottish-Australian Company took up. The move of the wheelers will now be awaited with considerable anxiety. It is true that the dispute upon which the Judge has given his finding applies to the Burwood colliery alone, and that dispute by itself could not affect other collieries, but it is known how easily the wheelers get out of hand. They have not the same responsibilities as the miners, and, having no steadying hand on them—because the oldest of them are little more than youths—they are apt to consider every grievance or fancied grievance as the one on which it is worth while to go to extremes.

The wheelers should remember that they depend for their living on the coal-mining industry and its prosperity just as much as do the coal-miners and as the coal-owners for their incomes. Anything which lessens that prosperity, which decreases trade, means less work, it means shorter hours, and less money given to them on pay day. What labour unrest has done to the Newcastle district we had a particular instance in a report from Chili the other day. So alarmed were some interests in that country at the effect of labour troubles, not only in Australia, but in England, that they abandoned the use of coal altogether, and substituted oil. The coalmines are now competing not only among themselves—country against country—but oil is making serious inroads in the coal trade, and every strike or threat to strike not only sends more users of fuel over to oil, but also encourages the casting about for inventions which will make oil fuel available over a larger area. That is what the wheelers no less than the miners have seriously to consider when they are tempted to down tools to gain some advantage which by the loss of trade it involves may in the end prove a loss to them. The strike involves another important consideration. It has brought up for review the whole question of industrial unions versus craft unions. And the question is the more complicated because of the overwhelming majority of one craft—the miners—in the industry. That craft in an industrial union could by its weight of numbers impose its will on the whole industry, and might compel conditions for its own advantage, while neglecting the interests of the smaller crafts of the industry. It is neglect of this kind which the wheelers, although they become eventually miners, feel has happened. Accordingly, they have formed a union of their own, which the miners have tried to coerce. In mining, if in no other industry, it is for the good of the industry that there should be but one union in order that the industry as a whole should decide on the claims to be fought for, but the miners if they made a less display of their strength when approached by the subsidiary workers might achieve better results.

THE COST OF LIVING.

The complaint of the housewives who have brought before the press the question of the high cost of living is well founded. There are comparatively few households in Sydney that have not keenly felt the increase in the cost of the commodities that are regarded as essential to the upkeep of an ordinary standard of adequacy of food and clothing. People who a few years ago were regarded as being in comfortable circumstances are to-day almost on the margin of the line of poverty, and this has been brought about, not so much by a reduction in income, as that expenditure has so greatly increased whilst the income has remained stationary. The increase in the cost of living is all the more disappointing and distressing to the poorer classes, inasmuch as the rise in wages from which so much was expected has been paralleled by a rise in prices that has not only knocked "the gilt off the gingerbread," but has in some cases diminished the size of the cake itself. The signatories to the letter of appeal to the press reside in every part of the suburbs, and they voice the sentiments of by far the greater proportion of the population of the State. It is interesting to discover that the people at large are beginning to realise that the sanguine prophecies of the Labour party as to the good results of their legislative activity have been so largely falsified that many of the workers, so far from benefiting, are in worse case than ever. Associated with the cost of living is that of the rise of rents, and it is here that the mischievous policy of interference with private enterprise by devoting public money to fanciful schemes is telling its tale of public oppression.

The withdrawal of skilled labour from the building trades, the tightening of the money market under the paralysing influence of Governmental subordination to a class avowedly hostile to capital, the indisposition to adventure on the part of those whose enterprise could solve in a great measure the housing problem, the recent discouragement of immigration on an adequate and worthy scale, are all factors in creating a situation which is becoming well-nigh intolerable. The inefficiency of the Labour programme as a means of securing fair conditions of life for the very persons for whose particular benefit that programme was called into existence is beginning to be realised, and there are unmistakable signs of restless dissatisfaction in the ranks of those, both men and women, who formerly swore to help to realise every plank of the party platform. As to the impression in the minds of the housewives that relief is to be sought by abolishing the tariff, it is refreshing to find the women of the country interesting themselves in fiscal questions, and more interesting still to find that they realise that the mania for taxation with which the Labour party is affected is so largely responsible for the condition of high expense in housekeeping which they deplore. Whilst the fiscal policy of the Commonwealth is undoubtedly responsible for the enhanced price of many of life's necessities, it is rather to the extravagance and foolhardy experimentalism of the Labour Government that we must look for the explanation of the trouble of which the housewives justly complain. In the effort to discover ways and means of taxing "the other fellow" in the interests of the class they represent, the Government has forgotten the irresistible play of the great laws of demand and supply, which take no note of persons or classes in their equalising swing.

The Week in London.—Britain's policy of safety is discussed in the "Week in London" (page 6) to-day, and the general opinion seems to have been that in a crisis Britain would not fight. But our special correspondent, writing with knowledge, declares the contrary to be true. Britain would fight, and in view of the position in the Balkans his comments are interesting. Mr. Lloyd George's success with the National Insurance Act is dealt with, and Wattle Day in London is shown to be increasing in popularity. Australians otherwise are holding up their end in the city of the great smoke.

Conservatorium of Music.—The action of the Government in setting aside a portion of the Federal Government House property for a Conservatorium of Music met with approval at the annual meeting of the Sydney Amateur Orchestral Society yesterday. Mr. R. B. Barton said that it would be of great assistance to the society. The opinion was expressed that it was a matter for congratulation that the Government had taken the matter in hand, and that it would be carried through. Perhaps a school would be established to encourage amateurs to take up instruments not frequently heard at the present time. It was decided to forward a letter of thanks to the Minister for Education for the steps taken in the formation of the conservatorium.

Prevention of Consumption.—The public demand has outgrown the capacity of the Haymarket Anti-Tuberculosis Dispensary, and the Government has been approached for further assistance. The National Association for the Prevention of Consumption reports to Mr. Flowers, who is associated with the Premier in the administration of the Chief Secretary's Department, that 140 new patients were enrolled last month; that an extra nurse to visit the patients in their homes has been appointed; and that larger premises are absolutely essential. Mr. Flowers stated yesterday that he was very pleased at the success of the dispensary, which had justified its existence. He hoped to see the system largely extended in the near future, and would confer with the vice-president of the National Association, and see in what further way the Government could help it.

High Cost of Living.—An appeal is being made by a number of housewives with regard to the high cost of living. "No doubt the Labour party will make us many fresh promises about what they are going to do," the appeal states, "but what have they done during all these years to lessen the cost of living? The very men who have promised so much in the past have voted for the high taxes that worry the housekeeper. By means of the tariff they have made trusts and combines. Now they say they want the Referendum. Why will they not be honest and abolish the tariff, which is the cause of high prices? What is the good of dealing with effects of evils and neglecting the cause? Women are naturally freetraders. To find protectionists you must look among the men. In vain have we waited for any real announcement of a better policy. We want lower cost of food, clothes, and of rent. We hear of nothing except fine empty statements without any promise to relieve us of heavy unjust taxes. We call attention to the justice of our cause. Human lives are being oppressed and worn out so that a few may become rich, while Liberal and Labourite are like the priest and the Levite of old—they pass by on the other side."

Homebush Saleyards.—The meeting of Mr. Flowers (Vice-President of the Executive Council) with representatives of the selling agents at Homebush has not settled the vexed question of the saleyards. The Public Works Committee recommended the removal of the yards to a site on the new abattoirs area, which the selling agents condemned on the spot. Up to the present the Minister has not heard that the selling agents have agreed upon a site. Meanwhile, rapid progress is being made with the building of the new abattoirs at Homebush, and the erection of a temporary meat-distributing market alongside the railway line, near Pyrmont, is to be proceeded with at once.

Trees in the City.—From time to time encroachments have been made for various purposes on the parks in the city, and rows of trees have been cut down to make room for more flower beds or to permit of street widening and the rounding off of corners. At noon to-day a deputation of tree lovers and advocates of the city beautiful idea will wait upon the Lord Mayor to protest against any further interference with the parks or the cutting down of the Moreton Bay figs and other trees which the council has signified its intention of removing or, at all events, reducing. It is pointed out that the great residence districts of Sydney are becoming as treeless as the arid plains of Central Australia, and that this is deplorable because it is avoidable. There has been great neglect on this score, a neglect partly traceable at least to the rapidity of the city's growth. To put it from the point of view of the property owners and builders, the great question has been one of meeting the demand of a multiplying population for roofs to shelter it, not for trees to shade it. The street wideners, and the builders have had it all to themselves, and now the tree planters are seeking to be heard. They will not only urge that a vigorous planting campaign be instituted, but that preference be given to some of the beautiful native trees that it is believed will prove well adapted, and which at the present time are practically non-existent in the city.

Telephones at Homebush.—A great strain is put on the telephone service from Homebush on two days in the week, when fat stock sales are being held, especially when supplies are heavy and a large volume of business is being transacted. Yesterday was not a particularly busy day, but the weather was excessively hot, and instead of the telephone service facilitating matters and having a soothing, if not a cooling, effect, it seemed to engender more heat. Complaints were hot and strong concerning the working of the telephones, or rather their failure to work.

On behalf of the staff, Mr. Alford congratulated Mr. Russell French, and expressed the wish that he would long continue to hold the position as head of the institution, Mr. French ably replying. Mr. Russell French is the fifth general manager of the bank, which will celebrate its centenary on April 8, 1917. He joined its service in 1863, was appointed to the inspectors' staff in New Zealand in 1872, and as inspector at the head office in Sydney in 1887. Mr. Samuel Farrell, inspector for New South Wales and Queensland, made the presentation in terms expressive of the regret which all felt at losing the official companionship of their friend, and wishing him success in his new sphere. Similar sentiments were expressed by Mr. C. E. Norman, the accountant at the Sydney office, and by the retired inspector, Mr. F. P. G. M'Crae. In voicing his thanks and appreciation, Mr. Kell said he had felt very much the severance of the official ties.

EMPIRE TRADE.

COMMISSION ARRIVE.

WELCOME IN MELBOURNE.

IMPERIAL CO-OPERATION.

ADDRESS BY SIR EDGAR VINCENT.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The members of the Empire Trade Commission arrived to-day from England. They will leave for New Zealand on Wednesday, and will take evidence in the various States on their return to Australia, probably at the end of next month.

The members of the commission were met by State motor cars at Port Melbourne pier this morning, and brought to Melbourne, where they were welcomed by the Lord Mayor (Councillor Hennessy). There was a large gathering present, composed chiefly of commercial men in the city. The Lord Mayor proposed the health of the visitors.

Mr. Hughes, Federal Attorney-General, in welcoming the commission on behalf of the Federal Government, said its members were charged with performances of the most responsible and important duties that perhaps any citizen of this wide-flung Empire could possibly be charged with. They were endeavouring to discover what possibilities there were for trade and for the interchange of the resources of the different parts of the Empire, one with the other. In short, it was their business to quicken into life the consciousness of Empire. The people of the Empire were beginning to totter round like children or savages in the dark, realising that the different parts of the Empire had relation one to the other, and to understand that it was in their interest for that knowledge to be quickened more acutely. It was not merely their destiny, nor their duty, it was a work they owed to civilisation. Their loyalty was nothing if it were only spasmodic; nothing if it were shown only on the occasion of war. These ebullitions of sentiment were not the things on which empires and great nations stood, but something very different altogether. (Hear, hear.) The present commission represented an effort to obtain information on which they could build up an everlasting Empire, that should stand through the ages, and that should avoid those faults by which other nations and other empires fell. The commission had visited Australia to see what they in Australia could do. No one knew less what Australians could do than Australians themselves. They had a continent around which they had been scratching like anaemic hens. There were the forces and potentialities in this country of a great and mighty nation. (Applause.) There were other parts of the Empire not less rich and important than Australia, and the commission would inquire into conditions attending there. It was a great work on which these gentlemen were engaged, and he extended to them, on behalf of the Government, a hearty welcome, because they were engaged not only on a work in which Australia was concerned, but on that which concerned the whole of the great Empire. (Applause.)

Mr. Drysdale Brown, the State Attorney-General, welcomed the visitors on behalf of the State Government. Mr. Howard Berry, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce in Australasia, Mr. E. N. Grimwade, president of the Victorian Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Thomas Hogg, ex-president of the Chamber of Commerce, also spoke.

SIR EDGAR VINCENT'S ADDRESS.

Sir Edgar Vincent, chairman of the commission, in the course of his reply, said: "The appointment of this Empire Commission, instructed by his Majesty to deal with matters affecting a quarter of the globe, marks a definite epoch in the evolution of Imperial development. Six colonial or imperial conferences have met since 1887. They have achieved much more, perhaps, than even the most sanguine would have ventured to hope at the outset. But until the Royal Commission which you have welcomed to-day was made they had created no public body. They have sent forth no delegated authority on which each and all of the self-governing dominions of the Empire have been represented. We are the direct creation of the Imperial Conference, a creation unanimously approved by representatives of all the States. If you ask our precise function, I should be tempted—if I may use a naval simile—to say that we are somewhat similar to a flying squadron attached to the Imperial Conference, that mighty fleet that assembles every four years, generally in home waters. Our mission is to visit the territory of all the autonomous governments to consult there with the authorities of trade and commerce, and with the representatives of the dominions, and to lay before the next Imperial Conference the result of our deliberations.

Other missions, especially in the field of athletics, have come usually in a spirit of contest. There have been All-England Elevens and All Australian Elevens, but for the first time an "All Empire Eleven" has come into the field. (Applause.)

A MISSION OF CO-OPERATION.

Their mission has been one of contest. They have been animated by a desire not only to uphold the fame of the old country, but to wrest either trophies or "ashes" from your grasp. Ours is a more peaceable and perhaps less exciting one, but I trust we have a higher ambition. We come not to win from you, not even to struggle with you, but to co-operate with you. Our object is not to contend in the arena, but to sit with you in the gate of Empire, and there to hold converse and high counsel with you. (Applause.) If, as the result of our mission, something is not achieved which brings Australia even closer to the mother country, something which contributes in a notable degree to the development of your splendid resources, and to the increase of your commerce, then indeed we shall have failed. But we look to the assistance, to the guidance, and to the wisdom of your statesmen to help us to avert any such catastrophe. Conscious as we may be of our deficiencies, we feel strong in the assurance of your support. Lay before us freely what facilities you require for the furthering of the commerce of the Empire, what assistance may be most of use in bringing your lands to bear fruit, and your mines to yield up their riches, and we, so far as in us lies, will endeavour to obtain for you that which you desire. Give us your ideas, set before us your problems, and suggest solutions. Whatever tends to the greatness of the Empire and the advancement of your prosperity will command our ready ear, and is assured of our most earnest consideration. (Hear, hear.)

We come in no jealous, in no narrow spirit, secure in the privileges you have accorded us, and for which all are grateful. England is jealous of no rival, and fears no fair competition—(Hear, hear)—but we do desire to increase in an especial degree inter-Imperial trade, and to devote our most strenuous efforts to the development of the commerce that binds you to the old country, to the self-governing Dominions, and to the rest of the Empire of our King. Assistance to all—but especially to our own race—obstruction to none, a firm determination to regard the Empire as a whole, and to seek for no particular, no partial, no sectional, or class advantage. These, I believe, are the watchwords which should guide us, and following them, we invite and request, nay, more, we confidently rely upon your gracious assistance and your brotherly co-operation and support. (Applause.)

RIDER HAGGARD'S TRIBUTE.

Sir Rider Haggard, who also spoke, said the Commissioners had been within hail of these shores only a few days, and yet he could tell them that the greatness of Australia dwelt upon by the Attorney-General had been borne in upon their minds in a manner that could never be effaced. Never until they steamed along these shores for days and days did they appreciate what Australia meant. An enormous continent, as big as Europe, and one that he hoped would be the home of a vast nation. (Applause.)

LANDLESS MAN AND MANLESS LAND.

And yet this continent, as great as it was, was almost hidden from the mass of population of the British Isles. They knew little of Australia. He knew not how it was, but other parts of the Empire had been thrust upon their notice to the obscuring of Australia. What they wanted was some intelligent advertising. They required to bring Australia's possibilities home to the people of Great Britain. He only wished the advantages of Australia could be brought home to the many thousands of their more unfortunate fellow-citizens, and that where there existed a plethora of population, as in some cases in the old country, and especially in the cities, that that plethora would be brought to where there was a plethora of land, that the landless man might be brought to the manless land. (Applause.) He had seen most of the Empire, and from what he had seen in Australia already there was no fairer jewel in the imperial crown than that which was set in these seas. (Applause.) Their Empire was the greatest thing the world had ever known. Rome was nothing to it. Their heritage was indeed a thing worth living for, and, if need be, a thing worth dying for. (Loud applause.)

Sir Edgar Vincent, Mr. Hardinge (secretary of the commission), and Mr. G. H. Knibbs (Commonwealth Statistician) were later entertained at luncheon by the Governor-General, and afterwards held an informal discussion regarding the nature of the work to be taken in hand by the commission. The visitors dined at Federal Government House in the evening. Members of the commission will lunch at Parliament House to-morrow with the members of the Federal and States Ministries.

ARRANGING TO WORK.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Hughes) stated to-day that the chairman of the Empire Trade Commission (Sir Edgar Vincent) had paid him an official visit as senior member of the Federal Ministry.

"We discussed," said Mr. Hughes, "the general arrangement for the work of the commission in Australia. We had a long talk, the result of which I think will be very useful. The general trend of our discussion was to try to arrive at an understanding as to the lines which should be followed during the course of the inquiry."

GOVERNMENT HOUSE

NEW DEVELOPMENT.

SPECIAL COURT WANTED.

An effort is to be made to have the Equity suit respecting the ownership of Sydney Government House heard before a Bench of three Judges.

The matter was before the Chief Judge in Equity yesterday. The suit is one brought at the instance of a committee of citizens through the Attorney-General for an injunction to prevent the State Government putting the property to any other use than that of a Governor's residence.

Mr. Knox, K.C., Mr. Bethune, and Mr. David Wilson, instructed by Messrs. Cope and Co., appeared for the informant; and Mr. Blacket, K.C., and Mr. Browne, instructed by the State Crown Solicitor, for the nominal defendant.

It transpired that the statement of defence has not yet been filed.

Mr. Bethune informed his Honor that it had been agreed that the suit should be heard under section 6 of the Equity Act with the assistance of two other Judges. That being so, he asked that the case might be taken out of the list for the present, and till his Honor was able to form a Court of that description.

His Honor: Of course, I would have to see the Chief Justice about it.

Mr. Bethune: The matter is to be heard as soon as possible.

His Honor: I will see the Chief Justice to-day if possible. Have you arranged what is to be done in the meantime?

Mr. Bethune said that an arrangement had been come to with regard to the interval.

His Honor: Matters remain in statu quo?

Mr. Bethune: Yes.

The case was then allowed to stand over.

THE HENLEY CUP.

WILL AUSTRALIA DEFEND?

FINANCE NO OBSTACLE.

Although the flush of victory by the Australians in international rowing will sooner or later fade, still the glory and brilliancy of the three wins at the Royal Henley Regatta, in 1912, will live in the annals of Australian rowing for all times. The rowing enthusiasts' hearts have been filled to overflowing at the sight of that beautiful trophy which is now being exhibited in Sydney, and so much occupied have they been discussing the details of the doings of the team that they have almost lost sight of the more important fact that the cup must be competed for again in July next.

The question, therefore, arises will Australia defend the cup? It must be remembered that in winning the cup the Sydney crew not only vanquished the Leander crew, which consisted of practically England's best oarsmen, drawn mostly from experienced and well-seasoned Oxford and Cambridge Blues, but a representative Canadian crew, as well as one from New College, Oxford, which has turned out many famous rowers.

Further interest lies in the fact that last year the Australians won the championship in England, while England won the world's championship at Stockholm. Tremendous interest would be roused if another race were rowed on the Thames this year, and it is more than probable that the brilliant scene at Henley last year would be eclipsed.

We believe that a number of the men who rowed last July could be again induced to make the trip. The racing boat Q. L. Deloitte, in which they won the "Grand," is still in England, and it is probable that the new owners, the Thames Rowing Club, could be prevailed upon to allow any crew that might go from here the use of the boat. In this way a big expense would be saved.

There would yet be another problem to solve—how to finance the trip. This would, perhaps, not be so difficult as it would seem.

If New South Wales is not prepared to organise another trip, then Victoria or Tasmania might feel inclined to do so. It is true that the New South Wales Rowing Association is at present the only body affiliated with the Royal Henley committee, but there is nothing to prevent any of the other States doing as New South Wales did.

The manager of the Olympic eight-oar crew (Mr. Alex. Thomson), on being asked his opinions as regards a crew going to England at an early date, said: "I would like to see a crew go, if only to decide the rubber. I have not the slightest doubt that if we sent a crew, and it got into the final, the Thames would not accommodate the crowd that would flock to see such a race. I feel sure, too, that they would receive the same courtesy and consideration as was extended to the last crew."

As regards the finances, Mr. Thomson said that it would be easier than getting together as powerful a crew as the last one. "It might interest you to know that one gentleman is willing to finance the trip if such a crew as the last could be got together."

THE JAPANESE VISITORS.

AT HOME AT PARRAMATTA.

The visiting Japanese sailors were again prominent figures in the city's streets yesterday, and continued to attract a considerable amount of attention.

Admiral Tochinai and his officers spent the day at Gowan Brae, Parramatta, the residence of Colonel James Burns, M.L.C., whose guests they were. The party left town by motor cars at 10 a.m. Luncheon and afternoon tea were provided, and the visitors started on the return journey at 5 p.m., after a very pleasant day spent in the shady and spacious grounds of Gowan Brae. A select company was invited by Colonel Burns to meet the Japanese Admiral and his officers.

The sailors from the two cruisers spent the day as they pleased ashore, wandering along the streets, gazing into the shop windows, and making occasional purchases. They crowded into the rooms at the Royal Naval House, where they mixed freely with the men from the Australian vessels and engaged in various indoor games.

The Admiral will call on his Excellency the Governor this morning, and the call will be returned this afternoon on board the flagship Adzuma.

VISIT TO KATOOMBA.

KATOOMBA, Monday.

Nearly 200 Japanese officers, warrant officers, and midshipmen from the Japanese warships now visiting Sydney were to-day entertained by the Government, and conveyed by special train to Katoomba.

On their arrival the visitors were taken in three parties to the Carrington Hotel, Burlington Palace, and Royal Palace, for lunch, after which the men were driven in coaches and motors to Katoomba Falls, Leura Falls, Echo Point, and various places of interest. The visitors, who expressed themselves as highly delighted with the mountain scenery, were in charge of Mr. J. S. Cormack, acting tourist officer.

To-day there will be an "at home" on the flagship, a large number of invitations having been issued. On Thursday the ships will leave for Brisbane.

FEDERAL WOOLLEN MILLS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

THE WAR.

TURKEY WANTS PEACE.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH POWERS.

SINEWS OF WAR LACKING.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 17.

Mahmud Shefket Pasha, the Grand Vizier, has intimated that the resumption of peace negotiations is imminent with the great Powers alone.

This announcement has caused a sensation in Stamboul.

The decision is due to the financial situation and the necessity for the consolidation of Turkish power in Asia Minor.

VIENNA, Feb. 17.

A strong newspaper agitation is in progress against the Ambassadors' conference.

THE CHARKEUI FIASCO.

CONSTANTINOPLE (via Constanza), Feb. 17.

Enver Bey's force is in a sorry plight. It included the whole of the reserves from Anatolia.

The expedition to Charkeui was an utter failure, and Enver Bey himself narrowly escaped with his life in an open boat. His disheartened soldiers are now crowded, wet and hungry, in the streets of Gallipoli. All the available houses are full of wounded.

It is reported that Enver Bey is sending troops across the Dardanelles, owing to the reported landing of 40,000 Greeks at Beska Bay.

SERVIAN PATROL AMBUSHED.

BELGRADE, Feb. 16.

The Albanians in the vicinity of El Bassan caught a Servian patrol in an ambush, and killed 13 out of 18.

MONTENEGRIN REVERSE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 16.

It is officially stated that 16,000 Montenegrins who commenced an attack on Tarabosch and Barditza, near Skutari, last Monday were routed, leaving 3000 dead and wounded and six guns.

WRECK OF THE ASSAR-I-TEWFIK.

SOFIA, Feb. 16.

The wreck of the Turkish ironclad Assar-i-Tewfik at Karaburn was due to a Bulgarian mine.

A Bulgarian mining detachment has now destroyed the wreck.

TURKISH CRUISER HAMIDIEH.

MALTA, Feb. 16.

The Turkish cruiser Hamidieh will remain here until the 17th to complete repairs to her machinery.

Greek torpedoers are awaiting her outside the territorial waters.

ROUMANIA AND BULGARIA.

LONDON, Feb. 17.

The "Daily Chronicle" states that Roumania has informed the Powers that, in view of the slow and unsatisfactory progress of the negotiations with Bulgaria in connection with her demands for compensation, she might be obliged to have recourse to military measures.

SOFIA, Feb. 17.

Bulgaria has offered to cede to Roumania a hill dominating Silistria, the town on the Danube which the latter claims, and to give 8 kilometres of coast down to Cape Shabla, but Roumania has refused the offer.

AUSTRIA AND RUSSIA.

A SERIOUS SITUATION.

LONDON, Feb. 16.

The Conference of Ambassadors has failed to reconcile the views of Austria with those of Russia regarding the boundaries of Albania.

It is hoped, nevertheless, that influences outside the conference will find a solution of what is described as a difficult and serious situation.

It is stated in diplomatic circles that Austria considers Albania should include Skutari, Ipek, Prisrend, Jakova, Dibra, Konitza, and Janina, and that she emphasises the fact that out of a total of 1,200,000 Albanians one-third would be outside the new frontier, and no Slavs would be within it.

POLICY OF RUSSIA.

SUPPORTING HER SLAV BROTHERS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 16.

The Czar, in his reply to the autograph letter of the Emperor Francis Joseph, referred to the long-standing friendship between the two countries, but added that the attitude of Austria during the past few years had impelled Russia to now intimate her inflexible resolve to support the interests of her Slav brothers. At the same time, however, the Czar anticipated that means would be found to maintain peace, having regard to the essential basis of Austrian policy in the Balkans.

BULGARIAN ARMY.

ALLEGED DISSATISFACTION.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 16.

Many deserters from the Bulgarian army are entering Roumania.

The Bulgarian authorities demanded the return of a law student who was wounded at Lule Burgas, but the Government refused to hand him over.

The deserters assert that the state of the Bulgarian troops is desperate. The men, they say, are subjected to harsh discipline in the field, and the country is strongly averse to the continuance of the war when peace could have been concluded.

GERMAN ARMAMENTS.

NEW TYPE OF SHIP.

REMARKABLE CLAIMS.

LONDON, Feb. 16.

The "Engineer" states that Germany is building a new type of ship for the navy. It is low in the water, the deck being little more than awash, and it is said the vessel will revolutionise warfare at sea.

The new vessel will carry a single gun of maximum power, and will be protected by an impenetrable bow shield—the only target for an enemy.

The paper adds that the type was first offered to Great Britain, but the offer was ignored.

It is claimed that five of these vessels could destroy a super-dreadnought costing the price of 20.

Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge, in the course of an interview, ridiculed the refurbishing of this obsolete type of ship, which he said would with its single gun be helpless when in a considerable head sea.

GERMANY'S LEAD IN AVIATION.

PARIS, Feb. 16.

General Delacroix, in a speech yesterday, drew attention to the formidable lead of Germany in aviation.

He pointed out that Germany possessed 20 dirigibles capable of keeping in the air several days with tons of projectiles and explosives.

THE KNIGHT CASE.

STATEMENT TO PUBLIC.

LONDON, Feb. 17.

The "Daily Mail" states that Captain Hutchinson, of the steamer Port Lincoln, on which Knight, the Hunslet clergymen, is sailing for Australia, has transmitted by wireless Knight's message to the Bishop of Ripon, relinquishing his priestly orders, also a statement to the English public.

In course of the latter statement, Knight says:—"While working in Leeds in connection with the white slave traffic I lost my good reputation, and the reputation of a comrade who was working with me, through the babbling tongues of people who saw evil where it did not exist. While seeking to prevent a girl being sent to a house of ill-fame in Leeds I was openly accused of evil by one of my Church workers. Feeling I had brought ruin and disgrace on the Church, I thought that by dying in one country I might in another recover for myself and restore to my comrade a new reputation."

Knight adds:—"My wife is not blameworthy. I am prepared to bear the consequences of what I have done. I have no definite plans, except that I will work for my living, and seek even as an outcast to do some good in the world and redeem what appears to be evil."

ARCTIC EXPLORATION.

CHRISTIANIA, Feb. 17.

The relief party which set out to rescue Herr Sandleben, geologist, and two other scientists, constituting a section of the Schroder-Strantz expedition, has returned to Advent Bay, without getting into touch with the scientists.

The members of the party encountered terrific thunderstorms, and some of them were badly frost-bitten. Seven of their dogs perished, and the others are in a pitiable condition. Fresh dogs from Norway are now being awaited, and the position of the missing German scientists is regarded as highly critical.

A cablegram last month stated that Herr Sandleben and his companions, who form one section of the expedition which has been organised to circumnavigate Northern Europe and Asia, disembarked at Tremenberg Bay on August 15, and set out on a sledging expedition to the interior, and their fate was unknown.

HOME RULE.

INTENTIONS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, Feb. 16.

Mr. A. A. Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, speaking at Warrington, Lancashire, said that the debate in the House of Lords showed that the idea of Home Rule had at last dawned on their Lordships' minds.

The Government, he said, would proceed with Home Rule. They would not shoot Ulstermen, but at all costs they would protect Roman Catholics in Ulster from violence, and whatever steps were taken to protect them would receive British support.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN PROGRESS.

LONDON, Feb. 17.

Mr. John Scaddon, Premier of Western Australia, in an interview yesterday, emphasised the progress of his State. He said that they were not only earning interest on the loans that had been invested in public works, but they were providing a sinking fund, which covered 13 per cent. of their whole indebtedness. The steady stream of immigration, he said, demanded further inland facilities for transit.

He added that Labour's cry in England was "Give us our land," but in Western Australia the cry was: "Find us people that we may give them land."

SOCIALISTS AND MILITARISM.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 17.

The socialists, as a protest against the increase in the army estimates, have announced a general strike for April 14.

"THEIR LAST CRUST."

MR. O'MALLEY AND THE IMMIGRANTS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

In his reply to a deputation of unemployed which waited upon him, Mr. O'Malley broke forth into strong invective against the State Government on the score of its immigration policy. The deputation consisted of unskilled labourers, and they were said to represent over 2000 unemployed labourers, who were looking for work in the Melbourne metropolitan area, and it was claimed that at least one-third were immigrants brought out from Great Britain under the State Government's immigration policy.

Mr. O'Malley said that he regretted his inability to hold out much hope of assistance, no matter how much he felt for them. There was very little work that he could put in their way. However, he would at once see what work could be provided by his department, and would have the result of his investigation communicated to the men.

"This," said Mr. O'Malley, speaking with some feeling, "is the result of the State immigration policy. It is outrageous and cruel. Here are men on their last crust, so they tell me, and still others are being brought out. It ought to be stopped."

LABOUR PARTY.

SERIOUS DISSENSIONS.

MINISTERS AND CONFERENCE.

"HERESY" COMMITTEE FLOUTED

The first State Minister summoned to appear before the "heresy hunt" committee appointed by the Labour Conference, was Mr. Griffith (Minister for Works), who was required to explain his conduct in entering into a contract for the establishment of private iron works.

Mr. Griffith declined the invitation to attend, relying upon the explanation which he gave before the conference itself, namely, that he would do a similar thing again in similar circumstances.

This is high treason from a conference standpoint, but Mr. Griffith is evidently backed up in his treason by his own league—The Barrier District Assembly Political Labour League, which writes to Mr. Griffith under date February 11, as follows:—

Your letter of the 7th instant was submitted to a large meeting of the assembly last night, and I was instructed to compliment you on behalf of the assembly for your courageous action in trying to win another seat for Labour, and in your contest for Annandale you can rest assured that you have the best wishes of this assembly for your success. In approving of your action, the members of this league voiced their sentiments in such a way as to leave no doubt that the unionists of the Barrier have the same confidence in Arthur Griffith to-day as they had when they elected him by such a large majority at the last elections. We trust that if selected you will be successful in carrying the Labour flag to victory at Annandale.

This is an indication of the undercurrent in political Labour circles, the growing strength of which was prominently mentioned in the "Herald" during the sittings of the conference. Many of the leagues have taken umbrage at the attacks of the conference upon the Government, and several have spoken. Further open avowals of disapproval may be expected.

CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

The whole trouble in the Labour movement is due to jealousy between Federal and State members. For a long time relations have been severely strained. The State Ministers and party, with few exceptions, have strongly resisted the Commonwealth demands in respect of the referendum, Government House, and the Savings Bank. Conference aimed at subordinating State to Federal interests, and carried its attack to the point which has brought about the present critical situation. Everyone concerned in the crisis in now waiting to see what sort of a report the heresy committee will make to conference respecting the contempt of Ministers for the inquiry.

WILL THE GOVERNMENT MEET THE HOUSE?

Meanwhile the Government has to decide whether it will meet the House or go to the country at an early date. The Ministerial mind has undergone changes from time to time, due to extraordinary and unlooked-for circumstances. These keep cropping up, and may yet result in an early election. However, the best index will be the speed of the Government Printer in printing the electoral rolls. If he continues at the present rate it will be pretty safe to predict that the Parliament will run its full course. If he suddenly "speeds up" an early election may be expected.

GOULBURN LEAGUE'S OPINION.

DIVISION IN THE RANKS.

GOULBURN, Monday.

At the last meeting of the local branch of the Political Labour League the delegate to the conference (Mr. J. M'Intyre, president) gave his report. He said that, as usual, the city delegates greatly outnumbered the country, making it difficult to get a country resolution through unless it was approved by the city men. Mr. Corish (ex-president) said the city delegates ran the conferences. He believed the conference did more harm than good to the Labour movement.

Mr. Yates agreed. The whole thing, he said, was now in the hands of the international or whole-hog socialists, who were prepared to discredit and overthrow the Labour movement in order to build up the fabric of their own fantastical nationalising schemes on the ruins of the Labour party.

Notice of motion was given repudiating the motion of censure passed on the State Ministry by the conference.

"HIS USUAL REWARD."

MR. GRIFFITH ON UNFAIR CRITICISM.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

At a meeting of the Newcastle Council, held a fortnight ago, it was decided to send a letter to the Minister for Works, approving of the Government's action in connection with the new steel works.

At the meeting held to-night, an acknowledgment was received from Mr. Griffith:—"It was very agreeable," the Minister stated, "to receive a word of encouragement now and then, which was in pleasant contrast to the mass of unfair and dishonest criticism, which was his usual reward for endeavouring to do the best he could to carry out the public responsibilities in what he believed to be the best interests of the community."

The general manager of the Broken Hill Proprietary Company, Ltd., Mr. G. D. Delprat, has written a letter to the Newcastle Council, congratulating them on the position they had taken up in connection with the Government's action, which, he was sure, would be a source of great satisfaction to the members of the Government, and he was of the opinion that it would be of considerable assistance to them.

CITY BURGLARY.

£270 WORTH OF JEWELLERY.

Not long before midnight on Sunday evening thieves audaciously robbed one of Levy Bros.' jewellery and fancygoods shops, at 628 George-street, city; £270 worth of gold and silver watches and chains, gold necklets and brooches, rings, and electroplate ware being stolen.

To the police, who were on the scene soon after the robbery, it was obvious that the thieves had first broken into the side door of Billiards, Limited. There subsequently a kitbag was found missing, its contents lying where the bag should have remained. With this bag the burglars evidently carried away the spoil from Levy's shop.

The marks of an iron instrument are apparent on the back wooden door of Levy's shop. It was here, presumably, that the thieves first attempted an entry. The inner bolts of the door proving too substantial, however, they took their risky chance at the front entrance.

From the George-street pavement they could see the shop's interior dimly by the light placed above a large iron safe. The window also was uncovered.

Breaking the Yale lock off the door, the thieves tip-toed inside. They took big risks. Their most daring act was the rifling of the front window, in which any passer-by could have detected them. From the window they returned to the glass showcases behind the counter. These were full of watches prior to their visit. Some E.P. ware was also appropriated, the cases containing the various articles being rejected.

Mr. P. A. Levy estimated his firm's loss at £270.

ANOTHER INCIDENT.

BURGLARS IN PITT-STREET.

At about a quarter past 12 o'clock this morning the block watchman discovered that premises 389 Pitt-street, occupied by the N.S.W. Bookstall Company, had been broken into. The thieves had gained an entrance by cutting a pane out of the glass street door and opening the lock on the inside.

An inspection of the premises showed that two cash-boxes had been broken open, but owing to there being nobody belonging to the firm on the premises it is not known whether the thieves secured a haul or got nothing at all. There is no clue as to the identity of the thieves, but it is believed that they are members of the same gang as those who entered Levy's premises on Sunday night.

The matter will be submitted to the detective office this morning.

A FIJI SUICIDE.

WHITE WIFE OF A HALF-CASTE.

SUVA (Fiji), Monday.

A young woman, formerly of Queensland, a short time ago married a local half-caste named Groom. Yesterday she committed suicide by taking poison.

HURRICANES.

DAMAGE AT GILGANDRA.

TWO PEOPLE INJURED.

GILGANDRA, Monday.

What old residents describe as the heaviest storm ever experienced in Gilgandra broke over the town on Saturday afternoon. Over an inch of rain fell in 18 minutes.

The wind increased till it reached cyclonic force, sheets of galvanised iron were blown off houses, and scattered about, trees were uprooted, telegraph poles were bent and twisted, and many buildings were damaged. Unfortunately the visitation was not unattended with accident, for Mrs. Paterson was severely injured by falling timber and bricks, and a gentleman in jumping out of a window to escape falling debris, was slightly cut with broken glass.

The gable end of Paterson's house was broken in, and timber and bricks smashed through the skylight of the kitchen. Many windows in the town were broken by the falling hail, which was in many cases larger than pigeon eggs. Wilson's general store was slightly knocked about, and a quantity of goods damaged by hail and rain.

At the railway station a truck was blown some distance along the line, and a sheet of galvanised iron blown under a train was extracted with difficulty. On the low-lying land many houses were flooded, and fruit trees in the local orchards were stripped bare. A large pine tree at the local police station was felled by the force of the gale, and a number of telephone poles were blown down.

STORM AT NARRANDERA.

DAMAGE BY HURRICANE.

NARRANDERA, Monday.

After two days of distressing heat a storm of particular severity broke over the town on Friday night. The wind for some time blew with hurricane force and the lightning was very vivid. Buildings in the vicinity of the railway station suffered most, the new railway engine shed, which was almost completed, being blown flat, and Harrison's fruit shop having the front room demolished by lightning. Other damage in the town consisted of trees being blown down and outhouses unroofed.

The residents of Harrison's shop had a providential escape, having left the room which was wrecked barely two minutes before the lightning struck it.

The rainfall during the storm was 117 points.

DAMAGE IN FIJI.

SUVA, Monday.

The Atua has sent a wireless message that a terrific hurricane swept over Tonga on the 9th instant.

No lives were lost, but heavy damage to property is reported.

BLIZZARD IN NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON, Monday.

Gales in Ashburton and Invercargill did much damage. The latter place experienced a blizzard. Some buildings were partially unroofed, and a four-story woolshed nearing completion was demolished.

HIGH COURT JUDGES.

MR. POWERS AND MR. PIDDINGTON ACCEPT.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Federal Attorney-General (Mr. Hughes) announced to-day that he had received cable messages from Mr. Powers, Federal Crown Solicitor, and Mr. A. B. Piddington, of Sydney, with regard to the positions on the High Court Bench offered to those gentlemen. Mr. Powers is in England; while Mr. Piddington is on his way to Australia from there. Both gentlemen agreed to accept the positions offered them.

As Mr. Powers is in London in connection with the appeal to the Privy Council in regard to the Sugar Commission and coal vend cases, arrangements will have to be made to send somebody else home to represent the Commonwealth in the proceedings, as Mr. Powers will be wanted to take his place on the Bench as soon as possible.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your leader on the proposed appointment of a solicitor to a place on the High Court Bench is timely, and dignified, and while the points which you have raised could be considerably elaborated upon, you have at the same time stated a case which will be endorsed by every person of just mind. The Federal Government will be deserving of the strongest censure if it finally decides to confirm the appointment of Mr. Powers. Those who have the pleasure of this gentleman's acquaintance know him to be a gentleman of the highest character, but none of his friends could reasonably hope that his training as a solicitor has been such as to qualify him to sit on the Bench of a High Court of Appeal.

The Government has made a bad blunder. It has still a chance to retreat from what is really an untenable position. And the public will honour it if it will take the just and honourable course of reversing the foolish decision it has made in this most important matter.

I am, etc.

Greenwich, Feb. 14. PAGADOR.

YASS ELECTION.

MR. PRICE AND THE NAVVIES.

YASS, Monday.

Mr. R. A. Price, M.L.A., was received by a number of friends, amongst whom were many late Gloucester electors, at Yass this morning, and at the Coolalie railway camp the audience included several Gloucester railway workers. Mr. Price had a very good hearing, and replied to the speech of the Minister for Justice, and dealt with the Labour land policy put forward by Mr. McGirr, the Labour candidate. He maintained that closer settlement progressed more satisfactorily under the Liberal policy than under the sham, cant, and hypocrisy of the Labour Administration. The speaker's explanation of the Liberal land legislation evoked applause. He was a firm believer in clean politics and sound financial legislation. If not careful in finance the State would be involved in a financial and industrial crisis.

Mr. Price speaks at other railway camps during the week, where the Liberal candidate is making more headway than was expected.

MONEY PLENTIFUL.

A MAN FROM SYDNEY.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

A middle-aged man, who stated that he recently arrived from Sydney, entered the Royal Hotel, in Collingwood on Saturday. Realising that he had a considerable sum of money in his pockets, and believing that he was in a condition requiring police care, the licensee sent for a constable, who took the man into custody on a charge of drunkenness.

At the police station he gave the name of George Nott. In his pockets were a bank draft for £1600, bank notes representing £876, a cheque for £37, together with £5 in gold and silver.

The man appeared at the Collingwood Court to-day, and Councillor Coulson said to defendant: "If you will put £2 in the poor-box we won't record a conviction against you." Defendant: "Is not that coming it pretty quick. I'll put a pound in the poor-box."

He also consented to purchase 10s worth of tickets for the hospital bazaar, and to pay 2s 6d costs. Accused was then discharged.

CONSTABLE AS BURGLAR.

THREE YEARS IMPRISONMENT.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

Charles Alfred Remmers was sentenced to three years' imprisonment for committing burglaries while acting as a constable on night duty in Wellington. The prisoner pleaded that he committed the burglaries in order to provide the funds for bringing his invalid mother and sister from England. He had served in the City of London police, which he left with a good character.

TRAVELLER'S NARROW ESCAPE.

TREE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

BREWARRINA, Monday.

On Friday last, near Beemery Station, between Bourke and Brewarrina, a traveller camped in his tent under a large tree near the roadside. A severe storm, accompanied by rain and lightning, blew down the tent, and the traveller took refuge under the tree. Whilst standing there lightning struck the tree, completely shattering and felling it. The traveller, however, was unhurt.

BUSH FIRES.

DAMAGE IN NEW ZEALAND.

SOME THRILLING ESCAPES.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

The bush fires round Dannevirke destroyed many houses and outbuildings. Almost every settler lost grass, and some lost stock.

In Gisborne the back country settlers had a trying time fighting the flames all the week. Several mills and houses were burned, miles of fencing and large areas of grass were destroyed, and many sheep perished. Two settlers alone lost over two thousand.

In Marlborough the fires are sweeping the valleys.

A man and wife returning to Blenheim from the Golden Bar mine galloped half a mile through blinding smoke and stifling heat. The mail coach to Nelson got through with difficulty.

The bush fires in the Gisborne district swept over several homesteads and sawmills. Other settlers had a strenuous time protecting their homes. One was only just rescued in time by two men, who fought bravely through the flame and smoke. They all got out later, almost blinded and badly scorched.

Extensive bush and grass fires, consequent on the long spell of dry and hot weather, occurred in the Poverty Bay and Hawkes Bay districts.

AUCKLAND (N.Z.), Monday.

Bush fires continue to rage in the North Island of New Zealand. Great losses of grass and fencing, and still more serious losses of stock, are reported.

At Mata-wai, the railway camp was swept by the flames, and the women and children were hurriedly removed to a place of safety.

Bush fires are prevalent in the provinces. Losses of quantities of timber, grass, and flax are reported. The dry weather continues.

MELBOURNE TRAGEDY.

SUPPOSED MURDER AND SUICIDE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

What appeared to have been a case of murder and attempted suicide occurred in a lane off Bouverie-street, Carlton, late to-night.

A man named Greenless while passing along the lane at 11.30 o'clock heard a gurgling sound, and on investigation found the dead body of a woman, lying in a pool of blood. She was almost decapitated.

Lying near her was a man, who was bleeding from a severe wound in the throat, and by his side was a blood-stained razor. Greenless ran to the police station, and gave information of the tragedy.

When Constable Valentine arrived on the scene the wounded man struggled violently with him, but he was taken to the hospital. His windpipe is severed, and no hope is entertained of his recovery. It is believed that the man, whose name is at present unknown, murdered the woman with a razor, and then attempted to commit suicide. So far the police are unable to ascertain the motive for the crime.

In the woman's handbag was found a bank-book, bearing the name "Alice Hudson."

TRAVELLER'S BAG STOLEN.

THIEF'S RUSE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

While Mr. Alexander Weir, traveller for Robertson and Co., wholesale jewellers, of Melbourne, was walking along Lydiard-street, Ballarat, last evening, to catch the last train to Melbourne, he was accosted by a well-dressed young man, who said, "I'm right down on my luck, sir; let me carry your parcels for you." Weir was in possession of two bags, one of which contained jewellery valued at £1000. Weir declined to permit the man to assist him, but the fellow pleaded so hard for help that finally he said, "All right; take this bag and come along with me."

On reaching the station the man decamped with the bag containing the jewellery. He was sentenced to four months' imprisonment on a charge of stealing. On the information supplied by accused the property was recovered.

AUDITOR AND CHAIRMAN.

"FUNNY AS A COMIC OPERA."

BATHURST, Monday.

Replying to-day to the attack made on him by the chairman of the Pastures Protection Board (Mr. J. J. Sullivan) in connection with his having reported that he thought the vote of £95 to that gentleman had been irregular, Mr. W. L. Kable, the board's auditor, said that he, as the ratepayers' representative, had done what he believed to be his duty. He objected to close his eyes to what he considered irregular dealings with the funds.

"Having," he added, "furnished my report, which should go on to the head of the stock department, I thought the matter could be safely left in the department officer's hands. A Government auditor will, no doubt, come along in due course, and if his decision agrees with mine in regard to the irregularity of the payment the department will, no doubt, move in the matter. In the meantime I am quite prepared to allow the question to rest. I have to give the decision according to my own judgment and my own conscience, and not according to the board."

The auditor denied that a case quoted by Mr. Sullivan as a parallel to the present was so. "Mr. Sullivan's motion for my dismissal woud be as funny as a comic opera, if it were not so pathetic." Mr. Kable continued. "I purpose to offer my services to the board for the ensuing year, feeling quite assured that there are a sufficient number of honourable men thereon to ensure that I shall not be penalised for furnishing a report according to my conscience, even though it does conflict with a motion passed by the board."

TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAY.

RAILS FROM LITHGOW.

LITHGOW, Monday.

Since Thursday the men at the ironworks have been engaged in loading steel rails for the Transcontinental Railway, and up to this morning about 400 tons have been sent away.

The rails have been subjected to the most severe test, and have been very highly finished, so that they compared more than favourably with the imported rails. It is stated that the rails will be the first to arrive for use on the transcontinental line, none of the imported rails having come to hand yet.

CONFISCATION.

WHY INVESTORS TABOO AUSTRALIA.

HOBART, Monday.

Sir John M'Call, Tasmanian Agent-General, who is touring the West Coast, replying to the toast of his health at a banquet at Zeehan, said he hoped that the result of some of his work would be known there very shortly. He could not divulge other people's business, and it was delicate ground for him to touch upon, but it was not the labour question altogether that the English investor feared in Australia. The imposition of the Federal graduated land tax was looked upon by some people in England as confiscation, and they quite naturally say that if people would rob them of the benefits of their investments in land, they would possibly do the same thing in other investments.

CLERK'S SUICIDE.

EXTENSIVE DEFALCATIONS ALLEGED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

A tragedy, which it is alleged is the sequel to extensive defalcations in connection with the contract of the late Mr. Duncan for the building of the new Melbourne Hospital, was brought to light on Thursday. Since Tuesday last Alfred Trueman, a single man, who had been employed by the late Mr. Duncan as confidential clerk, had been missing from his home at Hawthorn. He was found dead in a building at the Continental Picture Gardens, St. Kilda-road, with a bullet wound in his forehead.

The total deficiency was stated to be about £4000. A son of the late contractor had issued a warrant for the arrest of Trueman.

SENSATIONAL BOLT.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

A sensational bolt, which ended in the overturning of a buggy, and injury to two ladies, occurred on the road between Beveridge and Craigieburn to-day. Mrs. Cassin, of Beveridge, sustained a badly-fractured leg, and injury to an arm, and facial abrasions, while Mrs. Farrell, of Surrey Hills, had both ankles sprained, and received severe injury to an arm and shoulder.

SCOTT'S GLORY.

SCHOOLS' TRIBUTE.

POINTING THE MORAL.

INCENTIVE TO HEROISM.

STORY FOR THE SCHOOL BOOKS.

Yesterday is likely to prove memorable in the minds of the present generation of State school children. Under instructions from the Department of Public Instruction, the children of all ages, boys and girls, were told the thrilling story of Captain Scott's journey to the South Pole, and the tragic fate of the party.

The recital of the stirring episodes in the valiant struggle amid the terrors of the Antarctic appealed powerfully to the imagination of the pupils in all classes. The moral of faithfulness to duty and self-sacrifice in the succouring of those stricken by the wayside emerged in monumental dimensions from the simple narrative of the end that overtook the gallant Antarctic explorers.

The narrative was made as simple as possible to bring it within the comprehension of the children, and the "lesson" specially compiled and published in yesterday's "Herald" for the occasion was used by many of the teachers.

The day was marked by the flags at the schools being flown at half-mast. As midday struck the tale of heroism in the ice-land South, with its whirling blizzards of death, was told all over the State to tens of thousands of eager listeners, whose eyes alternately gleamed with the fire of enthusiasm and admiration excited by the teachers' glowing description, and dimmed at the solemn thoughts evoked by the pathetic spectacle conjured up of strong, hardy men sinking in the snow-clad land amid insupportable adversities and dangers.

In some cases the pupils were massed together to hear the head teacher tell of the historic journey to and from the Pole that has moved the civilised world, but in the majority of cases each teacher told the inspiring story in a manner best calculated to impress the children, according to their ages, with the noble ideas actuating the intrepid five in their exhibition of comradeship towards one another in the hour of peril.

At many of the schools Kipling's "Recessional" was sung by the children, and at others the hymn "Rock of Ages" was sung.

Some authorities think—Professor David among them—that the story of Scott's perilous expedition should find a permanent place in the school reading-books.

"FAITHFUL UNTO DEATH."

In the city the teachers devoted an hour to a lesson on heroism. In the majority of the schools the delicate task of addressing the children on this subject was left to the individual teacher in each class.

At the Sydney High School, Ultimo, the headmaster, Mr. J. Waterhouse, M.A., addressed the boys en masse. "On the solemn occasion which brings us together this morning," he said, "it is fitting that my words should be brief. We are met to pay our humble tribute of respect to the memories of the noble band of heroes who have laid down their lives in the interests of scientific knowledge. When we read of the tragic fate of Captain Scott, Dr. Wilson, Captain Oates, Lieut. Bowes, and Petty Officer Evans during their return from the South Pole, our deepest emotions were stirred, and our hearts bled for those suddenly bereft of their loved ones. The one palliating circumstance in connection with the terrible tragedy is that the best traditions of the British race have been preserved untarnished."

After dwelling on Captain Scott's appeal, that those dependent on the heroes should be provided for, Mr. Waterhouse continued, "Are we willing to respond in some humble way to this appeal? The bereaved families will be cared for by the British Government, but can we not as a school do a little to show our admiration for Captain Scott, Dr. Wilson, Captain Oates, Lieut. Bowers, and Petty-Officer Evans, and to prove our deep sympathy for the bereaved?"

Mr. Waterhouse then proceeded to detail some of the experiences of the party, and added: "Is it not pathetic to read that amongst the effects found in the tent were geological specimens weighing 35lb? What does this mean? Why, surely that these heroes were true to the trust reposed in them by the scientific world. Rather than betray their trust they laid down their lives. What more fitting words can we apply to these 'deathless heroes' than: 'Faithful unto death'—faithful to one another, and faithful to the trust reposed in them? What is it that makes heroes? Surely not the occasion or opportunity; this merely proves they are of heroic mould. It is rather the spirit of self-sacrifice or self-denial, which should characterise each one of us. You boys may practice it daily, particularly in your homes, or in the street, or at school. Sane heroism is the antithesis of selfishness. How often by the exercise of a little self-denial we can give others pleasure, or make others happier, and this by cultivating the heroic spirit. Even though we may not be called upon to perform an action which will win the plaudits of the world, we may each one at last hear the welcome words, 'Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of the Lord.'"

GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL.

At the Girls' High School Elizabeth-street, the address was left to the discretion of the several mistresses, most of them taking as a basis the message to the boys and girls of New South Wales published in the "Herald" yesterday. Immediately upon receipt of news of the disaster the head mistress, Mrs. Garvin, called together a meeting of the whole school, and appealed to the girls to help in their own small way those dependent on the heroes. She particularly requested that donations be made out of pocket-money, and not obtained from the parents. It speaks well for the generosity of the girls, for since then about £10 has been handed over to the Lord Mayor's Fund.

WILLIAM-STREET INTEREST.

At the William-street School Mr. Hyndes, the headmaster, mentioned that steps by step the children, in some cases only 8 years old, have followed the expedition, through the medium of their weekly, "Topic Talks," up to the disastrous climax.

CLEVELAND-STREET HIGH SCHOOL.

At the Cleveland-street High School Mr. Conway explained that a general resume was given of the whole expedition, allusions being made to other martyrs of exploration in the Southern Hemisphere, such as Burke, Wills, Kennedy, and Leichhardt.

KINDERGARTEN AUDIENCE.

Mr. Kilgour, of the Fort-street School, stated that even in the kindergarden department of his school the children now knew a great deal about the expedition. The veriest tots of five years old could give a wonderfully clear account of the disaster.

IN THE SUBURBS.

Mr. Herlihy addressed the boys at the Glebe Public School. They were assembled in the play-yard, with uncovered heads.

At the Newtown Superior Public School, the Marrickville, and Erskineville schools, as well as the other schools in the near western suburban district, the masters gladly responded to the duty imposed upon them.

At all the schools the masters of each class read the account of the expeditions, trials, and troubles to their classes, and the recital of the bravery of the band of five made a deep impression on the scholars. It was a general opinion among the teachers that their scholars will never forget the story they heard yesterday. The school flags remained at half-mast during the day.

At the Croydon Park School the pupils assembled in the large room, and the headmaster (Mr. John Dart) gave a summary of what appeared in the columns of the "Herald" yesterday. The Rev. J. Best, St. James', Croydon, also addressed pupils, and several hymns were sung.

COUNTRY SCHOOLS.

WOLLONGONG, Monday.

At the district school to-day lessons were given on the disaster to Captain Scott and his party. The school flag was hoisted half-mast. An influential committee has been appointed to raise funds locally, and the management of the Star Theatre has consented to give a performance in aid of the fund.

LITHGOW, Monday.

At noon to-day the teacher at the district school gave instructive lessons on the value of Scott's Expedition to the Antarctic, while special reference was made to the heroism and fortitude of the party, particularly the leader and his four gallant comrades who perished.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA'S SYMPATHY.

LONDON, Feb. 17.

Queen Alexandra telegraphed to Captain Scott's mother:—"My whole heart goes out to you and to your poor daughter-in-law in this fearful calamity which has befallen just as your brave son achieved his great aim."

A TRAGIC INCIDENT.

LONDON, Feb. 17.

The Rev. G. T. Griffiths, vicar of Dursley, preached yesterday from Matthew, chapter 10, verse 39 ("He that findeth his life shall lose it; and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it"), and after referring feelingly to Captain Scott dying at his post, the preacher himself fell dead in the pulpit.

AMERICAN EXPLORER'S TRIBUTE

LONDON, Feb. 17.

Major-General Greely, the American explorer, who is in Rome, has telegraphed to Lord Curzon, President of the Royal Geographical Society, a high tribute to the Antarctic heroes on behalf of the survivors of the Lady Franklin expedition.

REFERENCE IN THE CHURCHES.

LONDON, Feb. 16.

Special church services were held to-day, and references were made from hundreds of pulpits to the death of Captain Scott and his companions.

The Dead March in "Saul" was played in many scores of places.

Mrs. Scott, senior, her daughters, and her grandson, Master Peter Scott, attended the memorial service in the Henley church.

The Bishop of Birmingham preached at St. Augustine's, Edgbaston, of which the Rev. Mr. Bruce, the late Captain Scott's brother-in-law, is the incumbent. The Lord Mayor, Sir Oliver Lodge, and other notabilities attended.

SERVICE IN CAPETOWN.

CAPETOWN, Feb. 16.

The Governor-General, Lord Gladstone, Rear-Admiral H. G. King-Hall, many politicians, and notable people, attended a memorial service held to-day in memory of Captain Scott and his comrades who perished in the Antarctic.

SCIENTIFIC KNOWLEDGE.

VALUABLE WORK ACHIEVED.

OPINION OF PROFESSOR DAVID.

The cabled account of the scientific researches and the results obtained by the members of Captain Scott's expedition were referred to yesterday by Professor David.

"In regard to the scientific results obtained by the Scott expedition," Professor David said, "it is premature for anyone to attempt to estimate the vastness of their value, in view of the fact that the whole of the results are by no means fully known, and cannot be known until a number of scientific experts have elaborated and collated them.

"Among the most interesting features of the work of the expedition, both from the scientific and economic standpoint, are the meteorological observations. For a long time past it has been a moot point among meteorologists as to whether there is really such a thing as a sort of hub to the meteorological wheel, which controls the air circulation of the southern hemisphere. Some meteorologists still maintain that when one gets south of the south-east trade winds—as one travels from the Equator—then the 'roaring forties' and the 'shrieking fifties' as these westerly winds of intense violence are sometimes called, begin, and all definite circulation of the atmosphere ceases; that is from the southern limit of these westerly winds from the Antarctic circle—or from 66 degrees south to the South Pole.

"Some meteorologists, too, argue that the winds within this extreme southern region do not blow on any definite plan, but that the movement of the atmosphere in that region may be likened to those of the scrums on a football field, the air masses being transferred from one side of the Antarctic continent to the other, and back, as well as across it.

"The results of the Scott expedition in particular, and to a less extent, Amundsen's—because it was not specially designed for scientific purposes—show that there probably is a very definite plan of circulation governing the atmosphere round the South Pole—in other words, there is a definite hub to the meteorological wheel from which all Antarctic storms radiate. Both Scott's and Amundsen's records show that at the South Pole itself scarcely any wind blows, and only a very little snow falls. The reason is that probably the South Pole is situated near the centre of a great high-level circum-polar whirl of air—a huge aerial maelstrom—which is carrying the higher atmosphere along at a rapid rate from west to east, and at the same time slanting gradually in a spiral manner towards the South Pole. Near the Pole this high level vortex descends much like the water in a basin when the plug is pulled up—gyrating round and round—and delivering the air straight downwards on the top of the high plateau near the South Pole itself. The air accumulating on the surface of this plateau from time to time breaks away in vast cold matters of nature—vast air avalanches.

THE BLIZZARDS.

"These vast air avalanches constitute the blizzards, and in travelling from the South Pole northwards they are deflected, like the south-east trade winds of the southern hemisphere, and so mostly blow from the south-east to the north-west. This main circum-polar whirl has several, in fact a small belt of smaller whirls circulating around the margin of the Antarctic continent. These latter are spread over the surface of the ocean near the Antarctic circle, and are of the nature of cyclonic disturbances, often of great extent and intense character. These Antarctic disturbances have far-reaching influences, and exercise considerable influence on the weather conditions both in Australia and New Zealand.

"So far the results of the Scott expedition are in accord with those of the Shackleton expedition, although the latter were made on a smaller scale. This proves that—as shown by the wonderful deflexion of the great steam column over the active volcano, Mount Erebus—the circum-polar world of theory exists in reality.

"Dr. Simpson, meteorologist, together with his assistant, Mr. T. Griffith Taylor, who was also the chief geologist of the expedition, and Dr. Wright, have now between them obtained an invaluable and unique series of meteorological records. Dr. Simpson, by means of small balloons, carrying self-acting instruments, detached by time fuses, has succeeded in securing the temperature, moisture, and climatic conditions of the Antarctic atmosphere up to heights of nearly five miles. There can be no question that the meteorological results obtained by the Scott expedition far exceed in value any that have ever before been collected in the Antarctic. It must be remembered that their value will be enhanced by the fact that during the greater part of the time they were being secured Dr. Mawson's party was taking observations at Macquarie Island, and Dr. Mawson himself was also securing data in Adelie Land, while Mr. Frank Wild was taking observations 1200 miles further west, at Glacier Point.

"When all these observations are worked up and collated they will throw a flood of light on the whole theory of the circulation of the atmosphere in the southern hemisphere, and it is very satisfying to be able to conclude that the wind system of the southern hemisphere and the Antarctic regions is subject to regulation. Although the circulation of the Antarctic atmosphere is a mighty mase, it is satisfactory to know that it is not without a plan, and that much of that plan will probably be soon decipherable.

"These results in the long run should prove of untold value to shipping and the various other interests in which the safety of human life and business profits are concerned.

"Next, it is clear that the most valuable geological work has been accomplished by the chief geologist of the party, Mr. T. Griffith Taylor, of the Sydney University, and now of the Central Meteorological Bureau of the Commonwealth; Mr. Raymond E. Priestley, formerly geologist of the Shackleton expedition, and second geologist under Captain Scott, and Mr. Frank Debenham, also of Sydney University. Messrs. Taylor and Debenham have considerably increased our knowledge of the vast Antarctic coalfield.

WONDERFUL COALFIELD.

"This wonderful coalfield has now been traced from the head of Beardmore Glacier, where Shackleton first discovered it, for a distance of 600 miles to Granite Harbour, where it was explored by Messrs. Taylor and Debenham. The latter point is about 150 miles north of Mount Erebus. It is clear that the coalfield extends for an extra 200 miles further north to Mount Nansen, in all a distance of 800 miles. To this may be added the seam crossed by Amundsen, considerably to the north-east, and which is almost certain to be a continuation of the coalfield. Thus, the coalfield is 1000 miles in length, but its width is unknown under its great icy covering. Probaly the coalfield extends under the South Pole itself. The field can, therefore, be deemed the largest in the world.

"At the same time, it is not yet known whether the seams of coal, which are from six to seven feet in thickness, are of sufficient economic value to be worked and used. The specimens brought by the Terra Nova from Messrs. Taylor and Debenham's depot, and which are now in New Zealand, will settle this question when they are analysed, and the results definitely known.

INTERESTING RESULTS.

"From the scientific point of view, one of the most interesting results of the expedition is the securing by Messrs. Taylor and Debenham of the beautiful fossil plates, apparently of some freshwater Crustaceon. This is the first trace of freshwater life belonging to any kind of large animal—if it really proves to be of freshwater origin—that has ever been obtained in the Antarctic Continent. The examination of these remains will be of vast interest to those scientists who are studying animal life on the earth, and its migration.

"It is clear that the extensive collections of Mr. Raymond E. Priestley were found in the neighbourhood of Mount Nansen. The rocks and specimens secured there will throw additional light on the age of the remarkable Antarctic coal field when they are studied in conjunction with the well-preserved fossil plants obtained with so much risk to the collectors' own lives, and brought back with such devotion; to the very camp where they eventually died, by Dr. Wilson, chief of Captain Scott's staff, and Lieutenant Bowers. All these specimens will prove of intense interest, and when the results are worked up one will be able to form a picture of the various kinds of plants which covered the face of the Antarctic continent when the beds of peat—now turned into coal—were on the margin of its forest lakes.

"Commander Evans, who is one of the most expert of the young surveyors in the Admiralty, has made a most interesting and accurate resurvey of the region around Mount Erebus, and has greatly assisted Dr. Simpson and Dr. Wright in their magnetic and other studies in Antarctic physics.

"Mr. Lillie, chief biologist, and his assistant, Mr. Cherry-Garrard, have brought back a very large amount of biological material, much of which will be quite new to science. It may also be added that Mr. Wright has taken a series of pendulum observations at Captain Scott's winter quarters, which, when compared with those of Captain Amundsen, should go far to show the amount of Polar flattening in the Antarctic regions. These are only a few of the many important scientific results obtained by the Scott expedition, and of which we have been informed.

"It must not be forgotten that the ascent of Mount Erebus by Messrs. Priestley and Debenham, and the careful studies of all the glacial phenomena by Mr. T. Griffith Taylor, an able glaciologist, and Dr. Wright, will make much for the advancement of our knowledge respecting the most interesting of all the volcanic mountains in the world—Mount Erebus—as well as for the extension of our knowledge regarding the vexed problem of glaciation."

THE ATTEMPTED RESCUE.

The attention of Professor David was drawn last night to the statement recently made to the effect that if the Russian dog boy Dimitri had been allowed to make a final dash to the relief of Captain Scott and his party some at least of the explorers would have been saved.

"When Mr. Garrard and Dimitri reached One Ton Depot, the dog food had run out," said Professor David. "The two men had been marching for about a fortnight in the face of the blizzard, and were exhausted. They returned to their camp, and when they reached it Mr. Garrard was very ill, and Dimitri himself was sick. The dogs, too, were so poor as to be unfit for further work. The public do not know or realise the conditions in Antarctica. To go on would have meant death. Everything possible was done in the circumstances by all the members of the expedition, who undoubtedly endured great hardships."

THE NATIONAL MEMORIAL.

PROPOSED GOVERNMENT CONTRIBUTION.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

At a conference, in which the Lord Mayor, the Federal Attorney-General (Mr. Hughes), and the State Attorney-General (Mr. Brown) took part to-day, it was suggested that contributions by the Commonwealth and State Governments on behalf of the people should be made to the national memorial fund for the maintenance of the dependents of the Antarctic heroes who lost their lives.

Mr. Fisher (Prime Minister) has been notified, and details will be considered when his views are made known.

"NO SIDE-TRACKING."

The Lord Mayor (Ald. Cocks, M.L.A.), referring to a suggestion that the proceeds of the Lord Mayor's Fund should be used for the purposes of a statue, said yesterday that he had instituted the fund without any committee, and if there was to be any intention of side-tracking the proceeds, so that they would not go directly to the benefit of the bereaved, so far as he was concerned the money contributed would be returned to the people who gave it. He would be no party to the putting up of a statue or monument. The money had been sent in spontaneously for the benefit of those who had been dependent on the dead explorers, and he would hold entirely to the lines of Captain Scott's appeal.

POLAR HEROES' CONCERT.

A meeting will be held at the Hotel Australia to-day, at 4 p.m., over which the Lord Mayor, Alderman A. A. Cocks, will preside, to further the success of the concert which is being given by the leading artists of Sydney in aid of the Scott Memorial Fund. All those interested are cordially invited to attend.

SCOTT APPEAL MATINEE

BOX PLAN OPENS TO-DAY.

The sale of seats will be entered upon to-day for the Sydney matinee organised by Mr. Hugh J. Ward, on behalf of the J. C. Williamson management, to raise funds for the dependents on the members of Scott's expedition. The plan will open at Paling's at 9.30 a.m.

The programme has reached the stage now where it has to be cut down to come within reasonable limits. Over 70 people, all ready to appear, are available for the entertainment. These include many prominent favourites of the theatre. Already there is frantic haste in rehearsal. Many of the performers have undertaken new forms of artistic expression, but none is in a worse plight than Miss Browne or Miss Jessie Lonnen, trying to master the technique of the bones. Miss Grace Palotta and Miss Billie Barlow find little difficulty in extracting noise from the tambourines, though they are doubtful of its musical quality. At the same time they are determined to make their debut in minstrelsy. The way of the interlocutor is also hard. He is supposed to catch and return satiric missiles directed at himself from the endmen and endwomen. This is taking a great deal of rehearsal to accomplish with readiness and spontaneity.

When Mr. J. C. Williamson was handed his part in "Kerry" yesterday he read it through, and found, to his great relief, that his memory had been steadfast, so that he had not to "study" the long role. After a couple of readings he was word perfect. As Kerry is a butler, Mr. Williamson is faced with the sacrifice of his moustache upon the altar of art. Mr. Julius Knight will appear in Conan Doyle's sketch "Waterloo," and such well-known players as Mr. Geo. S. Titheradge, Mrs. Brough, Miss Eugenie Duggan, Miss Florence Young, and Mr. Harry Plimmer will be agreeably conspicuous in the big bill.

The street collection for Saturday morning is being carefully planned, and a number of owners are placing their motor cars at the disposal of the collectors. The time of the raid by "motor brigands" will be restricted to a couple of hours, during which period a lot of ground will be covered. Relays of entertainers will be supplied on the electric lorry. The aim is a lot of money in a little while.

A notification appears elsewhere from the joint organisers of the athletes' demonstration to be held at the Stadium on the following Saturday, to representatives of sports and pastime clubs to assemble at the Hotel Australia at 3.30 to-morrow afternoon. Committees will then be formed, and the afternoon's programme discussed. Athletes will thus have an opportunity of exercising their showman instinct in helping make the afternoon of wide appeal and attractiveness.

National Library of Australia http://nla.gov.au/nla.news-page1286635

COMBINED PICTURE BENEFIT.

The big pictorial demonstration at the Town Hall next Saturday evening in aid of the dependents on the members of the Scott Expedition is in the hands of a committee from the theatres concerned, consisting of Messrs. Edwin Geach, C. Spencer, Wm. B. Miller, Henry Gee, and Harry G. Musgrove. This committee has now received the following telegram from the Governor's A.D.C., at Sutton Forest: "His Excellency grants patronage to entertainment on Saturday, but regrets presence is impossible owing to previous engagements."

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

LITHGOW, Monday.

At a meeting of the Lithgow Men's Brotherhood on Sunday afternoon the following resolution was unanimously carried:—"That this meeting of the Lithgow Brotherhood expresses its profound sorrow at the death of Captain Scott and his brave companions, and records its admiration of their intrepid and self-sacrificing patriotism, and tenders its heartfelt sympathy to all who have been so sadly bereaved."

A memorial service in connection with the tragic death of the Antarctic explorers was held in the Methodist Church on Sunday evening. Rev. F. T. Walker was preacher, and took for his text "He scattereth the hoar frost like ashes. He casteth of His ice like morsels. Who shall stand before His cold. The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of Lord."

NOWRA, Monday.

At the Nowra Presbyterian Church on Sunday the Rev. J. Muir's sermon specially touched on the Scott Antarctic disaster, and appropriate hymns were sung. In the evening the organist (Miss Grant) played the Dead March in "Saul."

WHY NOT A MEMORIAL?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As the national fund being raised on behalf of the widows and families of Captain Scott and his party is likely to reach an enormous sum, probably more than will be required for their necessities, might I suggest that a portion raised in New South Wales be set apart to establish a memorial to perpetuate the memory of the brave Britishers who were both successful and unfortunate in their discovery of the South Pole. While the great work put in by Captain Scott and his comrades will no doubt be written and published world-wide, and become a volume in the library of most people, yet something more is necessary to inspire the generations yet to arise with the record of brave men, just as we have at the present time monuments to the memory of brave hearts who have done much for their Empire. Captain Scott and his exploring party cannot be forgotten in the present and rising generations, but there are those who come after who will need reminding of the heroic deeds of Captain Scott and party, the memory of which could be perpetuated in our libraries and art galleries, either in the form of sculpture or painting, the same as many of our past brave Britishers are remembered to-day.

Trusting my suggestion will meet with approval, and a strong committee formed to carry out some such suggestion,

I am, etc., CITIZEN.

MAWSON'S RETURN.

OBJECTS OF THE EXPEDITION.

THE SOUTH MAGNETIC POLE.

Dr. Mawson's expedition, which, as stated yesterday, is on the point of leaving the Antarctic on its return to Australia, has been down south for about 14 months. It was purely of a scientific nature, but the discovery of mineral wealth was considered probable, and investigations were to be made also in regard to whaling and sealing.

Dr. Mawson had earmarked for exploitation a stretch of about 2000 miles of coastline between Cape Adare and Gaussberg.

This field lies due south of Australia, and less than 2000 miles from its shores, the latitudes being from 70 degrees to 65 degrees south. In other words, the latitude corresponds to that of the north of Iceland, in Europe, or of part of the Yukon Valley in Alaska. It bounds, in fact, the most northerly lands of Antarctica, with the exception of the outjutting portion of Graham Land, to the south of Cape Horn. Prof. David stated last year that in all probability its climate would, though severe, be quite compatible with permanent occupation by man. However, this question will be settled by the experiences of the expedition. The distance from Australia at its nearest points is about equal to that between Melbourne and Perth. The original discoverer was the French navigator, Dumont D'Orville, who sailed from Hobart early in 1840, and was back there in seven weeks, having sailed along some hundreds of miles of the coast, landed a party, and named the part still known as Adelie Land. In the interim none had effected a landing there, and few had even sighted the coast.

In outlining the plans of his expedition Dr. Mawson stated that practically every member of the land party would be a specialist in a particular branch of science, most of them being graduates of Australian and New Zealand universities. It was intended to land at intervals three separate shore parties, each equipped with the necessities for wintering. It was their special desire to accomplish a complete geographical and magnetic survey between Cape Adare and Gaussberg. This would be effected by sledging parties proceeding along the coast on either hand from the wintering stations. One inland party would be despatched to the magnetic pole, coming in on it from the opposite direction to the approach made by the Shackleton expedition. By this journey it was hoped to complete the magnetic data that were wanting in the vicinity of the South Magnetic Pole. The sledging journeys would be accomplished by man hauling, dog-teams, and motor sledges. Sledging over sea ice in the early spring might be possible; such journeys would be accomplished with seal meat and blubber as food, collected en route. Scientific knowledge of this area was entirely wanting. The magnetic charting would be of value to navigation. The want of geological data from there was keenly felt, especially in Australia, where there was a dependence of the local geology upon that of Antarctica. Biological researches must be rich in new discoveries; it might be that there was the habitat of some of the rare types of seals and Antarctic birds. Certainly the Southern Ocean, in that vicinity, abounded in whale and seal life, and if they could establish convenient harbours or discover sub-Antarctic islands there was sure to follow commercial enterprise on these lines.

The meteorology of this area was, he said, very important in connection with shipping along the southern coast of Australia and New Zealand. An effort would be made to discover whether a deep gulf existed to the west of Gaussberg. The winter was to be spent in oceanographic work on the lines adopted by the Prince of Monaco. Deep-sea trawlings from between 500 and 2000 fathoms would be made in this hitherto unexplored sea, and almost every species brought up must be new to science.

UNAWARE OF CAPTAIN SCOTT'S FATE.

STATEMENT BY PROFESSOR DAVID.

Asked yesterday if the news had been conveyed to Dr. Mawson by wireless of the disaster that had overtaken Captain Scott and his polar party, Professor David said, "No, I do not think so. Of course the dreadful news was flashed from wireless station to wireless station, but I think that Dr. Mawson's station was dismantled before the fate of Captain Scott and his comrades became known."

Questioned regarding the possibility of Dr. Mawson or any of his party touching at any of Captain Scott's camps, and learning the news, Professor David said it was extremely unlikely as the Antarctic was a vast continent, bigger than Australia, and while Dr. Mawson was 800 miles as the crow flies from Captain Scott's route to the Pole, Mr. Frank Wild and his party were over 2000 miles away.

Professor David said he expected Dr. Mawson's vessel to be off Cape Borda on the return journey early in March. The Professor's message was very brief, but it appeared that the Aurora was apparently three weeks late in reaching Adelie Land. She left Hobart for Antarctica in December last, and expected to reach Dr. Mawson's base on January 16. The wireless outfit taken down for Dr. Mawson by the Aurora had enabled him to transmit messages, but he had been unable to receive them.

The Professor confidently expects that Dr. Mawson will bring back with him a large quantity of new geographical and meteorological information, including new data regarding the south magnetic pole. This information, together with that secured by the Shackleton and Scott expeditions, will prove of great assistance to scientific research.

MOUNT LYELL DISASTER.

THE RECOVERED BODIES

HOBART, Monday.

The five bodies which were recovered from the 700ft level of the North Lyell mine on Friday proved to be those of Charles Green, John Bowden, Eden Hills, and William and James Tregonning. All the bodies were in a wonderful state of preservation, and the attitudes were reposeful and quite in accord with the description that has been given of death from carbon monoxide poisoning.

TRUCK SHORTAGE.

WESTERN MINES SUFFER.

LITHGOW, Monday.

Inconvenience and Broken time were caused at the local collieries in the first week of the past fortnight through shortage of trucks, mainly owing to the heavy wheat traffic from the west. There has, however, been an improvement during the last week of the fortnight, and it is evident that the railway officials are doing their best to keep the mines going.

At the Lithgow and Hermitage mines eight days were worked, while miners at the Vale of Clwydd put in 11 days, though shifts were broken. Eleven shifts were entered upon at the zig-zag, but six hours were lost on Thursday and Friday through want of trucks. Ten shifts were worked at Oakey Park and Great Cobar mines, while at the Mudgee line collieries, Boldon and Irondale worked 11 shifts, and the Invincible ten shifts. In each case there was a certain amount of broken time, as no trucks were available.

THE CHIEF RABBI.

RESULT OF ELECTION.

LONDON, Feb. 16.

Rabbi Dr. J. H. Hertz, formerly Jewish minister at Johannesburg, has been elected Chief Rabbi of the United Hebrew congregations of the British Empire, with 298 votes as against 39 recorded for the Rev. Dayan M. Hyamson.

The election of a Chief Rabbi, exercising jurisdiction in the United Kingdom and, in a limited degree, throughout the British Empire, became necessary owing to the death of the late Very Rev. Dr. Herman Adler, who died in 1911, and succeeded his father, Dr. N. M. Adler, as Chief Rabbi in 1891. Considerable delay has taken place in the selection of a successor, partly owing to the paucity of suitable candidates, and partly owing to differences of opinion as to the person to be chosen. The Chief Rabbi is elected by an elective body representative of all the Hebrew congregations contributing to the Chief Rabbi's Fund, the number of delegates being in proportion to the amount contributed. Owing to the predominance which this system gave to the wealthier congregations, the Federation of Synagogues, which is a union of a number of the smaller Synagogues, mainly in the East End of London, Lord Swaythling being the president, withdrew from participation in the election. The Sydney Hebrew congregation is among the contributing synagogues, and was entitled to be represented at the elective conference. But the dominating influence in the election has rested with the United Synagogue, of which Lord Rothschild is president, consisting of the principal synagogues in London, of which the Great Synagogue, in Duke-street, Aldgate, is the oldest.

The elective body appointed a selection committee to consider applications for the Chief Rabbinate. Mr. Albert H. Jessel, K.C., a vice-president of the United Synagogue, was its chairman, and among its other members were Sir Stuart M. Samuel, M.P., Sir Adolph Tuck, and Mr. Evelyn de Rothschild. The committee met at the house of Mr. Leopold de Rothschild on January 12, when the following resolution was passed:—"That, having regard to the widely-expressed desire of the community that one name only should be submitted to the elective body, the committee declares its opinion that of the two candidates mentioned in the resolution of the 22nd June last Rabbi Dr. Hertz should be specially recommended to the elective body for election." The committee appointed last Sunday as the day for the election. By the resolution of June 22 the selection committee recommended two names to the elective body—Rabbi Dr. Hertz, who has now been elected, and Dr. Moses Hyamson, with the addition of a possible third, Dr. B. Drachman, of New York. Dr. Hyamson is a Dayan (i.e., a member of the Jewish Beth Din, or Ecclesiastical Cavit), and has been exercising the functions of Chief Rabbi since the late Dr. Adler's death. He has had considerable experience as a Jewish minister in various parts of England, is a Hebrew scholar of some eminence, and was a Doctor of Laws of London University. It was felt, however, that a unanimous choice would be more consonant with the dignity of the office. At one time there was an attempt to secure the election by unanimous consent of Rabbi Drachman. But as Dr. Drachman's condition of candidature was that he should be chosen without a contest, and as the other two candidates declined to retire, this modus vivendi could not be adopted.

The new Chief Rabbi, Dr. Joseph Herman Hertz, was born in Hungary on September 26, 1872 (being thus only 40 years of age), and emigrated to New York in 1884, where he was educated at the New York City College, Columbia University, and at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. He is a Doctor of Philosophy, and received the Rabbinical diploma in 1894 (curiously enough, from Dr. Drachman), and acted as Rabbi of the Syracuse congregation, New York, till 1898, when he was appointed Rabbi of the Witwatersrand Old Hebrew Congregation, Johannesburg, a post he held till 1911. During the past year he has been Rabbi of the "Orach Chaim" Synagogue, New York. Whilst he was in South Africa Dr. Hertz was expelled by the Boer Government from the Transvaal for advocating the removal of Jewish disabilities. When the Transvaal was conquered by British troops Lord Milner appointed him a member of the High Commissioner's Consultative Committee, and of the Imperial Relief Fund. In Johannesburg Dr. Hertz was associated with all kinds of philanthropic and public work. He helped to found the Jewish Board of Deputies for the Transvaal and Natal, the South Johannesburg Talmud Torah, and the South African Jewish Orphanage, whilst he was administrator of the public library. He was Professor of Philosophy at the Transvaal University College and a member of the literature committee of the University of the Cape of Good Hope. Amongst his publications are "The Ethical System of James Martineau," "Bachya: the Jewish Thomas a'Kempis," "The Jew in South Africa," "The Place of the Unijew in Modern Life," and a number of sermons and addresses. The new Chief Rabbi speaks extempore, and is a fluent and eloquent preacher. It is interesting to note that he is, like Dr. Gaster, the Chief Rabbi of the Sephardi community in England, a Zionist.

WHEELERS' CASE.

DECISION OF JUDGE SCHOLES.

STARTING TIME FIXED.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

At the Industrial Court at Newcastle on Saturday Judge Scholes gave judgment in respect to the starting time for wheelers at the Burwood Colliery.

Whether, under the circumstances of the employment of coal miners, wheelers, surface hands, and other persons at the Burwood Colliery, in the coal-mining district of Newcastle, owned and worked by the Scottish Australian Mining Company, Ltd., the starting time of such wheelers, reckoned at the cage, is 6.30 a.m. or 7 a.m., or any intervening time.

"The colliery manager, Mr. Groudace, says the rule of the colliery is that all underground employees shall be at their places at 7 a.m., and that the wheelers shall have their horses away off the road at the pit bottom before 6.40 a.m., not later. What this means I do not quite understand, but there it is. The under manager, Mr. Brock, says the rule is that the wheelers shall take their horses from the pit bottom at 6.40 a.m., and that it is not expected of those whose flats are far distant from the pit bottom that they should be at their flats by 7 a.m. It is evident that these rules do not agree, and that, therefore, they cannot both exist.

"The wheelers, who gave evidence, state that for some years the wheelers have been entering the mine at any time between 6.35 a.m. and 6.55 a.m., at their own pleasure, and that there is no rule otherwise."

After briefly reviewing the principal evidence, his Honor said that although there were different statements of the rule regarding the starting time for wheelers at the colliery, he had come to the conclusion that there nevertheless was a starting time for wheelers, and that it was clearly ascertainable from the facts involved in the working of the colliery itself.

"The first definite point of time controlling the working of this colliery is the time of arrival of the morning train at the colliery," his Honor continued, "by which the general body of employees are conveyed. None of the witnesses being able to inform me of the schedule time of such arrival, I have attended at the Railway Department, and find that this train is timed to arrive at 6.38 a.m. The employees arrive then, and the subsequent events must necessarily depend upon that time. The next important definite point of time is the starting time of the colliery, namely, 7 a.m. The employees, having arrived, it takes five minutes to get their lamps, which brings us to 6.33 a.m. at the pit head.

"There are at present 260 underground employees; they go into the cages 10 at a time. The descent takes 40 seconds. Therefore, there are 26 descents, which occupy 17 minutes, without allowing for loading and unloading, which brings us to 6.59 a.m. But of these 260 only about 20 are wheelers; and the evidence is that these wheelers have (and I agree, they being the first underground employees required below, they should have) the first right to the cages, and that the miners give way to them. It is stated that the miners enter at one side of the cage, and the wheelers at the other. If the wheelers are assembled, then without preference over the miners they could enter five at a time, and descend in four cages, and so all wheelers be down under three minutes. This being so, there is ample time for them to be at the cage at the bottom of the pit at 6.40 a.m. Mr. Brock's evidence is that the main body of wheelers are and have been there at that time, and this I believe.

"The evidence shows that some of the flats are distant up to a mile and a quarter from the pit bottom. It is quite plain that some wheelers arriving at the colliery at 6.28 a.m. could not, in the ordinary course (taking time to get their eyesight and so forth), reach their places at the starting time of the colliery, according to Mr. Groudace's statement of the rule. It is also quite plain that all the wheelers arriving at 6.28 a.m. could, in the ordinary course, be at the pit bottom at 6.40 a.m.

"On the other hand, I find myself quite unable to accept the story told by the wheelers, which is that on arrival at the pit head the wheelers as a body have been accustomed or allowed by the colliery rules to sit about the pit head for 27 minutes, doing nothing whatever, when the result would be that the whole machinery of the colliery would be running for 15 minutes in parts up to 30 minutes in other parts without moving a skip. Such a state of things would be so contrary to the well-known systems of colliery management as to render the story unworthy of credence.

"Taking the arrival of the train by which the employees at this colliery arrive as the starting point, and as the controlling factor (for such it is)," he added, "and following up the reasonable course of subsequent and uncontradicted events, and allowing a reasonable time for the ordinary accomplishment of them, and viewing them from the standpoint of ordinary business and colliery management, and rejecting the extraordinary and unbusiness like aspect of the opposite contentions, it becomes manifest that the starting time for wheelers at the Burwood colliery is 6.40 a.m., at the cage at the pit bottom, and I award accordingly. It must follow that for so long a time on any day as the arrival of the train shall be late, this starting time must be extended accordingly.

"This case and this decision applies to the Burwood colliery only. No other mine can be at all involved in it. No principle touching wheeling generally has been considered or is intended to be decided."

TERALBA AGREEMENT.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

While the present crisis is continuing without there being any tribunal to refer disputes to, agreements are being made between the proprietors and miners of some of the collieries. The Minmi miners have not yet placed the agreement they made before the federation, but it is expected that an interview will take place this week.

A meeting of the miners of the Teralba collieries was held yesterday. Last July the Teralba miners entered into an agreement with the Teralba colliery proprietors, whereby a consolidated rate of 1/2½ per ton for shooting and filling was agreed to. The miners are at present working under that agreement. It was stated that the proprietors of Teralba collieries were prepared to increase the rate to 1s 3d, and give the machine men an advance of 3d per day, if the miners were prepared to sign the agreement for three years. The proprietors were desirous of having a guarantee of peace for that period. After discussion, it was decided to endeavour to bring about a conference between the miners of the Teralba collieries and the proprietors.

LORD CHELMSFORD'S BANQUET.

A complimentary luncheon was tendered by the council of the Master Retailers' Association at Farmer's Luncheon Rooms on Friday to Mr. David Benjamin, of Sweet Bros., on the eve of his departure for Europe. Mr. W. T. Waters, the president of the association, was in the chair, and proposed the toast of "Our Guest." The toast was supported by several other members of the council. Those present included Messrs. J. N. Grace, C. Lloyd Jones, James Chalmers, Frank Banfield, E. E. Brown, Reginald Clark, John Goulston, A. E. Hickey, E. D. Hordern, John M'Donell, and S. J. Carruthers, the secretary of the association.

CHINESE STOWAWAYS.

GOT IN THE WRONG BOAT.

FREMANTLE, Monday.

The Customs effected a clever capture of seven Chinese stowaways from the steamer Charon on Saturday night. Having suspicions of the men on board an officer was told off in a boat to watch the river. He pulled alongside the Charon, and after waiting a few hours seven Chinese were lowered into the boat, having in darkness mistaken it for one they were evidently expecting.

SHIPPING DISPUTE.

The State Shipping Board—Mr. [illegible] Manning, barrister (chairman), Mr. [illegible] A. Hall (employers' representative), and Captain R. R. Bradley (Merchant Service Guild)—sat again yesterday, and heard further evidence in support of the claims put in by the Coastal Steamship Owners' Association. Mr. W. M. Cuthbertson, general manager of the Newcastle and Hunter River Company, completed his evidence, and evidence was given also by Captain Davies, of the Pulganbar, and Captain Beach, of the Yulgilbar. Captain Hird, marine superintendent of the North Coast S.N. Company, Limited, was under examination when the board adjourned.

FEDERAL POWERS.

MR. FISHER'S ADVOCACY.

THE EXAMPLE OF CANADA.

KALGOORLIE, Monday.

At the official banquet at Kalgoorlie, Mr. Fisher seized the opportunity to advocate the increase of Federal powers. He said he had thought the Commonwealth Parliament had power to make a common law for the whole of Australia. Nobody had believed anything else, yet the High Court had said they did not have that power. If they had that power it would be a great thing for the Commonwealth. The wheels of industry would turn as they had never turned before. The proposers of the toast had said the country could do with more population; well, in their three years of office more population had come to Australia than during the previous ten years. The Commonwealth was being compared with Canada, but the central Government of Canada had the land, railways, and canals. It controlled trade and commerce absolutely. Every power that was being asked for by the Federal Government of Australia was in possession of the Dominion Government. He had been told that the Federal Government proposals had already been turned down by a majority of a quarter of a million voters. But if they had been turned down by two million voters that would not cause him to waver in his advocacy of extended powers for the Federal Parliament.

Sir John Forrest, however, protested that the occasion offered neither time nor place to discuss controversial politics, although he felt constrained to say his right hon. friend the Prime Minister had rather trenched on that ground.

Senator M'Gregor, taking the cue evidently from the Prime Minister, devoted his speech to a violent attack on the State Legislative Council, but in neither case was the indulgence in controversial oratory endorsed, except by a small section of the great gathering.

CASUALTIES.

MINER'S THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

BROKEN HILL, Monday.

A miner named W. Wilson, working at the South mine, at the 600 feet level, had a sensational escape from death this morning. Whilst spitting two holes one went off, and peppered Wilson badly, blowing him also to the edge of an 80 feet deep chute, where he was rescued.

LANE COVE TRAGEDY.

DEATH OF MISS CALDWELL.

Myrtle Caldwell, 21, lately residing with her parents in Marlborough-street, Leichhardt, who was found shot in the right temple in a shelter shed at Figtree Bridge, Lane Cove River, on Thursday evening last, died on Saturday afternoon in Sydney Hospital.

The bullet is embedded in Wright's brain, and there is little prospect of his recovery.

FIRE AT JAMBEROO.

GIRL SERIOUSLY BURNED.

JAMBEROO, Monday.

A fire was started in the residence of Mr. John Jones early on Sunday morning, through a puff of wind blowing the bed curtains on to a lamp. The room was immediately a mass of flame. Thelma Jones, 7 years of age, was seriously burned about the face, medical aid having to be procured. Mr. and Mrs. Jones also sustained burns.

The fire was confined to the room, but was only extinguished with difficulty.

FEDERAL SERVICE.

EFFICIENCY BY EXAMINATION.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Objection is being taken in certain quarters to the system of qualifying examinations adopted in connection with the Federal Public Service. Mr. E. H. Burgess, the secretary of the Telegraph and Telephone Construction and Maintenance Union, Sydney, is reported to have stated that so far as his branch was concerned, the system had not given satisfaction, and that he was inclined to think that these examinations were not a just way of determining the claims of officers for promotion. According to the commissioner, Mr. D. C. M'Lachlan, there can be no doubt that the steady recruiting of the service by means of competitive examinations has had a marked effect upon the personnel of departments, and has assisted in building up efficiency.

TASMANIAN STEAMER SERVICE.

MR. O'MALLEY ON NATIONALISATION.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. O'Malley) has returned from a trip to Tasmania, and his experiences during the trip have made him a keen advocate for the nationalisation of the steamer service between Tasmania and the mainland. He pointed out that the Commonwealth was spending a sufficient sum in mail subsidies to pay the necessary interest and sinking fund on the cost of three steamers, which could be employed in the service. If the referendum proposals were carried private enterprise would probably find that the Commonwealth would quickly establish a line of steamers between the island and the mainland. The profits derived from a steamship service on the main route could be utilised to provide a service for the more isolated localities, such as Flinders and King Island.

FLOGGING RECOMMENDED.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

The number of sexual cases in the Supreme Court caused the jury to recommend the efficacy of flogging as a deterrent. The Judge commented on the danger of familiarising the mind of the youth with vice, and promised to attend to the resolution.

DELAY AT THE MANNING.

JONES ISLAND, Monday.

Owing to the bad weather on the coast, the steamers Maianbar, Gunbar, and Wandra have been blocked since last Monday in the river, and the steamers Boambee, Ellerslie, and Novelty have been off the bar all the week. On Saturday the weather moderated sufficiently, but it was found that the bar had shoaled up to 7ft of water. The Wandra crossed out, and the Boambee, Ellerslie, and Novelty crossed in. Some of the steamers had a narrow escape coming in. The steamers Maianbar and Gunbar are still unable to cross out from want of water. The Maianbar has 200 head of pigs and calves on board, and the owners are complaining. The largest shippers state that in future they intend to consign by rail. Some of the butter factories and other shippers had to use the train last week on account of the shipping delay.

FIRE IN FLINDERS-STREET.

WOMAN ARRESTED.

At about half-past 10 last night the Fire Brigade received a call to a boarding-house, 50 Flinders-street, city. On arriving on the scene the firemen found that the outbreak had been extinguished by passers-by, and that the damage was confined to the front room.

On investigation it was found that a man named Patrick Murray was slightly burnt about the head and hands, injuries which are alleged to have been received through being struck with a kerosene lamp. It was the bursting of this lamp that caused the fire, and the matter was left in the hands of the police.

Subsequently a woman was arrested and taken to the Darlinghurst Police Station on a charge of maliciously setting fire to the premises.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The predominating influences yesterday in the weather of Australia are still the low pressures, both of monsoonal and Antarctic character. These, however, have lost much of the energy manifested on Saturday, although still retaining their distinguishing features. The monsoonal centre still lies over western Queensland, whilst this pressure body, as a whole, covers fully half the continent—the northern half.

The antarctic depression now lies dormantly over the SE shores of the continent, but is neither this pressure system nor in the monsoonal one is the control of wind circulation of any strength, excepting perhaps for the occurrence of strong local squalls, as was the case on Saturday at Gilgandra.

The high pressure shown over the far western shores of Australia on Saturday has since then worked eastward over the SW quadrant, but evinces no particular character as yet, the central barometric value being 30.1 inches in the far SW corner.

Present indications favour isolated thunderstorms and squalls, but otherwise fine, hot, sultry weather, followed by a cool change.

Ocean Forecasts:—Freshening, squally west and south winds over and south from straits; indications of rough weather off the east coast of Queensland peninsula.

FIRE AT NORTH SYDNEY.

DRAPERY SHOP DAMAGED.

At about half-past 9 last night a fire broke out in the premises of the North Sydney Drapery Company, Miller and Berry streets, which did considerable damage before being extinguished.

The outbreak occurred on the ground floor, and spread with great rapidity among the inflammable contents of the shop and assumed such serious proportions that for the time it looked as if the whole building must be destroyed, but after a long fight the brigade managed to confine the flames to the ground floor, which, with its contents was practically burnt out. The contents of the upper floors were also severely damaged by heat and smoke. It is believed that the damage is covered by insurance.

O'GRADY WINS ON A FOUL.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Frank O'Grady, of Victoria, and Leon Bernstein, of France, met in a 20-round contest at the Melbourne Athletic Pavilion to-night. In the fifth round Bernstein used both hands after being ordered to break, and the referee awarded the contest to O'Grady, who at that time, was so groggy that an early knockout seemed imminent.

FRENCH CONTINGENT LEAVE.

The visiting French boxers, with the exception of De Balzac, who is remaining behind to meet Jerry Jerome, left by the French mail boat Yarra yesterday. They were accompanied by their manager. A large crowd of friends and well-wishers were present at the wharf to bid them farewell.

FINANCIAL.

DEFENCE AND FINANCE.

NATIONAL INSURANCE.

Following up the discussion in yesterday's issue on the above subject we must, however, not rely overmuch on those considerations which make for peace. The best insurance policy against war is being prepared for it. But at what cost? Who shall say exactly how far we should go? To make Australia absolutely safe against foreign aggression is quite impossible, for we have neither the men nor the money. This year we are spending over five millions on defence, which, as we have said, works out at about £1/5/ per head of population. Great Britain spends £1/10/, France £1/2/10, the United States 12/, Russia 7/5, and Argentina £1/4/6. But the population of Argentina being larger than the population of the Commonwealth its £1/4/6 means much more than our £1/5/. As against our five millions, that country finds £7,445,000 for its army and navy. Or take the case of Japan. Though her contribution does not exceed 6/6 per head of population, it represents no less than £16,521,000. Germany's 19/2 means no less than £62,115,000 in 12 months. The difficulty is to draw the line. Some would attempt to have it drawn on a population basis; others say that we should spend a certain percentage of the value of our export trade. But our population is remarkably small compared with the area we have to protect, while our trade is remarkably large compared with our population. Probably it would be wiser to take a middle course, and have due consideration to both factors. The trouble is that we must draw some kind of line between adequate defence, which everybody approves of, and mere Chauvinism, which all reasonable men reprobate. Some may remember the story told by Walter Bagehot while he was still editor of the "Economist." It was in 1851 that the great publicist wrote, and in that year British defence cost 15 millions sterling. To-day the navy alone mops up more than twice that sum, and the army is not much less expensive. Here is what Bagehot, with infinite drollery, wrote:—

First, the Admiralty took away some money with which it made wooden ships; and then it discovered its error, and acknowledged that wooden sailing ships were useless, so it asked for additional money, and made wooden steamships with much eclat. And I, for one, was convinced that it would be all right, and that England was now safe. But in less than a year the Admiralty discovered its error again, and pronounced all wooden ships, whether steam or sailing ships, to be useless; so it abstracted further money and constructed iron-plated ships—the Warrior, and that sort of thing—which cost almost fabulous sums apiece; and now the Admiralty is discovering its error again, or something like it, for it wants more money, and is making what I must call naval nondescripts—a sort of Merrimacs and Monitors—things more like an ugly insect than a ship, and which seem to me capable of infinite varieties, just as insects are. I know (though it is a matter of prophecy, I am sure of it as if it had happened) that as soon as we have made one sort of these ugly and indescribable things we shall be told it is of no use, and that we must make another more ill-favoured and indescribable still. Another point struck me two days ago. An engineer told me they had shot away powder worth a certain sum of pounds sterling in a few trials of this great new gun at Shoeburyness, and when I came to reckon the sum was more than my income tax. Now, it is very painful to me that they should shoot away my income tax.

We realise that our experience will differ only in detail. The Japanese built a navy in a hurry and taxed the people to an incredible extent to enable them to emerge as a first-rate Power. Now its money is spent, and its credit is shattered, and it finds that it possesses only two real Dreadnoughts. On paper, however, it intends to spend a further 25 millions in the next eight years. But not without protest. "Are the people to remain for ever the slaves of a 'sabre' Government?" asks the "Nippon Shimbun," a journal of influence in financial circles in Japan, while the "Yorodzu Shimbun" remarks: "The rampancy of the military has almost reached its zenith in recent years. The dominance of militarism should mean in Japan, as elsewhere, the fall of the State. The army ought to be the servant of the nation, not its master. The future of the country is as dark as it well can be." The expansion of armaments in Japan has pushed up the income tax on large incomes to 5s in the £. Japanese bonds are unpopular on the London Stock Exchange just now, for the gossipers say that Japan must either "borrow or default." An increase of some £12,894,000 has taken place in British naval expenditure since the year 1908-9, whilst in the case of Germany an advance of £6,120,000 is shown for that period, thus revealing a corresponding increase in the case of both nations in proportion to their respective expenditures. France has made an addition of about £5,294,000 since 1908, which is also about the average rate of increase in proportion to her total expenditure. Russia's total of £17,681,000 shows an increase of £7,458,000 over that of 1908, whilst an evidence of Austria's rapid strides as a naval Power is shown in her addition of £3,364,000 during the quinquennium. The only Power that has remained practically stationary, so far as expenditure is concerned, is the United States, whose total, however, has all along been second only to that of Great Britain, which place she still occupies. And now the Commonwealth is entering with its youthful vigour in the race for armaments. What is needed are the coolest of heads to decide exactly how far we can go with safety to ourselves, for crushing taxes are just as much to be avoided as unpreparedness. Of this we must be assured, that we shall never satisfy the extreme jingoist. That is quite impossible.

IS SYDNEY DEBT-RIDDEN?

Mr. R. H. Morton writes:—

Sir,—I have lately received a letter from a gentleman in England, drawing my attention to a statement published in the financial columns of "John Bull," referring to the City of Sydney Loan at 4 per cent., lately floated in London. The article referred to warned the public that Sydney is overburdened with debt, etc.

Is such a statement justified? And could you furnish me with any figures, so that I could acquaint my friend in England?

He also states, "Are there any really good things on your side in the way of investments with ample security, this is the main consideration, railway development, real estate, etc.?"

Knowing your knowledge of financial matters in Australia, could you state what you look upon as gilt-edged securities at present, and what average return they yield?

To put it briefly, how would you advise a trustee living in England to invest a few thousand pounds with ample security in Australia?

From a recent minute tabled by the ex-Lord Mayor (Alderman G. T. Clarke) we learn that the total sum collected on account of rates on improved and unimproved capital values of land within the city during 1912 amounted to £326,957. But as a matter of fact, if the council had been in urgent need of funds, it could have levied taxes which would have brought in £600,000. Admittedly there was a deficit last year. Such investments as the Queen Victoria Markets, Town Hall, and general markets all showed losses, but with improved management these may all be turned into paying assets. In short, the trouble seems to be that the present rate of 1/9 in the £ on the improved rental value, and of 1d on the unimproved capital value, is insufficient to carry on the services and other commitments of the council. The maximum rate chargeable on improved value is 2/ and on unimproved value 6d. Alderman Clarke suggested as a remedy the abolition of the tax on unimproved capital values and the adoption of a land tax only. Fourpence on unimproved capital value would produce in round figures about £400,000, or £73,000 more than the two separate taxes combined. On January 1, 1912, the debenture debt of the council stood at £3,870,600 (including £750,000 for electricity). During 1912 £1,106,900 was negotiated; £250,000 debentures were redeemed on account of Moore-street improvement loan, increasing the net debenture debt on December 31, 1912, to £4,727,500 (including £1,000,000 for electricity), the yearly interest on which aggregated £147,792. The council thus has resources far in excess of its liabilities.

As to the latter part of the letter, there are many sound investments in this State, but it would be invidious to point to any particular ones. This should be left to a reliable stock and share broker. Of course investments of this kind can only be made if the trust instrument permits them.

THE MARKETS.

There were a few changes in prices of Eastern produce yesterday. In view of easier conditions at Singapore, and the fact that houses were well bought at low prices, quotations locally of tapioca were reduced £1 per ton, seed tapioca selling at 17/, and pearl at 18/ per cwt. The rice position suffered no change. Millers had not come to any agreement as to the future, in fact all negotiations were at a standstill. Stocks of canary seed were found to be getting very low, and, in order to conserve stocks, prices were advanced another £2 a ton to 32/ per cwt. This represents an advance of £6 per ton in a month. Mixed bird seed was similarly advanced. The news from the East was of a most discouraging description. No one, it was stated, could possibly know when fresh supplies would be available. Oatmeal prices were reduced £1 a ton. After making this move millers found themselves in an unfortunate position. The market for oats was 2/6 per bushel, but when oatmeal prices were brought down oats went up to 2/8 a bushel, instead of a further easing, which had been generally expected. Further, the oats are not so heavy as was anticipated would be the case, which, of course, means that more grain must be used in milling for the meal. Oatmeal, in 7lb bags, distributed yesterday at 21/ per cwt., and rolled oats in 5lb bags at 24/.

A fair business was reported in most lines of groceries, especially in all fish. Supplies of canned salmon were large, but in other fish lines stocks were only moderate. Dried fruits were still regarded doubtfully, because the Dried Fruits Association had not issued the new prices for currants since its repudiation of the former price. Several large parcels of safety matches were sold.

Samples of tea by the mail yesterday showed high prices, and quality about the same as the previous week. Transactions included 300 packages of Ceylons at prices varying from /8¼ to /10½. Letters from Colombo stated that the offerings this month would be very small, and the quality would show some deterioration, because of an excess of rain. Shipments to Australia during January were of the amount of 1,750,000lb, compared with 2,000,000lb in January, 1912. At the Calcutta sales just before the mail left the quality generally showed no alteration. Commonest kinds were weaker, but all good teas were firm, and recorded higher rates.

Wire was the only line moving in heavy metals, and fair quantities of this commodity were sold to the country. Parcel business for all metal manufactures was practically at a standstill. King's Windsor plaster in load lots was worth 15/, but for smaller lots 16/ to 16/6 was received. Cement continued dull at 13/ for parcels and 13/6 for the distributing trade. Occasionally when a specific brand was insisted upon something over these prices was obtained. The fall in the overseas markets in wire netting and in wire reported in our cables yesterday caused the future to be regarded with hardly as much confidence as of late, more especially as the country was not taking the quantities which merchants desired to sell. The increase in the price of tinplates in Wales hardened the local market, though there was no quotable alteration in prices, which ruled at 16/10½ to 17/ per case for I.C. coke.

The oil market was quiet. Linseed was distributing at 4/3 and 4/5 for Blundell and Spence's, parcels being available at /1 less. Other brands showed the usual twopence below these rates. Cables gave the price of Coates's raw oil at 2/3¾ and boiled at 2/4½ per gallon f.o.b., but these prices were not firm, being subject to confirmation. With the fall in the convention price to £25/10/ whitelead was weak, and nothing beyond a distributing business was done.

Some excitement prevailed in the jute market yesterday regarding branbags. A Melbourne house had received an estimate of the shipments by the Itonus, the January boat from Calcutta, and on that estimate had made large purchases ex Cooeyanna. Others followed the example of the firm. Estimates, however, have before now proved to be wide of the mark, and it would be well to await the receipt of the official figures compiled from the Customs-house returns. These figures should be available in a day or two. Large purchases were made ex Cooeyanna, now unloading at Sydney, at 7/1 and 7/2, but thereafter none could be obtained under 7/3. Spot stocks in store were practically exhausted, and for small lots for immediate delivery 7/6 was paid. Fifty bales of January shipment sold at 6/5 slings, and the same number of February shipment at 6/3 slings. March shipment was quoted at 6/1, and April to June shipments at 5/8. The country was inquiring strongly for woolpacks, remembering the high prices which had to be paid when purchases were delayed last year. One hundred and fifty bales of April, May, and June shipment sold to the country at 2/8 slings, equal to 2/9½ ex store. The spot price was 2/10.

Brewers' goods have had quiet business all the week, with no quotable change in prices.

AUSTRALIAN AND IMPORTED CURRANT PRICES.

The attempt by the M'Laren Vale growers to break down the price of currants fixed by the Dried Fruits Association, has naturally renewed interest in the prices of currants imported from Greece. Before the M'Laren Vale growers made their announcement the Australian Dried Fruits Association fixed the price of currants at such a rate that the merchant who fulfilled all the terms and conditions would be enabled to buy a 50-ton lot of three crown currants at /5¼ per lb, according to prices received by yesterday's mail, Amalies can be landed from Patras at /3 3-16 per lb in bond. But there is the customs duty of /2 to pay, which makes a total landed cost of /5 3-16 per lb. It will be observed that the duty is almost 100 per cent. on the cost of importation. That is what the people of Australia pay to be supplied with Australian-grown currants.

Latest reports from Patras state that the currant market was better. The exports for the season, up to January 1, amounted to 102,000 tons gross, exceeding the exports of the previous season by 1500 tons.

BRITAIN'S MEAT SUPPLY.

DECREASING SUPPLIES OF FOREIGN LIVE STOCK.

The number of cattle and sheep landed in the United Kingdom from various sources showed further large shrinkages during 1912. As compared with the volume of business under this head so recently as five or six years ago, the importation of live stock has now become a business of comparatively small importance, and is apparently destined before long to cease altogether in favour of the trade in chilled and frozen meats. Whereas in 1907 472,015 live cattle and 105,601 sheep were landed in Great Britain, last year only 48,912 cattle and 15,430 sheep were landed.

BREADSTUFFS.

A DULL MARKET.

Though wheat values ruled firm yesterday, there was little business doing. Prompt wheat was most inquired for as shippers want it to complete cargoes and parcels, and 3/7½ was paid for this purpose. Holders were asking 3/7¾. Prices paid in the country both by shippers and millers work out at 3/6¾ ex trucks Sydney, but transactions on this basis were of small extent. Private cables as to the condition of the overseas market added nothing to the information contained in our own cables published yesterday.

In flour a fair number of contracts was made, the Association quoting £8/15/ for city brands, and £8/12/6 for country brands.

LAST WEEK'S CLEARANCES.

The exports of wheat and flour from the port of Sydney for the week ended February 15, according to the Customs-house returns, were:—

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

The new week opened with a good demand for nearly all lines of dairy produce. Eggs alone were dull. Stocks of new-laid suburban varieties were extremely heavy, and there was scarcely a holder in "the street" who was not willing to do business at 1/5. Northern River and South Coast eggs were also weaker at from 1/3 to 1/4. The reduction in this instance was largely due to the splendid condition in which Adelaide importations were opening up. During the past week several contracts have been made with South Australian merchants for deliveries extending up to June at 1/2 per dozen, f.o.b.

Bacon was more plentiful, but there was no change in quotations. Prime factory sides were moving out at from 9½d to 10½d per lb, according to brand. Middies were in excellent request.

Choice quality honey was again in short supply, and sellers of Western had no trouble in clearing at from 3d to 3½d per lb. Inferior samples were, as usual, plentiful, but dull.

The butter market was in a strong position. Choicest grocers' brands were in excellent request at 96/ per cwt. A change of some importance has been noticeable for some time past in the Danish butter trade in the growing demand for that product in Germany. Should the export of Danish dairy produce to Germany continue to expand at the rate of recent years, the choice trade of the United Kingdom will be forced to undergo a very great change. It means that a substantial percentage of those English grocers who have made Danish their first line for nearly a quarter of a century, will be compelled to look elsewhere for their supplies. It is expected that the tariff on butter into Germany will be lowered five, or possibly ten, marks at the next revision, in 1914, and should this materialise England must regard Germany as a serious competitor for Danish butter. Many regard this new outlet for Danish butter as the natural result of the enterprise and perseverance with which that country has impressed upon the world its pre-eminence in butter production. Every butter-making country of modern times that has been in any way remarkable for dairy progress is largely indebted to Danish research, and the lesson which that country has taught by the application of science to the manufacture of butter.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

ADVANCE IN POTATOES.

MAIZE AND OATS EASIER.

There was a strong demand for potatoes yesterday, and although a shipment of 11,000 bags was received from Tasmania and one of 340 bags from Victoria, prices were fully 10/ per ton higher than on Friday last. Prime Tasmanian redskins were commanding £8/10/, while Bismarks and up-to-dates sold readily at from £7/10/ to £8. Victorian samples were moving out at £7/10/ per ton.

Maize was about /3 per bushel cheaper. Arrivals from the rivers were fairly substantial. The Pulganbar landed 898 bags from the Clarence, the Yulgilbar 237 bags from the Macleay, and the Noorebar 120 from the Clarence. Holders of this grain were ready sellers at 4/3—a fall of /3. Interstate maize was worth from 4/4 to 4/5 per bushel.

The market for oats was also depressed. Shipments from Tasmania totalled over 9000 bags, and it was anticipated that the Wakatipu would put out another big parcel on Friday. Choice white sparrowbills or giants were offering at from 2/11 to 3/ per bushel.

Heavy consignments of derrick straw were brought by the Tasmanian and Victorian steamers. Sellers of Victorian oaten were rather weak at from £2/15/ to £3. Tasmanian oaten was quoted at £3.

Onions were in firm hands at £9 per ton. The 460 bags discharged on Saturday by the Bombala had practically all been cleared. The Buninyong had only 100 bags.

The Werribee is due to-day with a small shipment of Victorian chaff.

RAILWAY MARKET.

RECORD FOR LUCERNE.

A formidable array of trucks was in position again yesterday—no doubt a sight to delight the auctioneer, but just as much a sight to sadden the reporter. Buyers were out in force, but bidding was not remarkably spirited, and the sale dragged considerably.

All grades of both wheaten and oaten chaff eased about 5/. A few bags of lucerne dust booked up at 9/, which was said to have established a record, and again Mudgee lucerne hay collared the season's record by realising 7/8. There were no indications of a perceptible advance in the values of either of these lines of fodder. Speaking generally, the lucerne market was unaltered. Wheat was firm at 3/8.

Wheaten chaff sold up to 5/8 several times; a part truck of oaten chaff fetched 5/; lucerne chaff went off up to 7/2, and dust at 9/. Lucerne hay in small bales brought up to 7/8, and in large to 5/7.

AN EASY WAY TO REMOVE SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

For the benefit of our lady readers who suffer from the humiliating disfigurement of hair on face, lips, or chin, we publish herewith a formula which has the advantage of being simple and inexpensive, as well as marvelously effective. It is not claimed by our informant that one application will permanently destroy the hair roots, but it is claimed, and the claims are borne out by actual tests, that one application completely removes the hair; and its regular use, one or two days apart, will quickly and permanently destroy the hair root itself. If you have hair which you wish permanently removed, ask your chemist to mix 4½ drams Pulverised Sulthine Concentrate with 2½ drams Zinc Oxide, P.B., and 1 dram of Powdered Orris Root, and put in a wide-mouth bottle. For use, mix a little of the powder into a paste on a plate by adding a few drops of water. Apply with a narrow knife blade, and remove at the end of two minutes with the back of the knife, when the dissolved hair will come with it. Repeat at intervals of two days. Each time the growth will be less, until it entirely disappears. A good non-greasy cream, such as Creme To-Kalon, may be used after each application.

CAUTION.—This must not be used as a substitute for shaving, as its repeated use completely destroys the hair roots.

CREME TOKALON, absolutely the best non-greasy vanishing cream, beautifies the skin and removes wrinkles. At all chemists.—Advt.

MINING.

A SLACK MARKET.

ALL SECTIONS QUIET.

The weakness of the London metal market, together with an unusually meagre list of stocks quoted by the London Stock Exchange on Saturday, did not conduce to any change for the better in the market yesterday morning. As a matter of fact, the position of affairs was practically unchanged from what ruled during the previous week. Speculation was very dull in all sections, and the values recorded were pretty well unaltered.

It is rather unfortunate that the resumption, after some years, of mining and smelting operations at the "Lloyd" copper mine synchronises with the recent fall in the price of copper. It is sincerely to be hoped that the plucky efforts of the shareholders to cheapen the cost of producing copper will be rewarded by the price swinging back once more to £75, or, at least, £70 per ton. According to the manager's report for the fortnight ended February 12, some 1100 tons of ore were raised. This, together with 330 tons previously raised, made a total of 1430 tons sent to the mill, producing 247 tons of concentrates assaying 14.8 per cent. copper, whilst 50 tons were picked up to 15 per cent. Two furnaces ran during the fortnight, and the third will be started as soon as production from the mine and mill increases.

Some 30 tons 2 cwt of 62 per cent. matte were produced, though it must be borne in mind that the new bottom in the No. 2 furnace absorbed a lot of metal. The Edward roasters are working well, and three shifts will be working from now onwards. Altogether the resumption of work has been accomplished under favourable circumstances, barring the drop in the price of copper.

An exceedingly quiet market ruled during the afternoon. A sale of Mount Oxide options was reported at £46.

MINING NOTES.

The dredge of the Stanthorpe Company, in a run of 193 hours, won 58cwt of tin.

Gold-dredging yields:—Associated Gold Dredging, No. 2 plant (130 hours), 35oz; Turon River, No. 1 plant (130 hours), 58oz.

The directors of the Broken Hill South Silver-mining Company have declared the fifty-fifth dividend of 10/ per share, payable on March 14. The transfer books close on February 28. This will bring the total disbursements of the company to £1,295,000, or £6/9/6 per share.

The Broken Hill Block 14 Company last week despatched 290 tons of carbonates, assaying 26.3 per cent. lead, and 16.1oz silver, also 530 tons of sulphides.

The Diamond Creek Company (Victoria) has declared a dividend of 6d per share.

The January operations of the Briseis Tin and General Mining Company were as follows:—"Total output of black tin, 45 tons. Briseis drift and overburden removed 24,000 cubic yards. Ringarooma overburden 6000 cubic yards, Ringarooma drift 17,000 cubic yards. Wallace properties, 794oz gold, from 112,200 cubic yards, dredged."

A telegram from the Hobart secretary of the Tongkah Harbour Tin Dredging Company states that the output of the past week was 32 tons of tin oxide.

It is officially announced on behalf of the Tasmanian Copper Company, Limited, that the actual deliveries under the agreement with the Tasmanian Metals Extraction Company have been regularly made since the beginning of the year, and that the result of the sampling and agreed-upon assays up to February 6 shows an average net return to the Tasmanian Copper Company (after deducting treatment charges) of 21/ per ton for 700 tons delivered for treatment. Of this amount 200 tons approximately were from ore remaining for the last three years in the bins, and 500 tons from the dump heaps.

LLOYD COPPER MINE.

RESUMPTION OF SMELTING.

Operations at the "Lloyd" copper mine during the fortnight ended February 12 show that the ore raised was 1100 tons, which, with 330 tons raised prior to the commencement of the two weeks' term, made 1430 tons since the commencement of operations. This tonnage was treated in the mill, and produced 247 tons of concentrates, assaying 14.8 per cent. copper and 50 tons of picked ore at 15 per cent.

Two furnaces were running during the period, and the third will be started as soon as production from the mine and mill is increased. The new bottom in No. 2 furnace absorbed a fair amount of matte, which will gradually be given up as the bottom wears.

The production of matte totalled 30 tons 2cwt. 2qrs. of 62 per cent., and 18 tons of 60 per cent. After the 17th inst. the mine will be working three shifts. The Edwards roasters are working two shifts, and the third will be started next week.

The concentrating mill is already working three shifts, but most of the mill hands are new, and will take a little time to get the best results.

MOUNT LYELL BLOCKS MINE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Progress in sinking the main shaft of the Mount Lyell Blocks Company was retarded during the half-year ended December 31, the principal reasons given in the directors' report being the influx of water, caused by the flooding of the North Lyell mine, and the difficulty in obtaining fuel supplies. Dealing with the chance of the company's property benefiting from North Lyell ore bodies, R. Ferguson, mine manager, states: "I have received a copy of the last Mount Lyell report, with plan of workings attached, and the more I study that plan, the more convinced am I that the opinion I have always held and expressed is correct, that in depth the Mount Lyell Blocks Company will participate in the rich ore bodies now being worked in the North Lyell." The expenditure during the six months was £4534, and at the close the cash in hand amounted to £1667.

OPAL MINING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Will you allow me space in your valuable paper to make some remarks re opal being found near Geurie in payable quantities. With the intent to mine, I applied to the warden of that district for permission to search for opal, and the application was granted. I forwarded to the Under-Secretary for Mines, Sydney, samples of stone, which seemed to indicate opal, from three places, each of which was three miles apart. I regret to have to state that the department in their report gave me an unfavourable report in each instance as far as opal was concerned.

I am, etc., ARTHUR BEALES.

HOMEBUSH STOCK MARKET.

SHEEP.

LIGHT SUPPLY—STRONGER TONE.

A light supply of sheep was in view for yesterday's sales, and the good rains that have recently fallen in parts of the principal pastoral districts may lead to a continuance of light supplies for some little while to come. The anticipation is that small supplies will come forward for the next few months. Out of 15,747 sheep (including lambs), listed for yesterday from 49 consignors 14,265 head were penned. The sheep were mainly merinos, and included a good showing of wethers, the bulk carrying quarter to half wool skins. There was a very fair representation of good, useful quality, with a sprinkling of prime. Extra prime were unusually scarce. Medium and light merinos were moderately in evidence. There was a very fair proportion of crossbreds; mainly good to prime, with occasional pens of extra prime; odd small pens of medium were also forward. The selection of merinos was only a fair one, and the crossbreds fair to good.

Buyers were in good attendance, including exporters, the Sydney Meat Preserving Company, Ltd., and the usual country and suburban trade. As the supply was light, with prospects of small supplies ahead, the market opened to brisk bidding at very firm values. As the sales progressed there was some slight irregularity and medium descriptions showed little, if any, change; there, however, was an improvement generally on good to prime, and the market closed strong at an improvement of /9 to 1/ per head on such quality, other descriptions being firm at the best of last Thursday's rates.

Included in the principal lines of merinos was a draft of wethers from Midkin station (Moree) that sold to 20/, a few out of a line from A. Nicholson, Hay, to 18/8, from Manchee Bros. (Binneguy), and J. McMaster (Quirindi) to 16/5 and 16/3 per head, respectively. Among the merino ewes was a draft from Bunna Bunna station (Bellata), to 14/6, from A. Nicholson (Hay) to 14/4, and J. McMaster, 14/1, all carrying very fair skins. Included in the crossbreds was a line from Naranderra that sold to 19/8 for wethers, and 18/11 for ewes; a line of ewes out of a draft from C. W. Pye, Coonamble, sold to 16/9, and from MacKenzie (Henty), to 16/4 per head.

Quotations:—Prime shorn and short wool merino w 15/6 to 17/, extra prime shorn and short wool merino w 18/ to 20/, good shorn and short wool merino w and h 11/6 to 13/6; medium shorn and short wool w and h 7/6 to 9/, inferior 4/6 to 6/; prime shorn and short wool merino e 12/ to 13/6, extra prime 14/6 to 16/, good shorn and short wool merino e 9/ to 10/6, medium and light shorn and short wool merino e 5/ to 7/, prime shorn and short wool xb w 16/6 to 18/, extra prime shorn and short wool xbd w 19/ to 20/, good shorn and short wool xbd w and h 11/6 to 13/, medium and short wool xbd w and h 8/6 to 10/, prime shorn and short wool xbd e 14/6 to 16/, extra prime 17/ to 19/, good shorn and short wool xb e and h 11/ to 12/6, medium and light shorn and short wool xbd e and h 6/ to 9/6; prime woolly merino w (nominal), 19/ to 21/, good woolly merino w and h 15/ to 17/, medium woolly merino w 11/6 to 13/; prime woolly merino e (nominal), 16/ to 17/6, good woolly merino e 13/6 to 14/6, medium woolly merino e 10/6 to 12/.

LAMBS.

HIGH RATES MAINTAINED.

A small supply of lambs was penned, ranging from medium and light suckers and shorn lambs to occasional pens of extra prime woolly lambs and suckers, the pennings generally being up to the average quality. There was a strong demand at late full rates for all descriptions. A draft of lambs and suckers from Manchee Bros. (Binneguy) sold to 17/7, from T. Bowman sold to 15/10, and Powell Bros. to 15/5, odd pens of medium shorn lambs selling at 6/10 per head.

Quotations: Prime woolly lambs and suckers 14/ to 15/, extra prime 17/ to 18/, prime short-wool lambs and hoggets 12/ to 13/6, good lambs and suckers 6/9 to 11/, medium and light lambs and suckers 6/9 to 8/6.

CATTLE.

PRIME FIRM. OTHERS EASIER.

Upwards of 2641 cattle were listed for sale, and 2666 head were yarded, from 102 consignors. The consignments came mainly from the northern and north-western districts, with a fair representation from the south and west, with a couple of drafts from Queensland, totalling 230 head. The yardings, while comprising a fair proportion of prime weighty bullocks and prime handy-weight bullocks and steers, included a considerable representation of medium and plain descriptions. There was a sprinkling of prime cows and heifers, with odd yards of extra prime; but rough and inferior dairy sorts were unduly plentiful. Occasional yards of calves and yearlings were also included in the supply. The weather was excessively hot, and one or two beasts succumbed to heat apoplexy.

There was a full attendance of buyers, and, as the supply of prime weighty bullocks was within the demand, biddings were brisk on such descriptions and values firmer, but more useful weights were not in such strong request, and with medium and plain sorts showed a weaker tendency, the market generally being dull on such sorts.

Among the principal lines was a draft of 45 bullocks from H. E. A. and V. White (Belltrees, Scone) that sold to £11/12/, avg £9/17/3; A. B. Bettington (Scone) having a draft of 50 bullocks to £10/11/, avg £9/11/7; J. M'Leish (Sandy Camp), 81 bullocks and steers to £10/9/, avg £7/9/10. Included in the cows and heifers was a line of 9 head from W. and F. A. Moses (Combadello, Moree), that sold to £8/3/, avg £6/1/6. Yards of rough sorts sold as low as £1/15/ per head.

Quotations:—Yards of prime weighty bullocks, £11 to £11/12/; yards of prime medium-weight bullocks, £10 to £10/10/; yards of prime handy-weight bullocks and steers, £8 to £9; yards of good bullocks and steers, £6 to £7; yards of good light bullocks and steers, £4 to £5; yards of medium and light bullocks and steers, £3 to £3; yards prime cows and heifers, £8/10/ to £7; yards of extra prime cows and heifers, £7/10/; of £8/5/; yards of good cows and heifers, £4/10/ to £5/10/; yards of medium and rough, £1/15/ to £3. Best beef 24/ to 25/; prime weighty beef 21/ to 22/; useful beef 18/ to 20/, medium beef 13/ to 17/ per 100lb.

BATTING COLLAPSE.

QUEENSLAND OUT FOR 115.

BEATEN BY AN INNINGS.

A remarkable batting collapse occurred in the Queensland ranks yesterday, and before 3 o'clock New South Wales had won the interstate match by an innings and 92 runs.

The story of their collapse is a brief one. With 10 on the indicator Law left, Fennelly followed a run later, and then came the departure of C. Thompson, the man who showed up so prominently on Friday and scored a hundred. The score was only 35 when he was bowled; two more wickets fell for three runs, and half the side was out at 38. J. Thomson stayed for some time to make 39, but the side was out at 115.

Queensland's defeat on a sound, dry wicket was almost entirely due to their feeble batting. The pitch, it is true, was fast, and Scott and Massie availed themselves of the fact to the full; but the manner in which the Queensland batsmen faced the bowling was very feeble, and formed a strange contrast to their efforts on Friday, when they put together a total of 276 runs. The disappointment of Queensland must have been immense.

Scott, who was making his first appearance in interstate matches this season, bowled at a great pace from the city end, and maintained a splendid length. He pitched well on to the stumps, and forced the batsmen to play him. With a good wicketkeeper, and a set of capable slip fields to assist him, the Petersham bowler proved too much for the visiting batsmen, who made a half-hearted attempt to master him. Massie, the University trundler, shared the attack with Scott for the greater part of the innings, and his accurate bowling, helped by his height, came off the pitch very rapidly. He preserved a splendid length, and showed subtlety in varying his pace. Mailey bowled two men, and the opposition offered him demonstrated that Queensland has yet a great deal to learn about the mysteries of googly bowling.

J. Thomson was the best of the visiting batsmen. He was at the creases nearly three-quarters of an hour, and scored a third of his side's aggregate.

The few spectators present saw less than two and a half hour's cricket.

An old supporter of the visitors ascribed the collapse of Queensland to the pace of the wicket, which he described as the fastest the team had ever played on.

THE PLAY.

When play was resumed at noon the sun was very hot, and the majority of the fieldsmen wore large white hats. Queensland required 202 runs to avoid an innings defeat.

On a true, fast wicket, Bolton and Law faced Massie (Randwick end) and Scott. Five runs were added before Petersham's fast trundler tempted Law, and Prentice made the catch. 1—10. A run later Massie, who was bowling well from the city end, beat and bowled Fennelly with a low ball. Two Queenslanders were out for 11 runs—a poor start. But worse was to follow. C. Thompson, who scored exactly 100 on Friday, joined Bolton, and runs came fairly well for some time. Twenty-four were added, of which Thompson scored 16, including two fours, but he then fell a victim to Massie. 3—35. Sheppard followed, and Scott knocked his off stump back before he had scored. 4—38. Bolton touched one from Massie, with the total unaltered, and half the side was out for 38 on a good wicket. J. Thomson and W. Rowe then came together. The wicket was very fast, and well suited to the bowling of Scott and Massie. Rowe had bad luck in chopping an off ball from Massie on to his wicket. 6—44. Massie at this stage claimed four of the six wickets that had fallen for 18 runs, and Scott had taken the other two for 19. Massie was very difficult to play, and three of the batsmen were hit by deliveries that reared up.

PRENTICE INJURED.

Prentice failed to hold a chance from J. Thomson off Scott, and was struck in the stomach as the result. He was able to resume, however.

A nice cut through the slips by Hanify brought up the 50 by 63 minutes' batting. J. Thomson just managed to avoid a half-pitched ball from Scott that reared up alarmingly. The ball struck the handle of the bat and knocked it out of his hands, and it fell very near the wicket. At 75 Collins came on at the city end from Scott, and Mailey relieved Massie—the first bowling changes of the day. Eleven runs came from Mailey's first over—a fact that pleased the crowd, who a little earlier had entertained fears that the match would be over before the luncheon interval. J. Thomson scored freely from both bowlers, but at 98, when his score was 39, Mailey bowled him easily with a well-pitched ball, that struck his off-stump. 7—98 was the score at luncheon.

A FOOLISH CALL.

After luncheon Scott took the ball from Collins at the city end. Redgrave stopped his third ball and called Hanify for a very short run. Collins ran in, and easily threw Hanify out. 8—99. Barstow joined his captain, and with a nice four to the on brought up the hundred. Redgrave was the next to leave, lbw to Mailey at 107, and the end came eight runs later when Barstow was cleanbowled by Scott.

Queensland were beaten by an innings and 92 runs. The innings lasted only an hour and forty minutes.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

HOISTING OF BUILDING MATERIAL.

The now common spectacle of a gantry man poised in mid-air on a slab of stone that is being hoisted from the street to the top of some new structure may become a thing of the past, except during the night or in the early morning, for the hoisting of material over the footpaths has come under the ban of the City Council, which has given notice of its determination to rigidly enforce the bylaw prohibiting the practice.

The mandate has perturbed the members of the Master Builders' Association, about a dozen of whom waited upon the Lord Mayor yesterday to see whether the bylaw could not be modified in some way.

Mr. G. P. Jones, president of the association, said that the putting into operation of the bylaw would cause them serious inconvenience. As it stood at present, the bylaw was unworkable. If hoisting was not to be done from the outside, but only from the inside, how would they get on when buildings were merely being altered, or an additional story put on? He thought that the bylaw might be modified in such a way as would safeguard the public. It had been suggested that the building material might be brought to the site of the works the evening before and hauled up during the night. That would be impracticable for several reasons. In the first place, enough material could not be stored up above to last the men all day. Besides that, there would be a congestion of traffic while the materials were being unloaded. Moreover, a large amount of overtime payment would be involved, which would add greatly to the cost of building. When the cost increased ornamentation suffered. It was impossible to erect buildings without causing a certain amount of inconvenience. It seemed to him that they might arrive at a solution of the difficulty if the officers who had the administration of bylaws would confer with the master builders. By this means they might come to an arrangement under which the danger to the public would be minimised.

Messrs. Somerville, Solomon (Public Works Contractors' Association), and Stuart (Brickmakers' Association) also spoke.

The Lord Mayor, in reply, assured the deputation that the City Council had not the slightest desire to hamper or to irritate the builders, or any other section of the community, but in the interests of the public safety it had become necessary to enforce this bylaw. While he could not make anything in the way of an authoritative statement, he could say that if they were prepared to meet the officers of the council concerned in conference the council would be quite willing to give reasonable consideration to the outcome of that conference, and to act accordingly provided that it was considered that the public were sufficiently safeguarded. The public safety was the first consideration.

PADDON'S CHALLENGE TO PEARCE.

About noon yesterday a gathering of rowing men was held at Bateman's Hotel to consider what should be done to bring about a race between James Paddon, champion sculler of Australia, and Harry Pearce, who has gone to England to represent the rowing strength of the Commonwealth. Mr. R. Coombes took the chair, and there were present a number of rowing supporters, and the stakeholder for the time being on behalf of Paddon, Mr. Harry Floyd, handed to Mr. J. E. Bateman a cheque for £100, and a written statement of challenge signed by himself, and witnessed by Jas. Paddon. It was to the effect that he, with the consent of J. Paddon, challenged Harry Pearce to row a sculling race over the Parramatta River championship course for stakes of £250 a side. If either man holds any titles for championships when they may meet such are to be included and to go with the stakes. For instance, if Pearce is champion of the world, that title is to be included, the stakes being in accordance with the conditions. If Paddon is champion of Australia, and Pearce holds no title, then Paddon stakes all his honours. The race must be fixed up before the Pearce-Barry race; but is to take place at a reasonable time after the return of Pearce to Sydney. So soon as someone will act for Pearce and cover the £100, now held by Mr. Bateman, Mr. Floyd is prepared to sign a properly-drawn document to go on with the match, or forfeit the deposit made, provided it is a mutual agreement.

PARRAMATTA DISTRICT.

APPEAL COURT.

In the Appeal Court in connection with the valuations made by the Rookwood Council, held at Parramatta, before Mr. E. L. Maitland, S.M., the Government appealed against the assessment of 23 acres 3 roods at £200 per acre. Mr. Forrest, of the Crown Lands Office, appeared for the Government, and Mr. Robison for the Council. Mr. W. E. Tunks, Government valuer, and Mr. R. W. Harley, land agent, Auburn, gave evidence for the Government. Mr. Harley was of opinion that the land was overvalued. He valued the land in question at £70 per acre unimproved value. Hugh Pritchard, land agent, of Auburn, valued the land at £65 per acre. The Rookwood valuer, Mr. Homer, said that land between Rookwood and Homebush had been sold at £350 per acre, and the Government had purchased land from Rabone at £200 per acre. The views were better than those at Uhr's Point, where the Government gave £460 per acre.

After argument the Court fixed the value at £81 per acre, or £1900 in all.

A GOLF DECISION.

AUSTRALIAN OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP

WINNER SHOULD HAVE BEEN DISQUALIFIED.

The Rules of Golf Committee at St. Andrews has decided an important point which has a direct bearing on the last Australian open championship, played at Sandringham, Melbourne, in September.

Ivo Whitton, who was the winner of the championship, in playing the fourteenth hole sliced his tee shot into some bushes, from which he lifted his ball under penalty of two strokes, as provided by the rules. Instead, however, of going back, and teeing his ball, keeping the spot from which he lifted it in a line between himself and the hole, he went at right angles to such line, and teed his ball in a spot which gave him a clear and uninterrupted run for the green. The matter was referred to the match committee controlling the championship, and by majority, Mr. W. A. Windeyer dissenting, it was decided that the player was entitled to tee where he did.

It appears that expediency, rather than regard for the rules, was the prime reason for the decision, for had Whitton been disqualified a tie would have resulted for the open championship between D. G. Soutar and F. Popplewell, the well-known New South Wales professionals, and would have had to be played off, while it would also have meant that a tie for last qualifying place in the amateur championship would have had to be played, and the competition considerably prolonged. The committee was composed of Mr. J. M'Leod (captain of Royal Melbourne G.C.), Mr. Ross Gore (secretary of the Royal Sydney G.C.), and Mr. W. A. Windeyer (hon. secretary of the N.S.W. Golf Council).

In accordance with an understanding with the Australian Golf Union, the question was submitted by the New South Wales Golf Council to the Rules of Golf Committee of the Royal and Ancient Club, the case being stated as follows:—

New South Wales Golf Council.—In playing in the open championship of Australia (72 holes stroke competition), which is also the qualifying round for the amateur championship, a player sliced his tee shot at the 14th hole, which is 122 yards long, so that his ball lay hole high to the right in some small bushes about 3ft 6in high. He lifted his ball (under rule 11, rules for play in stroke competitions), and, taking it round on an arc, teed at a point not nearer the hole, but at a distance of about 30ft from the place from which the ball was lifted, and added two strokes. The player was in doubt as to whether he was doing right, and referred the question to a member of the green committee of the club on whose links the competition was being played, who was among the spectators, but who had no official standing, as the competition was not under the control of his club, but under the control of the Australian Golf Union, and this gentleman said he thought the player was entitled to move his ball round to where he did.

The competitor with whom he was playing—a Scotch professional, said: "It is nae fair, he canna do that." The ball was teed on bare ground at a point which gave him a clear shot at the hole. If he had gone in a straight line behind, keeping the spot from which the ball was lifted between him and the hole, there came first the side branches of a thin wavy ti-tree bush about 12ft high, and some coarse grass, then at a distance of about 10ft from where the ball was lifted a cleared oval space of bare ground, measuring about 32ft by 20ft, from which the hole was visible, and in which it was possible for him to have teed and lofted on to the green over the beforementioned branches, or from which, by moving a couple of club lengths off the direct line to a spot within 12ft of the place from which the ball was lifted, he could have had a clear shot on to the green through a gap in the bushes. Producing the line from the ball to the hole across the cleared space abovementioned, there was 60ft of ti-tree bush about 15-20ft high, then a large cleared and grassed space in which is the 15th tee, and on which it was possible for the player to have teed, and from which he would have had a shot of about 140ft to the green. The player returned the lowest score, and the point was brought before the match committee, who decided by majority that "because he could not tee behind without bringing a bush or bushes in his way which were not between his ball and the hole before the ball was lifted, he was entitled to tee a ball not nearer the hole, but behind a line at right angles to the line from his ball to the hole as near as possible to the place from which he lifted, and that, in the absence of any local rule dealing with such a hazard, he was not required to go back beyond the limits of other hazards, which would come between him and the hole if he went back in a straight line." Photographs and a diagram drawn to scale are sent herewith to show the position clearly.

1. Is this decision correct, or is the point governed by ruling No. 241, Chicago Golf Club?

2. Does "behind" in rule 11 (rules for play in stroke competitions) mean "not nearer the hole," or does it mean "keeping the place from which the ball is lifted between the player and the hole?"

By yesterday's mail the council received the St. Andrews decision as follows:—

New South Wales Golf Council.—In a stroke competition A's ball lay near the side of a putting green in the edge of some scrub, which adjoined a strip of wood, where the trees were about 15-20 feet high. A few yards behind the spot where the player's ball lay, there was a cleared space in the wood some 22 feet by 20 feet; and about 20 yards further back the teeing-ground for the next hole and the open course. The player, instead of keeping the spot from which the ball was lifted between himself and the hole, teed it at the side of the wood, about 12 yards to the side, and thus obtained a clear shot at the hole, contending that, had he gone back, he would have put fresh hazards between himself and the hole.

1.—Was he right in doing this?

2.—Does "behind" in Stroke Rule 11 mean "not nearer the hole," or does it mean "keeping the place from which the ball is lifted between the player and the hole?"

Answer:

1.—No.

2.—The word "behind" signifies that the player shall keep the spot from which the ball was lifted between himself and the hole. The Rules of Golf Committee is of opinion that there was no difficulty in complying with Stroke Rule 11, more especially as a player is permitted to prepare his tee without the restriction imposed by Rule 15.

The photographs show that from the cleared space some 32 feet by 20 feet in size the ball could be played to the hole, as the man standing at the hole is visible. It is not unusual in lifting a ball under provisions of Stroke Rule 11 for a player to play over hazards which were not between the hole and the spot from which the ball was lifted.

The decision is important and will be read with interest by all golfers.

In conjunction with the above matter it is interesting to state that immediately after the championship we expressed the opinion in our sporting review that Whitton should have been disqualified, the following appearing in our issue of September 25:—

"The winner, Ivo Whitton, in the open championship was considered by the match committee, in view of representations that, at the 14th hole, he, having played into an unplayable position, elected to pick up and tee under penalty of 2 strokes, but instead of teeing behind the place where the ball lay the player teed at the side of that spot. To have teed behind would have entailed going back some 30 yards and playing over some ti-tree bushes of the height of about 12ft. The committee decided that Whitton was entitled to tee where he did, and it appears that, in doing so, they did not interpret the rule strictly or correctly. Rule 11, clause 1, of special rules for stroke competitions says:—'A ball may be lifted from any place on the course under the penalty of two strokes. A ball so lifted shall be teed and played behind the place where it lay; if this be impossible, it shall be teed and played as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer to the hole.' The interpretation rests upon the meaning of the word "impossible," which, on reference to the dictionary, we find to mean, "that cannot be done, impracticable," etc. And while it would have rendered Whitton's shot longer and more difficult by reason of his having to carry the ti-trees, it is apparent that it was quite practicable for him to have gone back. It would have been bad luck for Whitton to have incurred the penalty of disqualification; but the rules of golf should, we think, in the best interests of the game, be construed strictly, regardless of the consequences. Had Whitton been disqualified it would, of course, have rendered him ineligible to compete in the amateur championship, and the result would have been that three men would have tied for eighth place, and an additional day would have had to be allowed to enable them to play off."

ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

DIFFICULTIES OVERCOME.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Sir Charles Mackellar presided over the annual meeting of the Sydney Amateur Orchestral Society at Paling's last evening.

The report stated that, owing to the financial losses of the 20th season, it had been deemed advisable to suspend operations for a short period, pending the obtaining of financial support necessary for a continuance of the society's activities. The debit balance (with the exception of £20 due to Signor Hazon for purchase of music) had been liquidated by generous gifts from the executive officers and subscribers. The late conductor, Herr Slapoffski, was unable to undertake the position of conductor, owing to his engagements, and Mr. Alfred Hill was appointed to the position. Rehearsals were entered upon, the attendance of the members being most gratifying. The concerts under Mr. Hill's direction fully maintained the high standards of previous years, and the committee considered that Mr. Hill should be heartily congratulated upon the success that had attended his endeavours as evidenced by the enthusiasm displayed by the members at rehearsals, and the high standard of the concerts, which had much appreciation. The enjoyment of the concerts was much enhanced by the performance of Mr. Cyril Monk at the first concert of a concerto for violin and string orchestra by Tartini, and at the second concert by vocal items rendered by Mr. Arthur Appleby, and the first appearance with the society of Miss Annette Scammell in Schumann's Concerto for pianoforte and orchestra. The report added that Mr. Dean, hon. auditor, had given valuable service, extending over 21 years. Mr. J. Schute had been appointed in his place. The society had also sustained a loss by the resignation of Sir James R. Fairfax from the position of president. A matter for regret was that the Governor was shortly to leave New South Wales. Lord Chelmsford during his term of office had in many ways assisted the society by his kindly interest. The musical community was losing a keen supporter and enthusiast, and the society a kind and courteous patron.

The balance-sheet showed a credit of £18 5s 2d.

The report and balance-sheet were adopted.

The chairman said he was absent from the Commonwealth during the period the deficit was being made good, and therefore he had no opportunity of subscribing to the fund. It was his intention to send to the treasurer a cheque for £10 10s to assist in paying off what was due.

Officers were elected as under:—President, Sir Charles Mackellar; vice-presidents, Dr. G. T. Hankins; Dr. R. H. Todd, Messrs. Lachlan Beaton, R. B. Barton, P. F. Marich, and Judge Heydon; committee, Messrs. C. S. Cape, D.S.O., Geo. Hewison, A. H. Norman, J. W. Aitken, A. W. Green L. S. Drummond, H. N. Southwell, Nelson Illingworth, and Walter Brown; hon. secretary, Mr. James H. Merriman; hon. treasurer, Mr. J. Neale Breden; hon. auditor, Mr. James Schute; hon. librarian, Mr. W. I. B. Mote; admission committee, Messrs. W. T. Brown, J. A. Arcus, F. E. Miller, and A. H. Norman.

The satisfactory condition of the society's affairs was referred to by Mr. R. B. Barton. Touching on the temporary suspension, the chairman remarked that had he been in Sydney he would have objected to the course taken. He was confident that good progress was in store for the society.

Mr. C. S. Cape moved that a hearty vote of thanks be accorded his Excellency for his interest in the society. Lord Chelmsford was a musician, and he had helped them very materially.

The motion was carried unanimously.

THE SHAKESPEARE MEMORIAL.

BIG SPECTACULAR BALL TO BE HELD

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Shakespeare Tercentenary Memorial Fund, held at the Town Hall yesterday, Judge Backhouse presiding, it was decided to hold a great Shakespearian Ball in the Town Hall on April 23 (Shakespeare Day).

Mr. Hugh Ward stated that he had communicated with Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton on the subject, as on the date in question they would be in Sydney, and they had replied to the effect that they would be delighted to render any assistance possible. Mr. Ward offered to organise the ball. He said it might be made the greatest spectacular ball ever seen in Sydney. Old English dances would form a feature of it, and by means of special lighting arrangements a splendid effect would be produced.

Mr. H. N. Southwell (chairman of the general entertainments committee) stated that his committee had already been considering the question of arranging a ball, and Lady Cullen had intimated her readiness to call a meeting of ladies of Sydney to discuss the matter.

Mr. J. C. Williamson, who has been elected a vice-president of the fund, considered the idea a good one, and he thought that the spectacular nature of the ball would be such that every gallery seat would be full. Moreover, the dances might be interspersed with appropriate platform items.

It was resolved to hold the ball, and to leave the arrangements in the hands of Mr. Ward, who is chairman of the theatrical committee, the general entertainments committee to be asked to co-operate with him towards making the function a success.

Individual subscriptions continue to come in from city and country, but the Shakespeare Ball will be the first organised function in aid of the fund.

It was also decided, on the recommendation of the general entertainments committee, to accept the offer of Mr. E. S. Marks, hon. secretary of the Australasian Athletic Union and the New South Wales Cyclists' Union, to arrange a sports meeting in aid of the fund during Shakespeare week, on the understanding that it should take place on an afternoon or an evening subsequent to the ball—on the following Saturday, if possible. Various athletic bodies have magnanimously offered to arrange the programme and provide the prizes, and it is likely that the trustees of the Sydney Cricket Ground will place the ground at the disposal of the committee free of charge.

It was further decided that an appeal should be issued to the public through the press of New South Wales to support the movement by means of individual subscriptions, and that the Mayors and Mayoresses of all municipalities in the State should be written to, asking them to call public meetings with a view to having a local committee appointed to arrange functions in aid of the fund. Subscription lists are also to be forwarded to the Mayors, with a request that they hand them to some lover of Shakespeare in each town.

FEDERAL BANK.

MR. THOMAS AND MR. CANN.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Minister for External Affairs (Mr. Thomas) made a further statement in regard to the Commonwealth Bank operations. He said:—

"In his interview reported in the papers, Mr. Cann says that it is rather novel that Mr. Thomas should go on to show why the Federal Bank could not do what he takes exception to my saying it would not do. In regard to closer settlement, I took no exception to what Mr. Cann said. I took exception to what he left unsaid. If Mr. Cann in his first interview had stated that, whilst the governor of the bank was not prepared to advance money directly to settlers on closer settlement lines, yet was prepared to take the guarantee of the State Government for all they had already advanced, and also to give them the first call on 75 per cent. of the new business, for them to expend in any way they thought fit, I should have had nothing to say, as I should have thought that the case had been fairly stated. But because Mr. Cann did not mention that important fact I felt that in the statement which he gave to the press he had given the truth, but not the whole truth."

MILK SUPPLY.

PLEA FOR NATIONALISATION.

"The proper supervision of the distribution and production of milk, under purely clean and wholesome conditions, can only be obtained by the nationalisation of the industry," said Mr. G. Saunders, secretary of the Milk and Ice Carters and Dairymen's Employees' Union, in evidence before the Food Commissioner (Mr. T. R. Bavin) yesterday. The neglect of cleanliness, he added, both by employer and employee, was more apparent in the country than in the metropolitan area. Municipalisation of the industry opened avenues for corruption, but this was not so in respect to nationalisation. Depots should be established for supplying milk to the needy sick at the public expense. At present the Sussex-street merchants controlled the price of fodder, and this increased the cost of production. One of the results of nationalisation of the industry would be that there would be no manipulation by the middleman of the fodder market. By organising distribution of milk and avoiding overlapping of runs 20 per cent. could be saved on the cost, or a penny a quart.

CHARGE OF FORGERY.

GREATER J. D. WILLIAMS' SHARES.

A CONTRITE LETTER.

Frank Lloyd, lately manager of the Crystal Palace Theatre, who was arrested in Auckland on January 27, was again brought before the Central Police Court yesterday on a charge of having at Sydney, on or about October 31, 1912, forged an order on Messrs. Furner, Brownhill, and Bragg, sharebrokers, for the purchase of 150,000 shares in the Greater J. D. Williams Amusements Co., Ltd., with intent to defraud. Mr. G. H. Smithers, S.M., was on the Bench.

Mr. F. S. Boyce (instructed by Mr. John Williamson, of Messrs. Williamson and Sons, solicitors) appeared to prosecute, and the accused was represented by Mr. W. A. Windeyer.

Detective J. Walker said the accused was handed into his custody by the Auckland police on January 27. On the way across to Sydney the accused said he was manager at the Crystal Palace, and had been getting £10 a week. He added: "I have made a fool of myself in trying to make some money by putting Joynton Smith's name to this order for the purchase of shares."

James Joynton Smith, of independent means, member of the Legislative Council, residing partly at the Arcadia Hotel and partly at Coogee, said that the signature of his name on the order produced was not his own, and no one had been authorised to put it there. He had received a letter from Frank Lloyd, dated January 22, which read as follows:—

I am very sorry for the act I was guilty of, and I sincerely trust that you will forgive me, as it is only now that I realise the seriousness of the affair. I am enclosing a letter which I was supposed to hand you from Mr. J. D. Williams, and about which I lied to Mr. Williams, stating that I had delivered same. The first letter he gave me to deliver to you I destroyed. I went into this deal to make some money for myself, and was very careful to see that you did not lose anything. I give you my word that I intend to lead a new life, as I have always been more or less reckless. Again asking your forgiveness,

I am,

Yours sincerely,

Frank S. Lloyd.

To Mr. Windeyer: The signature on the order was in one way an imitation of his writing. It was nothing like it.

To Mr. Boyce: He had previously refused a request by the accused to buy shares in the concern.

David James Brownhill, member of the Sydney Stock Exchange, and of the firm of Furner and Brownhill, said the order was produced at a meeting about January 22, at which the witness and Messrs. J. D. Williams, J. Williamson, Bragg, and Furner were present. Lloyd was sent for, and said he had brought the order to Mr. Williams. He said he had seen Mr. Smith and witnessed the document, but had not seen Mr. Smith sign it. Lloyd added to Mr. Williams: "I'm very sorry, sir. I thought I was going to make something out of it." The witness thought Lloyd also said that he put the signature there himself. The firm bought 36,700 shares under the order.

To Mr. Windeyer: The order was supported by Mr. Williams' guarantee, and on that guarantee the shares were bought. The firm would not operate on the order alone.

Frederick Owen Furner, member of the Stock Exchange, said the order had been handed to him by Mr. Legoe. He corroborated the previous witness.

Joseph Charles Bragg, stockbroker, said the order was handed to Mr. Legoe by Mr. Williams some time before Christmas. Witness's firm bought about 10,000 shares under the order. When Lloyd was questioned at the meeting referred to, he seemed to feel his position very keenly, and admitted having signed it himself. He said to Mr. Williams: "I am sorry I've done the double on you." His firm had security before buying the shares.

Edward Lynton, accountant employed by the Greater J. D. Williams Company, Ltd., said the letter to Mr. Joynton Smith appeared to have been written by the accused.

Mr. Windeyer submitted that there was no prima facie case made out. It was necessary to prove intention to defraud. The prosecution might have given some facts which tended to show that the order was signed by the accused, but there was not a tittle of evidence to show that there was any intention to defraud, or that anyone could have been defrauded. Even if there was a prima facie case, it was one in which no jury would convict, and he would ask the magistrate to use his discretion, and dismiss the case.

Mr. Smithers, S.M.: I cannot accept that point of view.

Mr. Windeyer: No lawyer could say there has been a prima facie case made out.

Mr. Smithers: It depends on which side he is. (Laughter.) In my opinion a prima facie case has been made out, and it is not a question of what a jury might do eventually.

The accused, who said nothing, was committed for trial, bail being allowed in personal bond of £750, and one surety of £750 or two of £375.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

TELEGRAPH CONSTRUCTION.

The statement by the Commonwealth Public Service Commissioner (Mr. M'Lachlan), that the promotion of officers has been upon efficiency and seniority, has caused a good deal of comment.

Mr. E. H. Burgess, secretary of the Australian Telegraph and Telephone Construction and Maintenance Union, says:—"So far as my branch is concerned, the system of qualifying examinations has not given satisfaction. I am inclined to think that these examinations are not a just way of determining the claims of officers for promotion. What we ask is that the senior men who have been senior in the service and who have passed through the different grades, should be promoted without being subjected to these qualifying examinations."

FEDERATED ENGINE-DRIVERS.

At a meeting of engine-drivers and firemen at Scarborough, South Coast, on Saturday night it was decided to form a branch of the Federated Engine-drivers and Firemen's Association. Mr. H. A. Mitchell, general secretary, and Mr. F. T. Turner, district secretary, were present. Several complaints were made regarding alleged breaches of the Electrical, Crane, and Winch Drivers' award and the Federal agreement. The general secretary was requested to take steps to have these inquired into.

CLOTHING TRADE.

To-day, at the Sydney Trades Hall, a conference of interstate delegates will be opened for the discussion of matters of Commonwealth interest, in so far as the clothing trade is concerned. It is proposed to inaugurate a movement which will have for its object the creation of uniform conditions and rates of pay throughout the States.

Several of the delegates attended the New South Wales Tailors' and Tailoresses' Union annual picnic at The Avenue Grounds, Lane Cove River, on Saturday.

It was stated that the conditions of the industry needed improving. Wages should be levelled up. This would be possible only when interstate competition was overcome. An Australian award was wanted.

According to Mr. Dooley, M.L.A., industrialism was the right hand and political action the left hand of the Labour movement. The time had arrived for them to fight with both hands. The conference might, he said, be the salvation of the factory workers, who were greatly in need of improved conditions.

Mr. W. Baker, of Melbourne, president of the Federated Clothing Trades' Union, said that Victoria had rates and conditions which did not obtain in other States. She, however, could not be expected to go on improving these unless something were done to effectually deal with the interstate competition.

ELECTRICAL TRADES CONFERENCE.

Mr. D. E. Black, secretary of the Electrical Trades Union, who attended on behalf of New South Wales the interstate conference which was held last week in Melbourne, is satisfied that the Federal constitution for what is to be known as the Federated Electrical Trades Union of Australia will be recognised to be the best in the circumstances. The main object is, he says, to consolidate the trade. There has been what he terms "a good deal of encroachment upon what we regard as matters coming purely within our province." He looks to the new federation to overcome this. New South Wales and Victoria are pretty solid so far as the organisation is concerned, but there could be more of it in the other States. There were four States represented—New South Wales, Victoria, Tasmania, and Western Australia.

TRADES HALL ASSOCIATION.

At the 57th half-yearly meeting of the Trades Hall Association, held on Friday, Mr. J. Brock was re-elected chairman, Mr. R. Mooney treasurer, Mr. G. Moody financial trustee, and Mr. H. M'Evoy auditor. A ballot for the executive resulted in the following being elected:—Messrs. A. E. Johns (Sawmill Employees), T. Archer (Plasterers), C. Ripper (Pastrycooks), G. Allen (Bakers), T. W. Kelsey (Hairdressers), H. Cave (Boilermakers), J. B. Gove (Plumbers).

OPPRESSIVE HEAT.

REMARKABLE HUMIDITY.

SYDNEY'S EXPERIENCE.

The heat in Sydney during the last couple of days has been particularly trying, and according to to-day's forecast we have not yet reached the end of the sultry spell.

The temperatures in the city have been far from high, the maximum yesterday being only 86.1 degrees. The oppressive nature of the weather was due to extraordinary humidity, 90 per cent. being recorded on Sunday night and again at 9 p.m. last night.

According to the Commonwealth Meteorological Bureau, Sydney has occupied a unique position between two depressions, one on the north being monsoonal and the other Antarctic. This dual influence was productive of a sultriness in the city, during both day and night, which fortunately is rarely so severely felt.

During Sunday and yesterday the temperature ranged chiefly between 70 and 86 degrees, while the relative humidity remained consistently over 70 per cent., and increasing to as much as 90 per cent. As illustrating the almost intolerable feeling created by these conditions, it may be stated that a room of 15 x 15 x 10 feet, at a temperature of 70 degrees, and a relative humidity of 90 per cent., as was actually the case, would contain 150lb of moisture-laden air, or 2.3lb of actual water.

The Japanese sailors at present visiting the city felt the heat very trying yesterday, and provided themselves with water bottles, which they carried on a strap slung across the shoulders.

MONSOONAL RAINS.

FURTHER EXTENSIVE FALLS.

Since 9 a.m. Saturday the monsoonal rainstorm has extended eastward to the coast of New South Wales, light to heavy amounts being recorded generally over the eastern half. The heaviest fall was 271 points at Walcha. Narrabri had 207, Bingara 200, Bundarra 193, Bulahdelah 183, Barraba 182, Werris Creek 177, Murrurundi 173, Scone 168, Boggabri 170, Blackville 153, Coolah 158, Warialda 145, Inverell 146, Tamworth 140, Hay 141, Nimitybelle 122, Nundle 121, Bundella 135, Yetman 118, Bendemeer 115, Wollongong 124, Merriwa 115, Coonabarabran 109, Kempsey 105, Cassilis 106, and Dubbo 100. The remainder were all less than 100 points, although many in various parts of the State exceeded 50 points. On the north-west slope the precipitation was general; the individual amounts varying between 65 and 200 points at Manilla and Bingara respectively. The rain also extended to parts of the north coast, and further good amounts were received on central coastal areas, and at places in metropolitan and South Coast districts.

At 9 a.m. yesterday it was chiefly fine and clear generally, except cloudy or scattered clouds at places in the south-west, south, and along the coast. Sultriness was a marked feature throughout the State, the temperatures being again very uniform. The midday readings were mostly in the 80 and 90 degrees, and the night registrations in the sixties and seventies.

ALLEGED INCENDIARISM.

FIRE AT HABERFIELD.

An inquiry was held at the Ashfield Police Court, before Mr. D. S. Maitland, District Coroner, as to the origin of a fire which occurred at a fish shop at Ramsay-road, Haberfield, on the 3rd inst. George Henry Basmann (40), who had been remanded on a charge of setting fire to the building, was present at the inquiry.

Chief Fireman Turner said that he found fires burning under the staircase, on the landing, and in the pantry. Under the staircase he picked up a piece of bagging, which smelt strongly of kerosene. In the holes in the floor of the kitchen and laundry he also found pieces of wood, shavings, and bagging, all smelling of kerosene. In the bedroom and on the landing there were also evidences of kerosene. A leaden gas pipe was leaking, and gas escaping therefrom.

The furniture and effects were insured for £150, and the building for £500.

The Coroner found that the premises were damaged by fire on February 2, and that they were feloniously and maliciously set on fire by George Henry Basmann, and he committed him to take his trial at the Quarter Sessions. Bail was allowed, self in £100, or two sureties in £50 each.

REFUSED TO WORK.

PAINTERS AND DOCKERS' DISPUTE.

Some trouble was experienced yesterday morning at Woolwich Dock, with the painters and dockers, as a result of which the Union Company's steamer Maheno had to be taken out of dock unpainted.

It appears that the Maheno was placed in dock yesterday morning in order to be painted. The difficulty arose over a question as to who had let the water out of the dock. The result was that the painters refused to proceed with the painting of the Maheno, and it was found necessary to remove the steamer from the dock.

It was at first feared the painters might adopt the same attitude towards other steamers, but this was not the case, and work was proceeded with. The Maheno, however, remained unpainted for the day.

WHEN THE FAT LADY HEARD THE PARSON PRAY.

An undeniably fat woman, hearing her clergyman pray for "those afflicted in mind, body, or estate," murmured despairingly, "I shouldn't mind my looks if my fat didn't affect my health so much." No woman can be healthy and be fat too. Excess fat causes all manner of distressing, not to say positively dangerous heart troubles and stomach troubles. Acute Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Heartburn, Difficulty of Breathing, Palpitation of the Heart, and Innumerable Other Ailments can be directly traced to the injurious effects of excess fat. Yet nobody need be troubled with one of these corpulency complaints a day longer unless they choose. FORMETTES, the world-famed fat reducer, will speedily banish every ailment from which fat folks suffer by removing those injurious juices from the system which are the cause of excess fat forming. Formettes reduce Fat easily, quickly, safely, and permanently without any exercising or dieting—they actually increase the appetite while decreasing the weight, and as the fat disappears so does every bodily ailment which the excess fat has caused. Thousands of formerly fat persons of both sexes will gladly testify to the almost incalculable benefit they have derived from a course of these marvellous little tablets. If you are a sufferer from obesity ills of any description try just one carton, and be convinced. Formettes are sold by all chemists in the Commonwealth and most drapery stores, at 3/3 per carton. ## RAILWAYS AND TRAMWAYS

AMALGAMATED CONFERENCE.

POLITICAL ISSUES AHEAD.

The annual conference of the Amalgamated Railway and Tramway Employees' Federation was opened at the Trades Hall yesterday, there being about 100 delegates present.

The president, Mr. E. D. Campbell, stated in his opening address that the association had been vigilant and active, and the membership had increased during the year by 3000. The A.W.U. was the largest in the State, but this union, with 14,155 members, came a good second. It was a pity, however, that even yet they, as employees, had not joined hands in one great union. Dealing with the cancellation of the registration of the union, the president said: "Two things stand out clearly, namely, the 'dog-eat-dog' policy of certain other unions, and the solidarity and loyalty of our own members. It was to my mind a disgraceful thing to witness unions and their hired officials seeking to damage, and even destroy another body, when such difficulty, and through such causes, confront-ed us. But the introduction of these capitalistic commercial tactics, which would do credit to anti-socialism, but which violate the very basis and spirit of unionism, have affected us but very little. Our great and scattered membership has stood singularly loyal and oblivious of the entreaties and enticements of the anti-social unionists referred to. We hope to vindicate ourselves before the Supreme Court during the next few days. But anyhow delegates will find that all emergencies are well covered."

POLITICAL ACTION.

At the last conference the association had declared for more participation in the political Labour movement. Members should, the chairman suggested, link themselves up with the various Labour leagues in order to take their full share and responsibility in the selection of candidates and the campaigning work to follow.

Speaking of the referendum, the chairman said:—"The referendum, which affects us so vitally as citizens, and so particularly as railway and tramway employees, is an especial reason why our members should become more than usually active politically. The Federal Parliament is asking us to vote ourselves the right to go to the Federal Arbitration Court. It is very desirable, indeed, that we should have this right, and every effort should be made to secure an affirmative vote."

WAGES AND HOURS.

The hon. general secretary, Mr. J. H. Catts, M.P., in his report, commented upon wages and hours in the following terms:—

"As the result of lengthy negotiations with the Government, the association has secured an 8s per day minimum wage for application throughout the service. This is now in force, with the exception of the positions of some 80 men, and it is regrettable indeed that in these few cases the Chief Commissioner has not seen fit to give effect to the policy of the State Government. In regard to hours, we had hoped that an Eight-hour Bill would have been brought in ere this, but we have the consolation in the promise of the Government to pass this measure next session. We are, therefore, living in the hope that the 9, 10, and 12 hour shifts in the service will be abolished for ever this year.

Commenting on wages boards, the secretary said:—

In regard to the clerical board, we are able to inform those concerned that this work will go on again in the near future. As to the other boards, we are able to state that everything in the way of submitting claims and evidence to all boards will be sent to the members of the association. These matters will be fully explained to delegates. It is not considered wise to publish details at present.

In respect to the wages board clause, the conference, by 61 to 19 votes, passed a resolution asking the executive not to submit claims or evidence to the Traffic Railway Wages Board as at present constituted. It was pointed out that Mr. H. M. Hamilton, the chairman of that board, had said that the association could submit claims and evidence if it so desired.

Many matters contained in the secretary's report have yet to be dealt with. The net balance of head office funds at December 31, 1911, was £354, and at December 12, 1912, £204 6s 1d, or a shrinkage of £150. The head office income, being metropolitan subscriptions and allowances from country branches, was, for 1911, £3092, whilst for 1912 it was £4447. The expenditure for 1912 for head office was, therefore, £1505 more than in 1911. Of this, £650 represents increased cost of the "Cooperator," due to increased membership, leaving £857 additional expenditure in head office in carrying out its part of the association's work in salaries, legal expenses, rent, and collectors' commissions, over £400 more was paid away in 1912 than in 1911.

The conference will be continued at the Trades Hall at 9 a.m. to-day.

FEDERAL ELECTIONS.

MACQUARIE LABOUR COUNCIL.

The monthly meeting of the Macquarie Federal Labour Council was held at Lithgow on Saturday. The chief business dealt with was the nomination of candidates to contest the ballot for selection in the Labour interest. There were two nominations—E. S. Carr, M.P., and G. Dunn, Lithgow. It was decided to hold the ballot as soon as possible. Mr. W. Reamer was elected returning officer for the ballot by the council. Great efforts are to be made to perfect the organisation of Labour interests in the Macquarie Federal electorate, as it is recognised that there is a hard fight ahead.

BY THE BYE! THESE ARE THE LAST DAYS OF SNOWS' SUMMER SALE.

"SKOOT." Slangy, but expressive. In effect, that's exactly what we have said to all remaining Stock. Stocktaking in this department has been completed. For balancing purposes most of the goods—though clean, fresh, and desirable—have been reckoned in at ridiculous prices. Now, we're going to clear them out at "Skoot" prices. As our Manager said, "This is the time if women only knew it when it doesn't pay to hold the buying hand back." Upstairs the New Season's Goods are being unpacked—another reason why Summer Stocks at

THEY PROMOTE HEALTH—

Piles should be treated in the incipient stage, otherwise they may become so serious as to necessitate a surgical operation. At the first indication of the presence of this terrible ailment, Murphy's Pile Pills should be used. They free the system of all impurities, heal the affected parts, and restore good health once more. They relieve congestion, diminish swelling, quickly dissipate that awful sense of irritation and itching, and cure, not temporarily, but permanently.

Price, 3/ per box, post free. Full directions and testimonials accompany each box. If not obtainable locally, order direct from the Sole Proprietors—

A NEW SKIN FOR 3/9.
To the Dermal Institute,
Brisbane.
Dear Mdm'selle.—
"If ever it is my good fortune to meet you I shall deem it an honour to be able to thank you personally for conferring the benefit upon women you have done in producing such an invaluable freckle and tan preparation as Thermol. I have been freckled for 11 years, and what haven't I tried to clear my skin? I've rubbed on this, that, and the other thing—I've tried every remedy I've been told of. I've tried massage—and, in the end I had to give up being bare. Freckles and a really dull brown complexion ... used to just smother me; then in a powder when I went out, but what was the use? I could not wear evening dress because of my brown and freckled arms and shoulders. You see, I'm an enthusiastic tennis player and surfer. And then I used Thermol. In a week every freckle and trace of tan on my face went—in a fortnight my arms and hands were as clear as a child's, and now my sister is going to the rest for her tan. I had her brown spots, too, on my face, and now they've all gone. As the makers of this splendid, I ... freckle and tan preparation, you deserve the thanks of every woman and girl who loves ... a white skin. Yours very truly——"
Thermol for freckles and tan, 3/9 (postage 6d), only from Durno, Ltd., Chemists, Pitt-street, Sydney; and the Dermal Institute, ... Physician, Queen-street, Brisbane. You should just ... no man, to move the ...
